VOLPE'S MESSAGE DRAWS MIXED REACTION

GOVERNOR VOLPE'S annual message to the Legislature received mixed reaction from the lawmakers yesterday, with Republicans saying he was demonstrating determination to "attack every impediment to progress that confronts us." But Democrats, while applauding the governor's appraisal of progress and achievement last year, noted that Volpe revealed "a tendency to evade and defer" important issues by calling for further study.

Senate President Maurice Donahue and House Speaker Robert H. Quinn said in a joint statement that "government by study commission is no substitute for effective, executive leadership."

BAY STATE GETS $22.5 MILLION FOR HIGHWAYS

U.S. HIGHWAY FUNDS amounting to $22,495,000 was allocated to Massachusetts as the federal Transportation Dept. freed $1.1 billion for the states, leaving unfulfilled an earlier implied threat to trim the program in an economy move.

The funds will enable Massachusetts and the other states to schedule projects and let contracts for the first three months of the year ending March 31, and to reimburse contractors for work already performed. Affected are construction projects for interstate highways and state primary and secondary roads.

SEN. BROOKE TAKES SHOTS FOR AFRICAN TRIP

SEN. EDWARD W. BROOKE entered Bethesda Naval Hospital yesterday for a physical examination prior to his 25-day African tour. Brooke is scheduled to leave Jan. 12 on the trip.

He expects to leave the hospital after receiving a series of tests and anti-bacterial shots. Brooke is making the tour on behalf of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee of which he is a member. The senator will stop in 11 countries.

MORE SNOW - MAYBE RAIN - EXPECTED TONIGHT

The Weatherman this morning was predicting more snow for the Greater Boston area tonight but held some hope that the precipitation will turn to rain. Then early tomorrow morning the storm will turn back to snow before ending. He expected a low front the Southwest to be off the northeast coast by early tonight.

The return of Arctic breezes and temperatures flirting with zero is expected tomorrow and tomorrow night, but the skies should be clear.

RED CHINA WARNS U.S. ON CAMBODIA 'PURSUIT'

COMMUNIST CHINA said yesterday it would be "closely watching" for American troops to enter Cambodia in pursuit of Vietnamese Communists. It warned that if they do so, Peking "will not look on with folded arms."

A formal statement issued by the Chinese Foreign Ministry ignored Cambodian Chief of State Norodom Sihanouk's recent declaration that he would allow Americans to enter sparsely populated border areas in pursuit of Viet Cong or North Vietnamese seeking sanctuary.

NEW 'HEART MAN' KEPT IN STERILIZED ISOLATION

DR. PHILIP BLAIBERG yesterday spoke his first words since receiving the heart of a 24-year-old colored man. An "optimistic" heart transplant team kept the dentist, in sterilized isolation, cautiously protecting him from any risk of pneumonia infection.

Blaiberg, the world's third heart transplant patient, awoke from a heavy sedation and told doctors, "I am thirsty. Please give me water to my wife." The latest medical bulletin on the 58-year-old retired dentist said Blaiberg was "fully conscious and in good condition."

SWEDEN GIVES ASYLUM TO ANOTHER GI DESERTER

SWEDISH GOVERNMENT SOURCES said yesterday in Stockholm that an American GI has asked for political asylum in Sweden, the seventh U.S. serviceman to seek refuge from the Vietnam war. The sources identified the newest GI as Mitchell Hair. The sources said his file had been listed as "classified" at his own request.

In Heidelberg, Germany, the U.S. Army said that a Pvt. Michael David Haire, 19, of Beaufort, S.C., has been absent without leave from his unit at Mannheim, Germany, since last Aug. 23.

CENTURY-OLD MANCHESTER, N. H., SPAN CLOSED

THE CENTURY-OLD Amoskeag Bridge across the Merrimack River in Manchester, N.H., has been closed to all traffic "in the interest of safety." An engineer from a Boston consulting firm recommended the action, said City Surveyor Robert J. Caron. The 754-foot long truss bridge was closed to all but cars and pickup trucks Dec. 29. A pier at midstream is badly damaged.

3,000 BIRDS KILLED BY OIL Slick IN MAINE

RESCUE WORKERS in Maine continued cleansing oil-drenched sea birds yesterday while the Coast Guard sent planes aloft to help locate the slick which was crippling the fowl. Audubon Society officials, who visited Rams Island and Peaks Island in Casco Bay, said up to 3,000 birds may have died because of the oil slick. Only 76 had been saved, officials said.

Christopher Packard head of the society, said the birds were covered with crude oil. The polluted area stretched about 30 miles, from Cape Neddick to Cape Elizabeth.

MARINE BOSS RAPS VIET CONG TRUCE TRICKERY

THE NEW MARINE COMMANDANT, Gen. Leonard F. Chapman, suggested yesterday that the Communists may have taken advantage of the New Year's cease-fire to move rockets into position to shell a U.S. base in Vietnam. Chapman told a news conference that he is "wondering" at the fact that Viet Cong were able to use the Soviet-built rockets to attack the Da Nang air base as soon as the truce expired.

"There are obvious military disadvantages to a truce," he commented.

COUPLE LOSES ALL 10 BABIES BORN IN PAST 18 YEARS

A MEDICAL EXAMINER in Philadelphia was investigating today the death of an infant boy whose life was taken as mysteriously and tragically as those of his nine brothers and sisters in the past 18 years. None lived 14 months.

Previous investigations and intensive pathological studies in the past have failed to provide conclusive answers in the deaths of the children of Arthur Noe, 46, and his wife, Marie, 39.

Mayor Basbas Launches Second Term With Warning Of Soaring Tax Rate

A warning that Newton will face a tax rate of over $100 in 1970 "if we don't do something — and do it soon," was sounded by Mayor Monte G. Basbas in his inaugural address at City Hall on New Year's Day as he began his second term as the city's chief municipal executive.

Basbas did not specify exactly what he believes should be done to avoid a $100 tax rate, but it was obvious from his remarks that he considered holding down the amount of money the city must pay for the operation of its public school system one of the steps which must be taken.

The Mayor referred to the fact that this year's school budget will be 13 per cent — or close to $2 million — greater than in 1967, boosting it from $15,034,089 to $17,024,856.

He pointed out that school operating costs, exclusive of construction and building maintenance, rose from $7,290,016 in 1959 to $15,034,089 in 1967, an increase of 106 per cent in that eight-year span.

"Now we must recognize that great changes have taken place in education — perhaps more so than in any other field," Mayor

Basbas told the audience at his inaugural ceremonies. "We must also remember that more is expected of it in terms of the future than any other of the services our city provides.

"But, on the basis of these figures, it does not appear to me that we have been neglecting education in Newton when, in 1968 we will invest in it as much as the total city budget — including education — was in 1958," Basbas continued.

"For this reason, I say we must pause here and now and make a decision as to how much we can afford, for what and when," the Mayor asserted.

"It is my belief," he said, "that value judgments must be made on our ability to pay — your ability and mine."

Mayor Basbas urged Newton citizens to write to city officials, including members of the School Committee, concerning their evaluations of municipal expenditures which he discussed in some detail in his address.

Aldermen Join Many In Plowing Protest

Three members of the Board of Aldermen yesterday sharply criticized the poor snow-plowing job done by the city during the storms of last Thursday and New Year's Eve.

Aldermen Sidney T. Small, H. James Shea, Jr., and Alan S. Barkin also filed an order yesterday seeking an investigation by the Aldermanic Public Works Committee of all municipal policies relating to snow plowing and removal.

The three Aldermen reported that they had received many complaints concerning inadequately plowed streets, particularly from residents in the Newton Corner, Newton Centre and Oak Hill areas.

Numerous protests also were lodged with the Graphic by residents, especially in the Newton Centre and Oak Hill areas, some of whom declared the plowing job done on their

Winter Dog Racing Solution To Problem Of New Stadium

A simple solution exists to the problem of building a sports stadium in the Boston area. It has been there all along, but high state officials for reasons best known to themselves have chosen to disregard it.

That is to construct a covered stadium and to allow winter dog-racing in it.

William A. Lincoln of Newton, well known financier who heads a responsible private group which wants to erect a stadium, brought this out months ago.

Lincoln declared last March that a domed stadium would be self-supporting and pay its own way if dog-racing were staged in it during the winter months between the football and baseball seasons.

Experts who looked into the matter found that Lincoln was probably right. But nothing was done about it at that time.

New Art Program Set For Community Center

The Newton Community Center announced today the formation of a new art program to be taught by guest artists from Boston in six new fields: mobiles, abstract and non-objective painting, additive and subtractive sculpture, collage and assemblage, creative stitching and applique, and printmaking.

The unusual nature of this program allows the student to experiment in all of these fields over a period of 13 lessons. The program is designed for adults who like to "dabble", i.e., people who like to explore new artistic media without spending intensive periods of time studying in any one area.

It is geared to the amateur, but students, parents and teachers who would like new art experiences to use in group, home or school situations are encouraged to attend.

The program, which gives each adult a chance to experiment with a variety of creative techniques and media will be held on Wednesday mornings from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. It will begin on Jan. 31 but advanced registration is necessary. Babysitting will be available at a nominal charge.

Interested adults are urged to contact the Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry St., West Newton (244-2260) for further information. The Center wishes to announce that this group of artists and teachers may not be available again, and it is possible that this course will not be repeated.

PIERRE OF THE HIGHLANDS

Efficiency in the kitchen is important not only in saving yourself work but also in developing poise and self-confidence. Good management enables you to accomplish more in less time and with less effort. Bringing several needed supplies from the storage area on the same trip, saving yourself from wiping up spills by not filling utensils too full, and handling sharp knives carefully to avoid cut fingers are simple ways to save yourself work. Moving a flour or sugar canister to the work area, instead of making several trips for the needed amounts is another way. You become a good manager, not by chance but by learning all phases of the task.

After all your tasks are completed, it's fun to come to THE HIGHLANDS Happy Hour... Your favorite cocktail for only 75c in the unique Cork and Bottle Lounge... Every day from 4:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. And we serve complimentary hot and cold hors d'oeuvres continuously. ## Mayor -

He also suggested that the School Committee give serious consideration to the recommendation that Newton Junior College be transferred to the State Board of Community Colleges.

The Mayor discussed the progress achieved during his first term in office and his hopes and plans for the next two years.

Basbas declared that police protection in Newton was improved during the past two years.

"We have stemmed the rising tide of burglaries and other crimes against our citizens," he stated. "We added 27 police officers to the force, increased the number of police cruisers, installed a new and modern radio system and, for the first time, introduced the use of walkie-talkies for patrolmen."

Mayor Basbas predicted that ground will be broken in the spring for the $15 million air rights development over the toll road in Newton Corner.

However, he said his present disposition is to recommend that urban renewal in Newton Corner "be postponed until such time as we can assess the impact of the air rights development of the area."

Members of the incoming Board of Aldermen and School Committee and about 200 other citizens listened attentively as the Mayor disclosed his intention of developing a meaningful recreational and cultural program for teenagers of the city when they are not in school.

He said he will request students in the junior and senior high schools as well as representatives of the school and recreation departments and some parents to serve on a select committee which would develop such a program.

"1. Fully investigate the municipal policies and practices which led up to the patently inadequate removal of snow from the storms of Thursday and Friday, December 28th and 29th and Sunday and Monday, December 31st, 1967, and January 1st, 1968;

"2. Investigate the manner and process by which the City awards contracts to private parties for assistance in snow removal. The Public Works Committee is ordered to determine who has the present contracts, how these contracts were awarded, whether by open, competitive public bid, or by negotiated contract, and how the contractors' work and equipment are supervised on the job;

"3. To determine whether, and to what extent, there exists an equipment shortage in the city and if so, why; and

"4. To thoroughly investigate the utilization of rubbish equipment for snow removal, and the efficiency of the transfer of such equipment usage."

Upon completion of their investigation, the committee members are instructed in the order to make a complete report to the Board of Aldermen with recommendations on how snow removal in Newton may be made more efficient, speedy and economical.

Small, Shea and Barkin stressed that the purpose of their order "is to emphasize policy review."

"We acknowledge and appreciate the hard work, sincerity and devotion of our city snow-removal employees who are called upon to serve their community at all hours under adverse conditions and who were asked to spend their New Year holiday in the service of the city," the three Aldermen stated.

A Poor Plowing Job

More complaints were received at the Graphic concerning the poor plowing job done in sections of Newton during last Thursday night's storm than in any storm in the past decade.

Spot checks by Graphic reporters on Friday and Saturday indicated that the complaints were justified and that an unusually poor plowing job had been done in some areas, especially on secondary streets in parts of Newton Centre.

Those streets were not plowed as well as were comparable nearby streets in Brookline and Boston, causing varying degrees of inconvenience for persons living on them.

These facts are not cited for the purpose of embarrassing or harassing Newton public officials but rather to make certain that a check is made to ascertain exactly what went wrong last Thursday night and that steps are taken to assure there will be no repetition of the sorry snow plowing work.

Parked cars at times hamper plowing operations, but there appears to be no justification whatever for the unusually poor job done a week ago.

The Underworld Blueprint

Among the many problems facing Mayor Kevin H. White in the administration of the New Boston during the next four years is the major factor of crime. Big time crime. The type of crime that has strewn the streets with the blood of 48 victims of gangland guns.

Just this week, the first week of 1968, police intelligence sources revealed that a master underworld plan is in the process of being blueprinted for control of the rackets in Boston. In the course of ironing out the bugs in the blueprint, four men were murdered, all within the past month.

Even as there has been a change in the administration of the city, so too has there been a change in the administration of crime in the city and its environs. According to police information, two separate underworld groups have devised a plan to split Greater Boston's lucrative racketeering intake.

Investigators feel that the real power struggle is over. Under the plan of operation, which was formulated at a series of meetings on the second floor of a downtown night club, two gang leaders will head their own sections.

The twice-weekly organizational meetings were held between 4 a.m. and 6 a.m. during the past several months. The master plan evolved at those meetings gives the two top racketeers absolute control of their agreed upon areas. They have appointed "captains" to supervise districts in the areas.

While police are fully aware of the gangland operation, they are unable to cope with the underworld machinations. Without concrete evidence, they are helpless. If they made arrests, they would be laughed out of court. Then, too, the criminals are receiving the whole-hearted support of a big segment of the public.

Without the nickels, dimes and dollars the public pours into the numbers pool, off-track betting, football pools, etc., crime would be curtailed.

So, the problem is not only Kevin White's and the police, it is a problem for all of us.

TEACHER SPEAKS

Editor of The Graphic:

I am a social studies teacher at Newton High School and a signer of the Viet Nam ad. In your issue of 28 December you carried a very provocative letter from David A. Lurensky. The writer questioned the propriety of including in our high school newspapers a paid advertisement opposing America's current policy in Viet Nam. The writer asserted that such an advertisement "may be viewed as a violation of the teacher-student relationship." He goes on to say that "the 'dissenting' teachers have shown a lack of good judgment in exceeding their academic obligations and in venturing into a questionable area for their efforts to propagandize their students."

I should be interested to know the limits of our academic obligations. Does your writer suggest that the "academic" must include nothing that is currently controversial? What does he mean by "academic"?

Show me a group of teachers who are willing to take a public stand — whether in a high school paper or in the public press — and I'll show you an exciting, innovating, and humanistic school. As for our "propaganda" (a loaded word), high school students may agree with it, disagree with it, or ignore it; my student are probably split evenly the three ways. They are not dry sponges ready to pick up any and all ideas presented. High school students are becoming adults, they deserve adults for teachers, and they should be confronted with adult issues — the Viet Nam one above all, because so many of our students will be going.

Mr. Lurensky states that "the majority of Newton's School department evidently differs from those who advertised their 'dissent.'" Should space now be taken by the majority to publicize its opinion? Of course, Mr. Lurensky.

John M. Livingston,
348 Central Street,
Aurndale.

Defends Newton Schools

Editor,
Newton Graphic:

Messrs. Daniels and Lurensky are unhappy with our schools. Mr. Daniels thinks our schools cost too much, and Mr. Lurensky is concerned because 193 teachers and staff members treated our high school students with dignity and respect and addressed a message to them about one of our major problems, Vietnam, through a paid advertisement in the high school newspapers.

Like so many others who have complained about the cost of schools, Mr. Daniels spoke only in generalities. One would think that by this time the critics of our schools would tell us how the schools can spend less money while maintaining their quality. The critics' failure to be specific after so many years of complaining leads me to conclude that, like the school administrators, the critics don't have the answer to this problem.

Unfortunately, our school department has not been able to immunize itself from the effects of the long-run inflation which has made all other aspects of our lives more expensive. In order to be able to attract and retain qualified teachers, our schools must continue to increase salaries. The cost of supplies rises for schools as it does for all of us. If Newton's education is not to become outmoded in a rapidly changing world, we must spend money in changing curricula and teaching methods. Would Mr. Daniels prefer that our schools not try to attain the best in education?

Our schools are of importance to all of us and not merely to those with children in school. The complexity of the world and the importance of our country's role in it are such that to provide less than the best in education is to invite catastrophe. Certainly, a nation which can afford to spend billions in the attempt to place men on the moon and to build a supersonic passenger plane cannot be heard to say that it cannot afford to attempt to create an educational system suited to our needs.

Just as Mr. Daniels would like the schools to act as if there were no inflation, so Mr. Lurensky would like them to ignore the world of controversy in which they exist. Respective of whether the teachers and staff members who signed the Vietnam advertisement are right or wrong in their views on Vietnam, they discharged their responsibilities as educators in exemplary fashion because they demonstrated that there is a meaningful connection between studies and the world into which one emerges when one's formal education is completed. Good education is not irrelevant, and it leads those who have benefited from their education to participate in the resolutions of the important issues of their time. This is what a advertisement showed, and it did so with dignity and with respect for high school students as persons vitally interested in the Vietnam issue and able to participate in an important national debate.

I think that the 193 teachers and staff members should be congratulated for their courage and the responsibility with which they discharged their roles as educators.

JOSHUA A. GUBERMAN,

Political Highlights

Certain spokesmen for the dog track interests, who want no competition even when they themselves are not operating, flexed their political muscles and growled that there would be no winter dog racing in Massachusetts.

Incredible as it may seem, some public officials appeared to assume that pronouncement settled the matter.

The dog racing operators have considerably more political muscle than the average citizen realizes, but it's doubtful that they have enough to block a sports stadium if it comes down to a choice between a sports stadium with winter dog racing and no stadium at all. And that eventually may be the choice.

However much the dog track interests might like to maintain a closed corporation, the fact is that they do not determine how many days of dog racing will be sanctioned in Massachusetts or where the racing will be allowed.

As matters presently stand, after years of talk about the need for a modern sports stadium, the stadium proposal is dead for the present and probably dead for all time unless some way can be found to build the sports complex at no cost to the citizens in other sections of the Commonwealth who have no interest in whether a stadium is erected or not.

Winter dog-racing, added to baseball, football, soccer and whatever other miscellaneous events the stadium operators could attract, probably would produce enough revenue to meet the interest and principal payments on a loan floated to build a stadium.

Here's how the stadium proposition shapes up: The Boston Patriots will move to another city within two years if the talk about building a stadium does not crystallize into action during 1968.

While the Red Sox probably will remain in Boston as long as Tom Yawkey is alive, it is extremely doubtful that they would stay in antiquated Fenway Park when Yawkey no longer is on the scene.

Despite this and despite the fact that new stadiums have been and are being built in other cities throughout the United States which merely hope to attract major league sports teams, there is no real prospect of a new stadium being constructed in Boston.

Sports fans, including Governor John A. Volpe and Mayor Kevin H. White, might just as well face up now to the fact that any bill pledging the state's credit behind the construction of a sports stadium will fail to obtain the two-thirds vote needed for passage in each of the two legislative branches.

If a new stadium is built, it will be either by the City of Boston, the Metropolitan District Commission or by a group of private citizens.

We become irritated at the would create a serious traffic problem.

The Lincoln group last March picked a stadium site at the Dedham-Needham line but backed away then under a bombardment of protests.

About the only suggested stadium location in the Greater Boston area to which there is no public objection is the one near the South Station. Lincoln said last March his engineers had informed him it would be too expensive to build the stadium there.

The same thing, Lincoln declared at that time, was true of the Fenway section of Boston.

All this adds up to the conclusion that if a new sports stadium is to be built in the Boston area, it will be built by Boston Mayor Kevin H. White, not by Governor Volpe, not by the Turnpike Authority, not by any private group.

White already is confronted with so many problems that he's not likely to be enthusiastic about taking on any more.

But he would relish even less the idea of being Boston's Mayor when it slipped from the status of major league sports city to minor league town.

Mayor White probably could erect a new stadium at no actual cost to Boston if he steps into the breach, declares himself ready to build a stadium and insists that the Legislature authorize winter dog racing in area who fear the presence of the stadium to help meet expenses in their section penses.

If White does not do that, the likelihood is we'll have a lot of talk and no action for another year.

Ted On Mission To South Vietnam

More than any other public official in Washington, Senator Edward M. Kennedy has been responsible for the improved and expanded program for the care of Vietnamese civilians who are wounded in the fighting in their country.

The program is still grossly inadequate by any measuring stick, but Ted Kennedy has succeeded in boosting the Vietnam aid budget from $5 million to $60 million a year.

Ted is now back in Vietnam, and in his capacity as chairman of the Senate Refugee Subcommittee is checking on the U.S. program for aiding Vietnamese civilians.

His conclusions and findings will be of great importance and could help or hurt President Johnson substantially in an election year.

Ted was hoodwinked when he visited Vietnam on a similar mission after the close of the 1965 congressional session.

He was escorted on an inspection tour of a refugee camp which was in fine condition and contained excellent accommodations.

It wasn't until some time after his visit that Ted learned that the camp was principally built and inhabited for his benefit and that even the new blankets the refugees enjoyed when he saw them were taken away from them shortly after he left.

Ted is taking no chances on something like that happening again. He sent a four-man team to Vietnam ahead of him to make certain no shows are staged for his benefit.

Relations between Ted Kennedy and President Johnson are much more cordial than those between Bobby Kennedy and the President even though Ted has politely but firmly knocked down suggestions that he run as a stand-in candidate for LBJ in the Massachusetts Presidential Primary next April 30.

But Ted has gradually become more outspoken in his criticism of the war in Vietnam.

When he returned from his trip to Vietnam about two years ago, Ted was extremely moderate in his criticism of the program for treating wounded civilians there. He may be less restrained this time.

A strongly critical report could hurt President Johnson severely.

Americans may differ sharply on the conduct of the war in Vietnam, with some maintaining that the war should be escalated and others insisting that bombing raids and sweep-and-kill missions should be eliminated.

But there is not likely to be any difference in public opinion about our responsibility to provide care for a child, caught in the crossfire of war and cruelly burned by napalm. That, basically, is one of the things Ted Kennedy is talking about.

LBJ's Plans Seen Uncertain

This writer talked at length recently with several Washington newsmen. All of them were uncertain whether President Johnson will stand for reelection to another term.

Some of them predicted that Mr. Johnson will retire from office at the end of this year unless the polls show a substantial rise in his popularity.

They believe that the proud Johnson will run again only if he is convinced he would win.

Robert F. Kennedy is seen as the likely Democratic candidate for President if LBJ should decide to step out.

Romney May Enter Bay State Primary

Both Democratic and Republican leaders are uncertain as to who may wind up fighting whom when the Presidential Primaries are held in Massachusetts next April 10.

GOP chieftains have been assuming that Governor Volpe would run as a favorite son candidate in his home state and would be unopposed.

It now develops that Michigan's Governor George Romney has never made any commitment to stay out of the Massachusetts Presidential Primary.

Romney would be taking quite a risk if he were to challenge Volpe in the latter's own state. But the hard fact is that Romney's presidential prospects have been sinking at a rate which may force him to take a calculated gamble in his efforts to salvage them.

Finishes Marine Combat Training

Marine Private First Class Kenneth A. Drucker has now completed a two week course of training under simulated combat conditions in the fundamentals of day and night patrolling, survival methods and assault tactics at Camp Lejeune, N.C. He is scheduled to go on to more advanced training before permanent assignment.

Taught by combat experienced non-commissioned officers, the course prepares the young Leatherneck to become part of the Marine air-ground combat team. While in the field he was taught to use hand grenades, a compass and the principals of map reading and land navigation. Mine detection and disarming, and booby traps, were part of the training some of which was carried on while exposed to live machine gun fire while advancing from one point to another.

Pvt. Drucker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving N. Drucker of 66 Marlboro street, Newton, and husband of the former Miss Marla S. Lazarus of New York.

Under the provisions of a new law covering Presidential Primaries in this state, however, Volpe might well be in a position to boobytrap Romney and make things even worse for him.

Romney must submit 2500 valid signatures of Republican voters by next Feb. 27 in order to have his name printed on the GOP Presidential Primary ballot.

But Republican State Committee Chairman Josiah Spaulding has until March 5 to place the name or names of anyone he wishes on the same ballot. Spaulding, of course, will do precisely what Volpe wants him to do.

If Romney insists on running in Massachusetts, Volpe either could meet him head-on with a good chance of winning or could step aside and back former President Richard M. Nixon against Romney.

That may not sound entirely plausible, but some persons close to Volpe declare that it could happen.

Nixon already has indicated he would not contest with Volpe in Massachusetts.

Volpe probably could defeat Romney if he chose to make the fight himself. Nixon also would be favored over Romney if he has the support of the Volpe organization.

The Bay State picture is hardly an attractive one from Romney's standpoint.

The situation on the Democratic side of the fence is getting sillier all the time.

A number of well known Democratic figures reportedly have volunteered to serve as stand-ins for President Johnson in the Presidential Primary.

All of them obviously are hopeful that they could promote some political ballyhoo for themselves by running as substitute candidates for the President.

The ironical part of it all is that Massachusetts for the first time has a meaningful Presidential Primary law and that a number of Democratic leaders are fully prepared to make a mockery of it if it would give them any political advantage to do so.

Biggest Eastern National Park

FLAMINGO, Fla. (UPI)—Only six of the country's 32 National Parks are located on the continental United States east of the Mississippi River. Largest of these is Everglades National Park, a 1,400,533-acre wildlife sanctuary covering the southernmost portion of the Florida mainland. Major vacation facilities in the preserve are at Flamingo.

Tiger Gym Team Beats Needham

Junior Jim Battista placed first in one event and second in three others to lead the Newton High gymnastics team to its second straight triumph of the year, 96.35 to 92.8, over Needham High on December 19 at Needham.

Battista, Bill Henry, and Mike Boyajian were the only Tiger winners in the meet but Newton's strong showing in the first four events was enough to stave off a Needham rally.

Battista won parallel bars with a 6.4 score, and was runnerup in side horse, long horse vaulting, and rings. Henry took floor exercise with a 5.9, and senior Steve Clancy was second with 5.7. Boyajian scored 5.45 in winning side horse.

The track squad rebounded after losing to Waltham to trounce Rindge Tech High, 74-12, last Saturday.

The Tigers won nine of the 10 events in handing the Technicians their third straight setback. Ned Epstein (300) and Don McMillen (dash), and Chris Quinn (hurdles), were double winners for Newton. All three were members of the victorious relay team.

Newton swept two events, the 1000 and the shot put. Ken Prince, Chuck Raffel, Tom Best were 1-2-3 in the 1000 and Robbie Cohen, Bill Thurston, and Roger Morazzo were the top three in the shot put.

Other Newton winners were Dave Hoover (high jump), Jeff Hyman (mile), and Bill Tomb (two-mile).

Mayor Receives Report On Crime Here

Members of the Crime Prevention Study Committee meet with Mayor Monte G. Basbas and submit final report on crime in Garden City after a year-and-a-half of investigation. Committee was created by Mayor Basbas in 1966 and worked on voluntary basis.

ed on the findings of this exploratory group.

In a letter of thanks to Committee members, Basbas said: "May I extend to you my sincere thanks for your participation in our Crime Prevention Study Committee and its final report. I know that this work has taken a great deal of your already overburdened time."

"I think that we have discovered through the work of your Committee," the Mayor added, "that crime wears many faces here in Newton—and that some of it surprises and disturbs us."

"We have found that it has its source not only from the professionals, but from the nice home, the sensitive teenager, the intelligent adult—the too-busy, over-tolerant, can't-care-less resident," he affirmed.

"Your work has served to spotlight some of our problems, and it will serve to create a firm foundation for the work of our permanent Crime Commission which will come I hope in the new year."

"May I thank you personally and on behalf of our citizens whose lives will be made safer because you cared enough to give the time and thought to your neighbor's welfare," the Mayor concluded.

Members of the Crime Prevention Study Committee are: Sidney Barr, Edmund C. Berkeley, the late Howard Branch, George S. Chaletzky, Harry M. Cohen, Dennis M. Cronin, St., Esq., Robert G. Fitzgerald, James K. Fitzpatrick, Esq., Alderman Franklin N. Flaschner, Alan Foster, Rev. Harold R. Fray, Jr., Mrs. Proctor W. Houghton.

Eli Goldston, President of Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates, Boston, was born in Akron, Ohio; graduated from the public schools of Warren, Ohio; and holds four degrees from Harvard: A.B. 1942, Harvard College; I. A. (Industrial Administrator, wartime degree) 1943; MBA 1946, Harvard Business School; and LL. B. 1949, Harvard Law School. Mr. Goldston was associated with the former Midland Enterprises Inc. and its predecessor, West Virginia Coal & Coke Corp., from 1954 and was president of Midland at the time of the acquisition of that company's assets by Eastern in 1961. The principal operating subsidiary of Midland is the Ohio River Company, largest tonnage inland waterway barge line. He has been a partner in the Cleveland, Ohio, law firm of Hahn, Loeser, Keough, Freedheim & Dean. In spite of the defeat of the Stadium Bill, I can't believe that the prospect of a new stadium is dead. A properly constructed facility on a sound business basis should be a profitable venture for a private group or even a local community. I hope I am not offending my Weston friends when I suggest that the Weston site is probably the most logical choice, and if it were promoted and controlled by Weston itself, I really don't see any valid objection by the local residents, particularly if it could become a substantial source of revenue to the town. It could even be a cooperative venture of the adjacent towns. At least, let's take a fresh and objective view of this proposition in 1968.

dren's Cancer Research Foundation, also of Newton, were the new appointees, effective as of July, 1967.

Dr. Richardson has made significant contributions to an understanding of the biochemistry of DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid), the carrier of genetic information.

Prior to joining the Faculty of Medicine at Harvard in 1964, he was for two years (1961-63) a Postdoctoral Fellow in the Department of Biological Chemistry at the Stanford University Medical School. While there, working with Dr. Arthur Kornberg, he succeeded in isolating a new enzyme, exonuclease III, which helped elucidate the mechanism of DNA replication.

During his three years at the Harvard Medical School, Dr. Richardson has concentrated his research efforts on the structure of viral nucleic acids and the enzymatic mechanisms of recombination and repair of DNA. Recently, he has isolated and studied two enzymes, polynucleotide kinase and polynucleotide ligase, which have been found extremely useful in the study of these problems at the enzymatic level.

Born in Wilson, N. C., May 7, 1935, Dr. Richardson received the B.S.M. degree in 1959 and the M.D. degree in 1960 from Duke University. Currently, Dr. Richardson holds a Career Development Award from the National Institutes of Health.

He is a member of the American Society of Biological Chemists, Phi Beta Kappa, the medical honorary society Alpha Omega Alpha, and is the recipient of the 1968 American Chemical Society Award in Biological Chemistry sponsored by Eli Lilly and Company.

He is the author of numerous publications in his field. He is also a member of the sored by Boston College. He worked on the Corporate Gifts Division of the 1966 Massachusetts Bay United Fund and is a member of the Payroll Savings Advisory Committee. He was chairman of the group that planned the week-long dedication program in February 1965, for the City of Boston's new 12 million War Memorial Auditorium; was instrumental in organizing The Cultural Foundation of Boston, Inc., and is currently serving as its president.

For the past two years, he has served as General Chairman of WINTERFEST (the major project of The Cultural Foundation), a civic-cultural festival held in Boston in late February, which has been acclaimed as "a practical pilot festival which might be used as a guide by other communities which have new civic and cultural centers and are looking for ways to use them."

During World War II he served as a lieutenant in the U.S. Navy Supply Corps. His wife, Elaine, is the daughter of Dr. Benjamin Friedman of Brookline. They have a son, Robert, and a daughter, Dian, and live at 7 Acadia Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

National Honor Mathematics Society, Pi Mu Epsilon.

In addition to instructing the first year students at the Harvard Medical School, Dr. Richardson teaches a graduate course on the biochemistry of nucleic acids.

Dr. Uzman has brought the modern tools of electron microscopy, X-ray diffraction and polarization microscopy to bear on pathology—particularly the pathology of the nervous system and of cancer.

In 1953, a classical paper authored by Dr. Uzman, described the formation of the myelin sheath of peripheral nerve. Her report made clear that optical and chemical investigations could be brought to bear on studies of the structure and properties of cell membrane.

For this research, in 1964, she received the Max Weinstein Award of the United Cerebral Palsy Association, an award given annually to the investigator or clinician deemed to have made the most significant contribution to cerebral palsy research.

Currently, as head of the Division of Tissue Ultrastructure at the Children's Cancer Research Foundation, Dr. Uzman is engaged in an extensive study of the buffy coat and biopsy specimens from leukemia patients for possible virus particles.

Regarded by her colleagues and by medical students as a "superb teacher," Dr. Uzman participates in the teaching of general pathology at the Harvard Medical School.

Recently she organized a successful lecture course in electron microscopy for house staff, academic and practicing pathologists at the Children's Cancer Research Foundation. She is Senior Associate Pathologist at the Children's Hospital Medical Center.

A native of Fort Smith, Ark., Nov. 17, 1922, Dr. Uzman received the S.B. degree in 1942 from the University of Arkansas, and the M.D. degree in 1945 from Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. In 1948-49 she was a special student (Fellow of the American Cancer Society) at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. She has been with the Harvard Medical School since 1949.

Dr. Uzman is the widow of Dr. Lahut Uzman who at the time of his death in 1962 was Harvard's Bronson Crothers Professor of Neurology at the Children's Hospital Medical School.

Among her scholastic and professional memberships, Dr. Uzman lists Phi Beta Kappa (University of Arkansas), Alpha Omega Alpha (Washington University), Sigma Xi, International Academy of Pathology, Electron Microscope Society of America, Society for Developmental Biology, American Society for Cell Biology and the New England Society of Electron Microscopy. She is an Associate Member of the American Academy of Neurology.

Local Hockey Team Wins, Loses & Draws

Ice shavings and skate squeaks filled the air three times these past two weeks, as the Newton hockey team has won, lost and tied in GBI play at the Boston Arena.

In order, the results have been: a scoreless tie with league-leading Medford, a demoralizing 5-1 loss to upcoming Brookline and a 4-0 victory over hapless Somerville. Something which has been brought to the attention of few, has been the sparkling defensive play of Tiger netminders Bob Sweeney and Steve Condon. In three of Newton's four contests this season, this duo has registered shutouts; Sweeney versus Rindge and Medford, and Condon recently against Somerville.

With a 2-1-1 record, Newton is currently in fourth place, just two points behind undefeated Medford and one point behind Arlington and Brookline. Waltham, Somerville and Rindge rear up the standings. With the exception of the Brookline game, the Tigers have played well in all their contests. Their wins have come over the league door-mats, but they did have an impressive tie with Medford, in which Sweeney made 26 saves.

The top scoring opportunity in that game was a breakaway by wing Bob Cotter. The senior standout broke in on Mustang goalie Bob Henry, but shot temporarily off balance and Henry made the stop. In all, Henry made 22 saves.

Cotter more than made up for that along with Capt. Donny Gallagher in Newton's romp over Somerville. The two lettermen from last year had five points between them, and they along with linemate Jack Droz, fired 21 of the Tiger's 29 shots at the Somerville net. Cotter had two goals to raise his total to three, while Gallagher's one gave him four for the season.

Condon, a sophomore, was gaining his first varsity experience in place of Sweeney who was out with the flu. The "youngster" was forced to make only four saves, as Somerville only got off eight shots.

Newton's second line of Matt Kumor, Ralph Murphy and Bob Fay was also outstanding, scoring one goal. The score came at 3:50 of the final period when Fay drilled a 20 footer from the right side through a screen, with an assist going to Kumor.

Somerville's top scoring opportunity came in the middle period on a breakaway by Capt. Dick McBrine. McBrine, who is possibly the top stick handler in the league, and who has scored four of his team's five goals thus far, was broken up by Jay Keefe in front of the Newton net.

Dan Carroll in the Somerville net was superb in stopping numerous shots off the sticks of Cotter and Gallagher.

A frank description of the Brookline game was offered by Newton coach Sarge Kinlin when he said that they were outstretched. The Wealthy Towners were constantly beating Newton to the puck and keeping pressure on Sweeney.

The lone Tiger goal came on a rebound shot by Gallagher at 3:24 of the first period off a Cotter drive which had been blocked.

Four different players scored for Brookline as it forced Sweeney to make 24 saves, compared to 13 by his counterpart on the Wealthy Towners. Tom Carr tallied twice for Brookline, with single goals by Alex Sutherland, Jim McMahon and Dean Sutherland.

The next time Newton plays on Saturday, it would be nice if some fans showed up. The spectators get fewer and fewer every week.

South Trounces Weston And Bedford, 9-2, 8-2

By NED MORSE

The Newton South pucksters extended their unbeaten streak to four games by trouncing Weston, 9-2, and Bedford, 8-2, during the past two weeks.

Jim Spinks' four goals were the key to the Weston victory. South unleashed an impressive offensive attack from the opening buzzer.

With only 52 seconds gone in the game, Spinks converted the rebound from Jimmy O'Connor's shot into a score. O'Connor had been set up by Biff Wisner.

The first line clicked again five minutes later when O'Connor took a pass from Spinks in front of the net and slammed the puck past a bewildered goaltender. Spinks tallied the last goal of the period when defenseman Brad Graham set him up on a pinpoint pass.

He took the pass from the defensive zone and skated unmolested on the Weston goalie. After faking the goalie out of position he poked the puck into the open net.

Second period action produced 4 Lion tallies as both the first and second line exerted tremendous pressure on the Weston defense. Spinks completed his hat trick early in the stanza after a centering pass from Wisner. O'Connor also received an assist on the play.

A one man disadvantage failed to curb the powerful Lion offense. In the process of killing a penalty Wisner stole a Weston pass at midice, outskated the Weston defense and beat the netminder on a six footer.

Wisner continued the scoring barrage opening the third period with a goal. He was set up in front by O'Connor and fired the puck home in a crowded goal. Taking a pass in front by O'Connor, Spinks ended the scoring for the Lions by tallying his fourth goal.

With a commanding nine goal lead Coach William Jesdale gave his third line some valuable playing time. He also replaced defensive stalwart in the nets, Dave Roberts with Warren Ross. Weston scored two goals late in the contest to prevent a Lion shutout.

Rezzuti combined beautifully with his new linemates tallying the first goal of the game. He scored during a scramble in front of a sprawling netminder.

Captain Jack Dunnigan scored his first goal of the year on a blistering slap shot from the blue line. The second line combination clicked for another score with Nelson scoring on a feed from Rezzuti.

Wisner opened the second period with a score on a backhand from five feet away. He was set up by teammates Spinks and O'Connor. Bedford came back to score a goal with the Lions short-handed. Seeking revenge the South pucksters put intense pressure on the Bedford goal, but Rezzuti's two scoring attempts were thwarted by outstanding netminding.

Wisner tallied his second goal of the period collecting the rebound of a Mescon slap shot and ramming it in. Spinks continued the scoring spree converting a pass from Wisner into a goal with time expiring in the period.

The third period featured one Bedford tally and two Lion scores. Both Mescon and Rezzuti had goals. Mescon set up Rezzuti's goal on a beautiful play, breaking in on the Bedford goal, faking two defensemen and then dropping the puck for Rezzuti who put the disk into an empty net.

Lion Lines
Through four contests the Lions as a team have scored 21 goals, while allowing only 8. Offensively, Wisner with 4 goals and 6 assists, and Spinks, with 6 goals and 3 assists, lead the team-scoring charts. Defensively Dunnigan, Graham and Alan Fraser have rotated successfully to establish a solid defense in front of the immense Roberts.

Arlington Whips Lions' Trackmen In MET Meet

The Newton South trackmen dropped their third consecutive MET Track League meet of the season, as they were topped by third place Arlington, 60-25.

The Lions started off very strongly as they earned 15 of their points in the first three events. Senior Mike Donnelly took a first in the mile with a time of 5:05.6 to start things off. Then, Juniors Rodney Brown and Richard Aron placed second and third, respectively, in the 1000 yard run. Senior captain Stan Dolberg then churned out a 1:19.9 first place in the 600. He was followed in third by senior Dave Williams.

Sophomore Bob Shea earned a single point in the 300, however, the next two events, the high jump and the two-mile, were swept by Arlington before sophomore Foud Sayess grabbed a second in the hurdles, and Stan Dolberg a third in the shotput.

For their final five points the Lions won the relay in 3:01.9 behind the strong running of Dolberg, Williams, Shea, and junior Robin Hirsch.

Awesome Rebounding . . .

Newton Tigers Hoop Sextet Loses To Unbeaten Weym'th

Defending Suburban League basketball champion Weymouth High combined an outstanding fast break with awesome rebounding to defeat Newton High, 65 to 54, Friday night at Weymouth.

The Maroon, who were 20-1 last year, won their third without a defeat this season at the expense of the Tigers. Newton is now 1-1 in league play and 1-2 overall.

It was under the boards that Newton was shackled, as they were outrebounced 48-31. Hustle as they did, the Tigers were unable to offset the play of Rick Hassan and Fran Donovan who had 13 and 11 recoveries, respectively.

The Weymouth fast break led by Ed Wineski was its main offensive weapon as it capitalized on bad passes and turnovers. Wineski on outside shots and Hassan underneath led the balanced Maroon attack with 14 points apiece.

The play of 6-5 center Paul Colantonio was the predominant factor for the scrappy Tigers. The lanky senior collected 17 points, had a game high total of 17 points, and also had six defensive stuffs to his credit.

Paul Lubin and capt. Sandy Winslow, Newton's starting guards, also assumed important roles on defense, stealing the ball a number of times to set up baskets. They, along with Colantonio and junior Clark Berry were mainly responsible for keeping the margin of defeat as low as it was.

Following a wild first quarter which saw numerous turnovers, the Weymouth lead varied between a low of six and a high of seventeen. Newton tried a full court press from time to time but the Maroon's slick ball handling was evasive.

Toward the end of the first half, Weymouth had gained a 10 point lead which it maintained for most of the contest. In the third stanza it reached 44-29 before two successive baskets by Lubin, and then a steal by Paul leading to a hoop by Colantonio cut the margin back to nine.

Only a late resurgence by Newton in the final period of play nullified three fourth-quarter scores by Donovan. A game high advantage of 62-45 was reached with two minutes remaining by the Maroon.

At this point, Winslow connected on three of his patented jump shots from downtown and Berry had an excellent tip-in to leave the final score at 65-54.

Mike Buzzi, who was coaching in place of the absent Al Fortune, attributed the defeat to Weymouth's depth in personnel.

While Newton was using predominantly only six players (Colantonio, Winslow, Lubin, Berry, Jack Maviskalian and Barry Harsip), Maroon mentor Bill Kearns was going freely to his bench in order to maintain his hard-running offense.

The main depth advantage was in relation to height, for besides 6-4 Hassan and 6-2 Donovan, Weymouth also had a number of other able shooters who were put to good use.

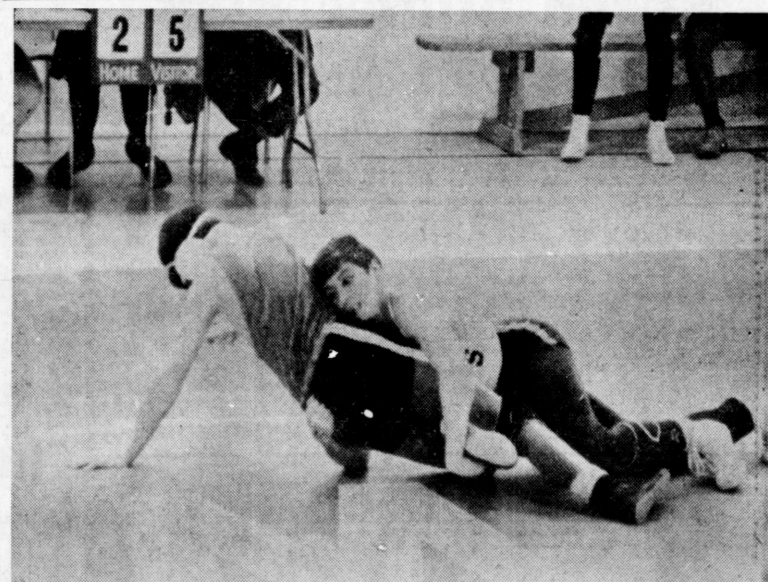

The defeat by no means disgraced the Garden City five, for Weymouth has now not lost a regular season contest in more than two years of play.

Clothing Fires Are Out Of Fashion

The American Medical Association has for many years annually warned of the dangers inherent in flammable fabrics. There are many injuries and not a few deaths every year—mostly in the winter—from clothing fires.

This winter something new has been added to this danger—paper clothing.

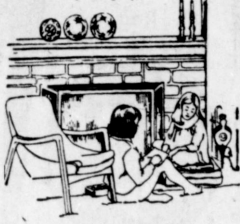

Paper clothing—mostly women's dresses—is so new that as yet there are few data on the potential burn dangers.

A top government safety official warned recently that people who wear paper clothing risk burning themselves if they wear it near an open flame after it has been laundered, dry-cleaned, or worn in a soaking rain.

The Journal of the American Medical Association reports that approximately 2 million persons annually are burned severely enough to require medical attention, and that 100,000 of these require hospital care. About 2,000 Americans die of burns each year. Far too many of these burn victims are injured when their clothing catches fire.

Whether the garment is paper or cloth, it might ignite if the wearer gets too close to an open flame. It's a temptation to huddle close to a stove or fireplace on a cold morning. It also can be fatal.

Simple fireproofers or protective shields can eliminate some of the danger from open flames. Check your home today for such potential hazards. If you find one, correct it promptly.

Using kerosene or a commercial "fire starter" for the fireplace or barbecue grill also has potential hazards. If there are hot coals in the fireplace or grill, the volatile liquid may flare up or explode, especially in a closed room.

Little girls' dresses with flimsy, flaring skirts are obviously a fire hazard. So are flowing robes and night gowns. Small boys in their blue jeans are much safer. But even jeans will flame up if ignited.

If someone's clothing catches fire, roll him on the ground or floor, using a blanket or a rug to smother the flames. If the victim panics and runs, the flames will flare even higher. 2-58

Mayor's Address Highlights The Past, Scans Future

(The following is the text of the inaugural address delivered New Year's Day by Mayor Monte B. Basbas as he started his second term as Newton's chief municipal executive.)

Reverend Clergy, distinguished guests, members of the Honorable Board of Aldermen and School Committee, fellow citizens and friends:

As I begin my second term of office on this New Year's Day, I wish first to give thanks to all who contributed so much to our administration over the past two years: the Board of Aldermen, the School Committee, our department heads and their staffs, and the many citizens who gave so generously of their time in helping us to develop solutions and programs for the building of a better Newton.

It is only normal, at the end of one year and the beginning of another, to pause and take stock of what we have done and, at the same time, make plans for the future.

Now it is true that we have just completed a campaign for re-election when our administration's achievements were broadcast throughout the city. But, because many of these activities relate to our future course of action and to the future of the city, I think it well to review briefly our efforts over the past two years.

In that time, many new city building projects were undertaken, representing the projected investment of millions. Among completed projects we list: the new incinerator and equipment at a cost of $2,316,000-plus, and the new Burr School with a price tag of $1,180,000-plus. Additions were completed to the Hyde, Carr and Day Junior High Schools at a total cost in excess of $685,000. Construction was also started on the new Bigelow Junior High School, calling for a bond issue of $2,600,000. Architects were appointed for both the new Newton High and Day Junior High schools. The high school, with educational space of some 350,000 square feet, is expected to be under construction in mid-1967, involving an investment of almost $8 million. Plans for the Day Junior High should provide 96,500 square feet of educational space at an investment of some $3,200,000. Finally, we have advertised for bid a new playground building for Auburndale, replacing the structure that was destroyed by fire. These projects commit us to an investment of over $18 million, but should supply us with the most up-to-date and modern facilities for several generations to come.

Housing Provided For All Needs

While on the subject of bricks and mortar, we should take note that the scope of our Newton Elderly Housing Authority has been greatly broadened by removing the word "elderly" from its title, which means that it can now provide housing for the needy of all ages. And, in fact, your Board of Aldermen recently authorized an additional 125 units which brings their current authority to 350 units.

The year 1967 saw two Federally-funded programs approved by Washington. The first, a concentrated codes enforcement program in the Newton Upper Falls improvement area, provides a Federal grant of $557,344 which will assist the Upper Falls Community over a three-year period; the second project, Lower Falls Urban Renewal, makes available a Federal grant of $963,333.

This 19 acre project is in the "survey and planning" stage and is adjacent to a 10 acre renewal project funded by Massachusetts. These, when completed, will result in a major improvement in the Lower Falls community.

In the private sector, several developments have come to fruition. It is expected that ground will be broken for the Newton Corner toll road air rights in the spring of 1968. This undertaking to be built in three phases, will be a dynamic addition to the city and will present a $15 million investment in our future. Secondly, Marriott Motel in Auburndale should be completed next December at a cost of well over $9 million. Finally, so far as major developments are concerned, the Sylvania land tract has been sold and we can expect, I am assured, dramatic news from them in the near future.

These then are Newton's major bricks and mortar achievements over the past two years which will contribute greatly to the shape of things.

Obviously, there were many other areas of our city's life toward which our efforts were directed in 1966 and 1967.

With the assistance of the Board of Aldermen and our outstanding police department, we have stemmed the rising tide of burglaries and other crimes against our citizens. We added 27 police officers to the force, increased the number of police cruisers, installed a new and modern radio system and, for the first time, introduced the use of walkie-talkies for patrolmen.

Resolve Turnpike Differences

At this point, I should also like to point out that, after many years, we were able to resolve all differences with the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority.

Progress was made in still other areas of our city's life, and it was my pleasure to appoint a Newton Conservation Commission during the past year, which should do much to protect and enhance the "Garden City." In the field of human relation, we look for great strides to be made by our community relations commission and its advisory board.

We would be remiss if we did not mention the generous efforts of many of our citizens who served the city on a number of commissions and committees which dealt with many ongoing problems of our day-to-day living.

These included urban beautification, transportation, the Newton Junior College, the Newton High School, and the Day Junior High School site committees, the Norumbega Park, library site, and crime prevention committees. The work done by these groups has greatly assisted our administration and represents, I believe, the finest example of citizen participation. We in Newton are extremely fortunate to have people of such a high degree of expertise willing to serve long and well with their only reward being the satisfaction of a job well done.

This, then, is the summary of our efforts during my first administration — efforts, that is, which have resulted in projects undertaken or completed. They do not, by any means, include all my concerns nor are they all of the programs which I would like to have seen completed.

As I stated in 1966, it is my belief as it has been of a number of former mayors, that charter review is necessary and essential. Unfortunately, efforts to achieve such a review were unsuccessful during 1966 and 1967. I am hopeful that we can, in a spirit of non-partisanship, achieve some form of review in the near future.

While we have succeeded in expanding and modernizing our police department, there are still two activities which I believe will further strengthen its efficiency and plan once again to request the addition of a cadet corps for much-needed training of future police officers. In addition, I continue to feel, on the basis of my observations of their use by other police departments, that scooters or motorcycles can be a valuable adjunct to day-to-day police activity.

At this juncture, it is my pleasure — mixed with real sorrow — to commend for your attention the fact that our distinguished Chief of Police, Philip J. Purcell, will retire in 1968 after 39 years of devoted service. It can be truly said that for Chief Purcell this was both a vocation and an avocation and, needless to say, we wish him every success in his retirement.

Continuing to give us trouble is the problem of traffic, which I believe, will grow rather than diminish. I continue to feel that we need the traffic commission as originally proposed by Mayor Gibbs, and, further, that we need a traffic engineer to serve such a commission. I intend, therefore, to resubmit this proposal.

In these highly technical times, more and more of our activities are being programmed on mechanical devices, and some officials in the city administration feel that some form of computerization can be of great help to our activities.

Our recent experience with electronic voting, which was undertaken on a test basis, suggests to me the need for a technical advisory committee. Newton is fortunate in having a wealth of citizen skills, and it is my intention to request a number of technically qualified members of the community to advise my administration on solutions and equipment that could serve the city efficiently and economically.

Citizens Come In Close Contact

City Housekeeping is an area where every citizen comes closely into contact with the services provided by his tax dollar. Snow and rubbish removal can be most dramatic in their impact on the average household. And, in the past year alone, there has been a significant increase in the amount of rubbish which we collect. How significant can best be seen in the figures for the week November 27 to December 4th, just past, when collections averaged 260 tons per day, totalling 1321 tons for the week. This compares with the average of the previous few years of 150 to 160 tons per day, or 800 tons weekly. This is due in part to the fact that burning has been greatly reduced, more people are using burlap bags for leaves, and there has been a big increase in waste paper, plastic containers and other throw-away packages.

For these reasons, I believe that we must have double collections on days following holidays, and that we will need additional workers and more equipment to service this growing area of public convenience.

In my 1966 Inaugural Address, I placed much stress on the "One City" concept, meaning, quite simply, a concern for the whole community, its needs, its desires, and its capabilities. At all times, I have tried to weigh and evaluate every project, idea and undertaking with this in mind. Earlier I mentioned a program which is going forward — Urban Renewal at Lower Falls. Another area under consideration for Urban Renewal has been Newton Corner, which for a number of reasons, appeared to previous administrations, our Planning Department and others to be a proper candidate for a Federally-funded program. It is and has been under study; and the Urban Renewal Authority as well as your Mayor have made a number of efforts to establish a common meeting ground with the Newton Citizens who live in the area. At the present time, however, the climate does not appear right to push this program further.

Since, to my mind, community and citizen participation is a fundamental requirement for the successful building of a better Newton, my present inclination is to recommend that Urban Renewal in Newton Corner be postponed until such time as we can assess the impact of the Air Rights development on the area.

In another field of civic endeavor, it has been pointed out to me that in 1973 — just five years hence — Newton will celebrate its Centennial as a city, and it appears to me that the groundwork for properly marking this milestone must be laid in the next few years. Further than that, it has come to my attention as a result of our successful participation in "Winterfest 1967," that while a great deal of interest exists among our citizens regarding the growth and history of the city over the more than three hundred years of its existence, there is at the present time no central point or organization charged with the responsibility of researching, compiling records, or publishing maps and booklets that would record for the future the many interesting aspects of the History of Newton. This situation is a matter of deep concern, and I feel that there should be a continuing organization which would have the resources and the authority to bring this material together and at the same time to prepare recommendations for our Centennial Celebration. For these reasons, I propose to ask the Board of Aldermen to establish a Newton Historical Commission to which I will appoint citizens qualified to undertake the duties and responsibilities as outlined under the Laws of the Commonwealth.

View Challenges Of Next 2 Years

In viewing the challenges of the next two years, there is one piece of unfinished business which, I am convinced, requires a new and different approach. This is the commitment that I expressed in 1966 to the young people of Newton. I felt then and continue to feel that it is the responsibility of the city to help provide these young men and women with recreational, cultural, and social opportunities to develop their future potential as highly motivated citizens.

To achieve this, I now believe the city must attempt a major breakthrough in order to achieve worthwhile results. Our efforts at City Hall have produced little or no satisfactory action; while certain private citizens have tried to develop meaningful programs, I am sure they will agree that little of a concrete nature has resulted from these endeavors.

It seems to me that, while we have heavily emphasized the importance of "Education," we have failed to recognize that there is more to education than attendance in school. As a major national magazine recently pointed out, Times have changed.

Even as recently as a generation ago, our parents received a two-fold education: one, consisting of "reading, writing, and arithmetic" was imparted to us at the local school house; A second form of education — which developed the mind, the body, and basic values just as much as formal book-learning, was the result of living in more leisurely times. The mundane house chores are no longer a factor in modern American life.

The result? Simply this. In our affluent society — where we provide the very best in educational opportunity from 8:30 in the morning to 2:30 in the afternoon — we then turn our young people loose to pursue whatever time-killing activities touch their fancy. We make little provision and provide few facilities for meaningful and enjoyable use of this time. In fact, most of us are not at home during the afternoon and evening to discover what our young people are doing in the time that we overlook.

To make meaningful "The Time We Overlook," I suggest that our city should lead the way in developing an exciting and viable program to fill the void created by our affluent times.

It is my feeling that there lies within our capabilities — and our ability to pay — an opportunity to develop a program here in our city that would be so excitingly rich in recreational, cultural, and enjoyable activity that no young person could fail to find a number of programs that would attract his attention and his energy. As I have indicated, I visualize a city-supported program that would provide a wide range of group oriented activities of every kind and nature — it would include recreational opportunities, hobby opportunities, work - study opportunities, yes, even thrill-providing activities which could and would challenge the hardest of our young people.

At this point, I must admit that I cannot be specific for I conceive of this as a revolutionary approach — It is neither recreation nor education. It is not athletics, and it is not a program for hobbyists. Because it would be so multifaceted, every young person in Newton would find one or more activities in which he would want to become involved.

These are my thoughts, and, as I think about them, I become tremendously enthusiastic. It is my plan, therefore, to ask a number of our young people in our junior high schools and in our high schools to sit down as a committee with representatives from our Recreation Department, our School Department, and some of our parents to act as a Mayor's Select Committee to develop suggestions for such a program and to spell out the facilities which might be needed to provide for one or more youth activity centers in our city, some of which could be included in the planning of future city facilities.

This has been a long report but, frankly, it must be so because we are dealing with a metropolis of some 90,000 souls living in more than 26,000 homes and spending annually over $32 million for city services. It is obvious that I cannot close this report without touching on the subject that makes the wheels go round — Money. Money builds our roads, plows our snow, disposes of our trash, enforces our laws, puts out our fire, builds our buildings and educates our children.

City Services Have Increased

Compared with a generation ago, many of these services today have been increased in number, quality, frequency and complexity — due, in part, to an expanded population, technological changes in our day-to-day living, inflation and other factors beyond our control.

As a result of these changes over a period of 30 or so years, it is only natural that the cost of these services should have increased materially.

But, and here is the rub, when you review the cost of operating our city for so short a time as the past 8 years — when our population grew by only an estimated 1.4 per cent (1,285 persons) — you find our city budgets have skyrocketed more than 68 per cent.

From less than $19 million in 1959, we have zoomed our expenses to over $32 million — with the end nowhere in sight!

How did we manage to spend an additional $13 million for our city's goods and services in 1967 over just 8 short years ago while the size of our population remained nearly static?

I asked our director of Finance to give me detailed figures by departments for each of these years so that I, and you, can see exactly where our money is going and so that we can assess — on a "one city" basis — the value factor of each.

Remember — our total budget has increased over 68% from 1959 to 1967. But, our rubbish, garbage and street cleaning services have risen only 45%!

City hall departments are up only 25%.

Our recreation areas have felt a pinch because they got only a 46% rise!

And the fire department — at 66% — is still below the city average.

We have increased the staff and equipment of the police department so they are up 87% this 8 year period.

But — add all city operating departments under the budgetary control of the mayor and board of aldermen together and you find that their combined increases amount to just 46% (less than $6 million).

What services are we providing that accounted for almost $8 million of our total increase?

You know the answer — and I know the answer.

The direct operational growth, exclusive of buildings and building maintenance, of our school department has more than doubled in those short 8 years.

From $7,290,016 in 1959 to $15,034,089 in 1967! — 106%!

And if you read last week's newspapers, you know the 1968 school budget is scheduled to jump another 13%.

Now, we must recognize that great changes have taken place in education — perhaps more so than in any other field. We must also remember that more is expected of it in terms of the future than any other of the services our city provides.

But, on the basis of these figures, it does not appear to me that we have been neglecting education in Newton when, in 1968 we will invest in it as much as the total city budget — including education — was in 1958!

For this reason, I say we must pause here and now and make a decision as to how much we can afford for what and when.

Must Decide What To Afford

It is my belief that value judgments must be made on our ability to pay — your ability and mine.

For, it is a fact that we face a tax rate of over $100 in 1970 if we don't do something — and do it soon.

Nor are we alone in this crisis. In city after city across the country today you hear the anguished torment of city fathers wrestling with ever mounting costs.

Now it is not within my responsibility or power as mayor — nor is it that of the board of aldermen — to pass value judgments officially on the school system or its budgets.

That is, by law, clearly the responsibility of our elected school committee. It is their judgment which determines the kind, the quality and scope of our educational system.

But because I, as your mayor, must view all activities of the city in terms of all the services that must be provided to all of our citizens and their interests, I must and will speak out.

As I have demonstrated, there are other needs and problems which demand solutions — and cash to pay for them. I know because you call my office daily telling me what they are.

But, I truly fear the consequences of an ever-rising real estate tax — a homeowner's tax — unless some relief is found.

As a taxpayer who must view rather intimately the prospects of a $12 plus tax rate increase in each of the next 2 years of my term of office and realizing that the city would need to add over $52 million worth of additional real estate valuation to balance off each additional $12 on the tax rate, I commend to the city, its elected officials, employees and citizens alike, the following recommendations designed to alter an otherwise alarming tax prospect:

1.) That all citizens take it upon themselves to review the cost factors and appraise the values of all city services in relation to our upcoming budget proposals, which will be reported at length in our local newspapers — together with the data appended to this inaugural address.

Then, when you have arrived at your conclusions, let your city's elected officials — the mayor, the board of aldermen and the school committee — know how you feel — in writing please.

2.) That all city officials — elected or otherwise — review every cost factor of their proposals with 3 guidelines in mind: priority, degree, and ultimate value.

How Urgently Are Programs Needed?

By this I mean for us all to determine how urgently we need a program, how simple or complex it must be, and what, in the end, it will contribute to the future of our city and our country.

3.) In viewing the challenges of the next two years, there is one piece of unfinished business I urgently press upon the attention of the school committee and the school department. That is with reference to the Newton Junior College, which was the subject of long and exhaustive study by a citizens' committee during 1966 and 1967, culminating in a specific recommendation delivered to me and to them in June 1967. This study, undertaken at the suggestion of the school committee, specifically recommends that the desirable course of action for the future would be and I quote: "Transfer the Newton Junior College to the jurisdiction of the Massachusetts Board of Regional Community Colleges." The committee further stated that they "believe that the adoption and implementation of this recommendation will be in the best interest of the city of Newton, and the post high school educational advancement of its younger citizens."

I concur with this recommendation not only because it is the work of 35 distinguished Newton citizens who gave all aspects of the problem their deepest consideration, but also because I know at first hand just how much we can do and how much we cannot do with our present tax dollars. Such a move could only be a step in the right direction.

4.) I propose that both the board of aldermen and the mayor review in detail the remaining capital outlay program items in the light of the past two years.

For, while I committed myself to the program in 1965 when it stood at a projected $17 million total for 5 years, I cannot, today, give by blessing to present projected requests which now total some $38 million without a careful analysis and evaluation of their impact on our city as a whole.

5.) At this point, I must reaffirm my long standing commitment to the Heller proposal, now called the "Federal Tax Sharing Plan" by which a fair share of federal taxes collected would be returned to us at the local level with no strings attached — so we can continue to meet the challenges of our times.

Certainly, the foregoing discussion of our tax situation is ample evidence of the need to meet the "crisis of the cities" in some other manner than through the local real estate tax. The federal and state governments, with their infinitely broader tax bases, can and do raise funds in a much fairer and more equitable manner.

For it is our cities — the locale of our living and dying, of the raising and educating of our children, of our everyday lives — that must provide to a very great extent the largest number of services we need for a satisfying and worthwhile existence.

Finally, I commend for your consideration one thought which has occurred to me many times as I have tried to look ahead.

That is, I believe, that in the not too distant future it will be necessary for all operating expenses of all school systems in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to be funded by the state through state taxes — with each local school system receiving a given amount for each enrolled student — a system that has prevailed in other states and countries for some time.

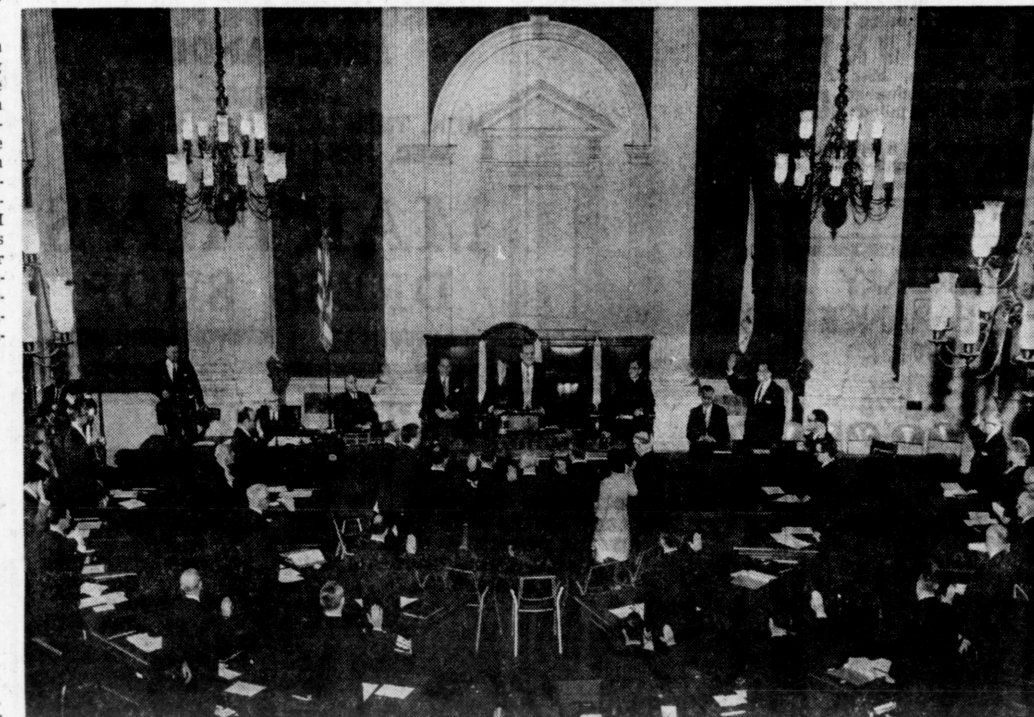

For, in my view, the time is at hand when local communities can no longer provide educational facilities and services equal to the temper of our times — and also provide equality of educational opportunity for all young people wherever they may live.

Education, in the final analysis, is just as much a line of defense as our military establishment — and should receive support commensurate on a state and national level with that invested in our military might.

Certainly some formula can be devised that would provide local communities the state (or federal) funds they need for dynamic education programs yet leave them the independence to shape and form their programs to meet their particular local needs.

This, then, is my report on the last 2 years — and my forecast of the direction of our efforts in the next two, and whatever the future may hold, I pledge to you that I will continue to work untiringly for the good of the "one city" — of all the people and of all their diverse interests.

May each of you have a rewarding New Year.

League Of Women Voters Spotlights Delinquency

A three-day series of meetings is planned by the League of Women Voters of Newton concerning the treatment of juvenile offenders in Massachusetts. They are scheduled for morning, afternoon and evening of next Wednesday (Jan. 10) and Thursday morning and evening and on Friday morning.

The Units on Corrections will be concerned with a re-examination of concepts of what constitutes improved treatment for the juvenile offender in Massachusetts. Since 1937, the League has been concerned with the child offender. They were unsuccessful in their efforts to achieve a statewide juvenile court system, but aided the establishment of detention reception centers in Worcester and Westfield. They campaigned for an improved statewide juvenile probation system, for qualified personnel, and for better programs.

Efforts have been directed towards improved treatment for the juvenile offenders. In 1948 the League worked for the establishment of the Youth Service Board and has strengthened its operations and increased its functions. However, within the past two years, several reports have criticized Massachusetts treatment of juvenile problems.

The State Convention voted to reopen the study of juvenile corrections with direction to reexamine concepts of what constitutes improved treatment for the youthful offender in this Commonwealth. The Corrections Committee has been examining the reports from Children's Bureau, U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare; the recommendations of the Massachusetts Committee on Children and Youth, Attorney General's Advisory Committee, and the Special Massachusetts Senate Committee investigating the Youth Service Committee. A consensus at the Units is looked for. Come and participate in the discussion. Your ideas are wanted.

Consensus question: In support of improved treatment for the juvenile offender, what criteria should the League of Women Voters use to judge programs in the following areas? Pre-adjudication, administration treatment, funds, personnel, Research, prevention.

Committee: Ruth Deats, Linda Alpers, Ruth Rosenbaum, Sue Green Ceil Codington, Marcia Wolfsey, June Rosenberg and Jane Rediker. The meetings will be held on:

Wednesday Morning Jan. 10: 9:30-11:15 at the Newtonville Library, 345 Walnut St., Newtonville. (Please use Highland Ave. Entrance).

Drukers Honored At Beth Israel Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ludwig, of Newton, are among the members of the Drucker family of Boston, honored at a recent ceremony at Beth Israel Hospital. The fiscal suite at the hospital was dedicated in honor of John and Rose Drucker, and their children; Bertram A. Drucker of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ludwig, Newton; and Mr. and Mrs. George M. Feingold of New York City, who have been associated with the hospital's development throughout the years.

Officiating at the ceremonies was Sidney Stoneman, Trustee and Vice President of the Hospital. He told the assembly of guests that it was "particularly fitting to honor a family which has been identified with this Hospital since its earliest days and which has participated in its growth during the years when it was evolving from a small, parochial institution into one of the great teaching hospitals of this nation." Accepting the facility on behalf of the Officers and Trustees, Mr. Stoneman told the Drucker family: "We thank you and are pleased that this important facility will always be associated with your name."

Describing the role of the facility at the Hospital, Dr. Mitchell T. Rabkin, General Director of Beth Israel, said, "The importance of the Fiscal Suite is illuminated by the fact that medical care is now the third largest 'industry' in the country. We must follow annually 12,000 inpatients; 62,000 outpatients; 22,000 emergency ward visitors; hundreds of thousands of laboratory tests and over 2 1/2 million pounds of laundry, and make sure that needed supplies are purchased, bills paid and charges posted. These and many other functions, topped off by the careful supervision of our own Finance Committee, represent a next to impossible series of tasks which must be done in our Fiscal Suite, and repeated without fail on daily, weekly, biweekly, monthly and annual bases. This is the life blood of the Hospital and for it we are proud to acknowledge the generosity of the Drucker family."

Mrs. Nehemiah H. Whitman, Trustee and Chairman of the Tablets and Inscriptions and Resolutions Committee, reviewed the family's long association with the Hospital, recalling that, in 1924, John Drucker "was one of the most active members of committee that raised the money to build a Hospital on Brookline Ave."

A GI View Of Protestors

Mayor Is Thanked For Vietnam Gift

That something other than lofty moral principles may be motivating many of our young Vietnam war protesters and card burners was suggested by a Newton serviceman on duty in Vietnam.

Newton Hero Wounded In Cong Attack

A Newton Army man is recovering at the U.S. Army Hospital, Fort Devens, from wounds suffered in an attack by the Viet Cong in South Vietnam.

Private First Class Michael J. Coyle of 11 Claffin place, suffered wounds in his right hand and arm. He was stationed with the 40th Ordnance Co. when the enemy struck.

Doctors at Fort Devens report that PFC Coyle is "coming along, but his wounds are extremely painful."

Captain Levine, who is adjutant of the 40th Signal Battalion, stationed at Long Binh, stated that a great deal of misunderstanding exists here in the States over why U.S. troops are in Vietnam and what they are doing there.

He writes that news of protest demonstrations in the United States hit the fighting men hard who are facing the enemy in Vietnam, and also the American service personnel involved in tremendous efforts with Vietnamese civilians.

As a case in point, his own, the Newton officer notes that although his duties with the Signal Battalion are concerned with all the cable for communications in Vietnam, he also is deeply involved with an orphanage in nearby Bien Hoa.

He also is headquarters department commander and coordinator for about 160 local Vietnamese nationals.

Captain Levine wrote to Mayor and Mrs. Basbas to thank them for the holiday gifts and kind thoughts sent by Newton's Chief Executive to all local servicemen in Vietnam, a co-operative gesture with The Graphic.

Accurate Weight Is Vital Warns Sealer

J. Ellis Bowen, Sealer of Weights and Measures of the City of Newton, has announced a statutory notice to the public to have all commercially used weighing and measuring devices tested at his office at City Hall.

Sealer Bowen's notice is addressed to all persons having or using weighing or measuring devices commercially in Newton and is as follows:

"All individuals, partnerships, associations or trusts and corporations, using weighing or measuring devices for the purpose of buying or selling goods, wares or merchandise, for public weighing or for hire or reward doing business or having places of business located in this City of Newton are hereby notified to bring them into the Department of Weights and Measures to be tested, adjusted, sealed or condemned by the Sealer."

The testing, adjusting, sealing and condemning of weighing and measuring devices will be performed on the following specified dates and time: Through January 19th, except Saturdays and Sundays, 8:30 to 9:30 a.m.

In pointing out the importance to the community of local weights and measures administration and enforcement with relation to scale and meter accuracy Sealer Bowen reports that he is not only concerned with the weighing devices of the butcher and grocer, but also the scales and delicate balances and tiny weights of the apothecary the accuracy of which

Rep. Sears Speaker For GOP Event Here

Newton's ninth annual Lincoln Day dinner being held Wed. evening, Feb. 14, promises to be the most successful since the series of outstanding events were started in 1960.

Donald P. Quinn and Mrs. David S. Bard, dinner co-chairmen, report that more than twenty tables are now spoken for at the dinner which is being held at the Sidney Hill Country Club.

Previous years' attendance figures of more than six hundred will be topped according to these early returns.

As was the case last year, many new faces are joining the ranks of veteran Republican workers to do the complete dinner.

Aldermen To Probe Operations In City

Snow and rubbish removal practices in the City of Newton will be scrutinized by the Public Works Committee of the Board of Aldermen with an eye to making recommendations for improvement.

The aldermen, at the first meeting of the new term on Monday night, approved an order directing the committee "to conduct an immediate and thorough investigation of all municipal policies regarding snow removal. Upon completion of the investigation, the Public Works Committee shall make a complete report to the Board of Aldermen with recommendations to make snow removal in the City of Newton more effective and efficient."

An amendment offered by Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell and approved by the board called for the inclusion of "the collection of rubbish during periods of snow removal" as part of the study.

Defeated by a vote of 18 to 3 was an amendment offered by freshman Alderman William Wolf. It called for a progress report by the committee on Feb. 5 and a final report on Feb. 19.

Acting Public Works Committee Chairman Louis I. Egelson commented that the results of the committee study probably won't have much effect this winter anyway. Long term solutions are the primary goal of the committee, he indicated.

Egelson said the committee will report as soon as possible, but would like to conduct a thorough investigation which might be hamstrung by so close a deadline.

Mayor Has Praise For Snow Pick-Up

Mayor Monte G. Basbas yesterday praised the snow-plowing and removal operations during and after the storm of last Saturday and Sunday.

At the same time the Mayor began his own review of problems arising in connection with the Dec. 28 storm which caused several Aldermen to urge a study of the city's snow-plowing procedures.

Basbas made his comments after accompanying city plowing crews for more than 20 consecutive hours last weekend.

"I am satisfied," he said, "that our city employees and the contractors responsible for snow clearance during the storm last Saturday night and Sunday did a creditable job clearing our streets in spite of the extreme cold and other problems which always accompany these operations."

By 11 o'clock Sunday night, less than 12 hours after the storm had ended, every street in the city appeared to be opened, and all reasonable complaints on hand regarding street snow clearance were being handled. At that time, our crews were then able to turn to the job of plowing schools, business districts, parking lots, sidewalks and other areas which are necessary for normal activities," the Mayor declared.

As a result of the recommendations of a number of Newton residents, I worked with the street crews myself for this 20-hour straight period," he continued.

I wanted to conduct my own investigation of Newton's snow removal operations on the spot, since I feel strongly that as the administrator of the city, I must not only rely upon committee investigations, and reports of department heads—but must get out and see for myself whether or not the job is being done and done efficiently for the benefit of the taxpayer and homeowner," Mayor Basbas asserted.

"I have isolated four major areas in which Newton has problems during snow time: equipment, manpower, communications and citizen cooperation," he said.

For many years Newton has been economizing on the purchase of vehicles usable for plowing and other snow tasks. I was guilty in 1966 and 1967 of continuing this practice with a view to saving what tax dollars we could. I now recognize that Newton must have adequate heavy-duty

The golden jubilee of the Most Rev. Eric Francis MacKenzie, 72, auxiliary bishop of the Boston Catholic Archdiocese and pastor of the Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre, will be celebrated this year, marking his 50th year in the priesthood.

The anniversary date is Oct. 18, the day, 50 years ago he was ordained by the late Cardinal O'Connell following his graduation from St. John's Seminary in Brighton.

Bishop MacKenzie has been an auxiliary bishop since 1950 and has been pastor of the Newton church since 1944, after service as pastor of St. Paul's Church, Wellesley. He is one of three auxiliary bishops in the Boston archdiocese and one of the nine priests in archdiocese who will observe their golden jubilee this year.

A native Bostonian, he graduated from Boston College high school and went to Boston College where he was active in music, journalism, debating and athletic groups as well as religious groups.

After graduating from B.C.

in 1914, he continued on to St. John's Seminary in Brighton. Following his ordination, he spent two years in advance study at Catholic University in Washington, D.C. He then returned to St. John's as a professor and remained on the faculty for 23 years. He became pastor of the Wellesley church in 1943.

Bishop MacKenzie was appointed auxiliary bishop by

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Gov. Volpe May Be Offered Cabinet Post By President

Governor Volpe may be offered an important position in President Johnson's Cabinet—one he might feel obliged to accept as a patriotic duty.

That bit of information was dropped recently by a responsible person who is known to be extremely close to Volpe.

But he left most questions up in the air and unanswered.

The implication was that Volpe has not yet been offered the Cabinet post but definitely is under consideration for it.

Would Governor Volpe, a candidate for the Republican nomination for Vice President, "listen to blandishments" from President Johnson at this stage in an election year, the tidbit-dropper was asked.

"He has not been blandished yet," was the unusual reply.

PIERRE OF THE HIGHLANDS
It is fun to work in a kitchen that is attractive and arranged for efficiency in work. Ideas of what a kitchen should be and what purposes it should serve have varied with the times and modes of living. George Washington's kitchen, where work was done by the servants, was not in the house itself but was connected with it by a covered walk. Old brownstone houses in New York had kitchens and servants' quarters in the half-basement; food was sent to the dining room on a dumb-waiter, where a second servant placed it before the family and guests. Today homemakers, faced with many tasks and the problem of little outside assistance, must have kitchens equipped and arranged to simplify their work.

Today's homemakers also need a time for relaxation and the perfect way to relax is at the HIGHLANDS Fashion Shows every Wednesday. Plan to spend a lovely lunch hour with us for an outstanding meal and all the latest fashions. Dine at your leisure while you enjoy the show: THE HIGHLANDS, 1114 Beacon Street, Newton Four Corners, is the fashionable place for dining any day or evening. ## Women Voters To Consider China At Meeting Wed.

Next Wednesday (Jan. 17) an open meeting of the League of Women Voters of Newton will feature a film narrated by Chet Huntley entitled "Red China." The public is invited to attend this event to be held at the Beethoven Elementary School.

After the film, the audience will be arranged in small groups to discuss the current crisis in China. What are the implications of this crisis for China and for the outside world? What are the important factors in the two-China situation? What foreign policy choices are open to the United States in regard to Mainland China. These important questions will be probed and analyzed in group discussions.

The league urges all who are interested to come and participate in this open meeting on China, the greatest challenge of the twentieth century.

ty vehicles. I am gratified by the comments of Newton citizens who have replied to my questions as to whether or not we should continue economizing in this area, with the comment that if Newton needs the equipment, the City should purchase it. I intend to go before the Board of Aldermen during budget time and request funds to purchase this needed equipment," Mayor Basbas stated.

"Manpower is a serious problem which involves the fields of Civil Service and unions. We have received complete cooperation from our employees, but they need help. We have hired extra equipment and men from local contractors, but if we need men well trained for this emergency, we must broaden our hiring of laborers year-round. There is a serious shortage of men willing to do heavy physical labor over long periods of time, so that we must actively recruit to combat particular problems.

"Our communications both between the City Hall offices, the vehicles on the job, and the yards leave much to be desired. The fact that many citizens tried in vain to reach the numbers listed in the phone directory in order to enlist aid during the storms, is proof to me that we must overhaul our telephone facilities.

"For this reason, I have contacted New England Telephone Company with the request that they send out experts in the field of phone communications to point out to us how we can modernize our facilities, and I intend to submit their findings to the Board of Aldermen for the necessary appropriations, the Mayor stated.

The Fifth International Conference of the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, will be held in Boston, Feb. 1 to 3 at the Sheraton-Boston and Statler-Hilton hotels. Nearly 80 sessions will cover every facet of the problems of the perceptually handicapped children — educational, medical, parental and governmental. Over 100 displays of the newest educational equipment films, two reference rooms with every available text on the subject, and an around-the-conference-clock consulting service by college and university staff members will also be offered educational administrators and other conferees at the three-day conclave.

MACLD, formed last February, was created to help otherwise normal, healthy and intelligent children who are suffering from specific learning disabilities resulting from perceptual motor handicaps, including problems in visual perception and integration and reading disability known as dyslexia.

In its first year the Association has sponsored conferences on learning disabilities at Boston College, The University of Mass., and M.I.T.; proposed specific legislation, and testified before the Board of Education hearings on the Guidelines of Bill 46k, which will provide 50% reimbursement to communities which meet the special educational needs of these children.

of the most difficult problems that we have encountered. We must have the understanding of all residents in order for us to do the job for them. Cars left out in the streets were a common occurrence. When we went to the doors to request that they be pulled off the roads, ensure complete plowing up to the curb, we were often met with complete opposition. Vehicles were frequently left so far out of the drives that a close pass with a plow was impossible. In other areas, private plowing by citizens or their gardeners left snow piled high in the streets or abutting the curbs so that again city vehicles couldn't do the job.

"So often the attitude was: 'clear the streets and walks, but don't hinder our activities in any way.' This pattern of thought is but another indication of a basic lack of concern for neighbor, and it is one which seriously hampers the city's efforts to service ALL 90,000-plus residents. The fact that we all go through this snow time together that we all must cooperate with our neighbor as well as City officials—I can't emphasize enough, the Mayor said. "I recognize these problems exist. I intend to bring my own findings before the Board of Aldermen with the request that the members of the Board cooperate in every way possible to bring these services to Newton residents. For too long we have been limping along with light remove rubbish simultaneously, poor communications, and lack of manpower. I intend to see that each of these problems are met by the City Fathers.

Recent Heavy Snow Taboos Skating Here

The heavy snowfall Saturday night and Sunday has finished skating on Newton's ponds for the near future. Newton Recreation Commissioner, John B. Penney, stated that although Crystal Lake and Bullough's Pond had been cleared of snow for skating last Saturday, the present snowfall cannot be removed safely from the ice. It is too deep to move practically with small jeeps, and the ice is not strong enough to hold large trucks. Penney explained that as the snow is pushed back it piles up creating great weight on the ice in addition to the weight of the machinery causing the ice to crack and weaken dangerously.

Conditions on the flooded tennis courts are also such as to make clearing difficult. The courts were flooded Friday night when cold weather was predicted. However, it did not have sufficient time to freeze solid enough before the snow came. The only areas which may have some limited skating soon after they are cleared of snow and sprayed with water are playground areas at Burr, Albemarle and Angier.

can spell the difference between death and life itself.

Also the scales of the junk dealer, express company, candy stores, hardware stores and laundries as all gasoline vending pump meters, fuel oil delivery truck meters and linear measures from yard sticks to taxi meters, not only to insure accuracy for the benefit of consumers, but for the benefit of vendors as well.

With reference to small inaccuracies that may seem inconsequential Sealer Bowen said, "A weighing error of one ounce per pound for 100 weighings a day causes a loss of 6 1/4 pounds. Multiplied by 300 days in a year of a commodity priced at $1.00 a pound, the resultant loss is $1875.00. If a scale be fast, the loss is that of consumers. If the scale be slow, such loss falls upon the merchant.

If a gasoline vending pump meter is in error by one-tenth gallon (one fiftieth part) on each five gallons delivered at 30c per gallon, such loss will be $60.00 on each 10,000 gallons.

Analysis of Federal and local statistics indicate that in Newton $366.00 per person is the approximate annual food bill, or a total of over $33.5 million dollars within the City. Over 42,000,000 gallons of motor vehicle fuel worth over $12.5 million dollars pass through Newton vending pump meters annually.

Over 53,000,000 gallons of fuel oil for heating worth over

$8 million dollars are annually delivered within the City. Sealer Bowen pointed out that computation of such figures indicate that a 2% error in quantity determinations of only the three items of food, motor vehicle fuel, and fuel oil, would cause a loss of over $1,000,000.00, and without the surveillance of Newton's Weights and Measures Department over weighing and measuring devices involved in dispensing these three classifications, and other commodity dispensing, losses could be even more substantial.

"In addition to testing, adjusting, and sealing, or condemning commercial devices, containers, linear measures, etc.," Sealer Bowen concluded, "Deputy Sealer Silver and I, during the past year, have conducted thousands of inspections and trial weighings of mer-

Why Not Stokely?

Now that the United States has taken steps against Dr. Benjamin Spock and four other persons on charges of anti-draft activities, maybe the authorities will give some thought to possible action against Stokely Carmichael. In fact, we're puzzled that Dr. Spock and his group were singled out before Carmichael and others of his ilk.

In point of fact, Carmichael's language is more violent, more provocative, more likely to inflame young men against conscription and to defy the draft than the statements made by Dr. Spock. Yale University Chaplain William Sloane Coffin, Jr., Marcus Raskin, Mitchell Goodman and Michael Ferber.

In Harlem and elsewhere Carmichael has relentlessly urged Negroes not to participate in the draft or to go to Vietnam. The slogan he drummed into the ears of draft-age youngsters is "Hell no, we won't go!" On countless occasions he has cried out "We'll fight in Mississippi, in Watts, in Birmingham, but not in Vietnam."

In Paris recently Carmichael said he wanted a United States defeat in Vietnam and urged American Negroes to "develop a resistance movement that will disrupt the entire United States." In London, he declared that "we are going to take over — if the whites don't like it, we'll stamp them out." In Guinea, he vowed: "We will win our rights or we are going to burn the country down to the ground."

The U.S. Criminal Code specifically provides for the imprisonment of: "Whoever incites, sets a foot, assists, or engages in any rebellion or insurrection against the authority of the United States or the laws thereof, or gives aid or comfort thereto."

Further, Title 18, Section 2385 of the U.S. Code makes it a federal crime "to advocate, abet or advise overthrow or destroying the U.S. government or any political subdivision thereof by force or violence."

Although the Justice Department moved with alacrity against Dr. Spock, et al, it seems reluctant to take the steps necessary to indict Carmichael on any charge at all.

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark is known to be opposed to arresting Carmichael, but pressure may finally compel him to reverse his stand. Congressmen on both sides of the aisle are incensed about the Department of Justice's lack of action. Rep. Robert Sikes (D-Florida) charged: "It is beginning to appear that there are some in the Department of Justice who are obstructing the proper discharge of its responsibilities. It is time to get rid of them and of any others who simply are trying to avoid doing their duty."

Sen. Frank Moss (D-Utah) said, "The Department of Justice questions whether there is sufficient evidence to establish that Carmichael has violated any law now on the statute books." The Senator said his answer would be to file charges and let a court of competent jurisdiction render a decision.

We agree and urge that it be done.

Turn Thumbs Down

A bill filed for consideration by the 1968 Legislature would make Roman holidays out of executions of condemned prisoners in Walpole State Prison. Under the bill, which has been filed by Rep. Michael J. Harrington (D-Salem) and Rep. Jerome A. Segal (R-Danvers), all the news media, including television, would be able to cover and report any public execution in the Commonwealth.

The text of the bill reads: "Notwithstanding any general or special law, or rule or regulation to the contrary, all news communication media, including but not limited to radio, television and newspapers, shall be permitted to witness and report any public execution in the Commonwealth."

It has been over 20 years since a man convicted of murder has been executed in this state. However, that isn't to say that men will nevermore be executed in Massachusetts. At the present time, there are nine men in Death Row at Walpole whose sentences of death have not been carried out.

It is bad enough to read in the cold, impersonal black and white print of a newspaper of the death of a convicted slayer. How barbaric it would be to see the actual death in the electric chair — in living color — of such a person, or to hear a radio announcer describe it in macabre detail.

Meanwhile, under a resolve passed by the 1967 Legislature, the death penalty will be subject of a study and investigation by a special commission. It is believed that no execution will be carried out until the commission carries out its work.

Members of the Legislature should turn thumbs down on the Harrington-Segal bill.

Gourmets' Museum DES MOINES (UPI)—Hunt-WARSAW (UPI)—Gourmets in Iowa killed 1,449,000 will soon have a museum of pheasants in 1966, the Iowa Conservation Commission reports. The 1966 total was the high which will cook special dishes est statewide kill in the nation, from ancient recipes, the commission says.

LUNCH PROGRAM

Indeed a fifty-eight year old tradition was split wide open last week in the Newton Elementary Schools. I suspect it is the first time in history that all children in every grade school in the city have been invited by the Superintendent of Schools to bring their lunches to school. Needless to say this is a very common practice throughout the country and among our progressive next door neighbors.

As a parent and former grade school teacher of years of experience I feel I am qualified to see how the die is being cast against the children and parents of Newton. The whole plot against Single Session appears to me to most certainly have been carefully planned by the Administration but alas, the majority of parents in Newton are highly intelligent and many of them are educators and in position to clearly detect trickery.

First of all, the principals tried the guilt complex approach. One principal told a mother she was very worried about the mothers of Newton. They didn't want to bother with their children at lunch. They didn't care! But are mothers of Newton any different from mothers in Brookline, Needham, Waltham and Watertown?

Mothers from other cities are amazed that we Newton mothers "put up with" such a poor schedule for our children. Next there was a Study Group which was doomed to failure from the start. It was carefully rigged with a small minority of five representative s of Single Session. No more were invited and it was a painful struggle to even get five parents. The press was excluded.

In all fairness to the 3,000 parents who signed the petition for Single Session let it be known that another certainty seems to be that the Administration was really running the show, giving the orders behind the "supposed to be so fair" Study Group. Was this a political move to fool the parents? Was it not a beautifully timed and magnificent stall? We are all patiently waiting for the evaluation.

There was the interim report and the final report of the Study Group — thick, thick memoranda which actually said very little. Now we "just can't wait" to see the evaluation report. Will it be another Study of Nothingness? Who is on the evaluation committee? It is top secret. Even a member of the School Committee was refused the courtesy of an answer to this question.

Now there is the pilot program of three different time schedules, NOT the schedule expressing the wishes of 3,000 parents! A uniform five hour day FIVE days a week. I hear only the Cabot School program is labeled successful and will not strange excuses be manufactured to assure a poor report here too?

Worst of all, did not the Administration carefully organize the principals and teachers AGAINST a uniform schedule which is the children's urgent need? Last week a letter from Dr. Brown stated, "As a temporary measure we want you to know that Wednesday, January 3 and Friday, January 5, we will allow children whose parents desire to eat their lunch at school."

But to be fair to the teachers we are shocked that the Administration would force them to supervise an hour and a half lunch period. Far, far too long for the children and teachers. The best teachers in the world would find this a sentence especially on a Friday. How much easier for all last week if there had been a short or normal lunch period with the short days a bit longer to equalize all days to cooperate with the State. Sad to say too many Newton teachers are spoiled. When are they going to put the children first instead of being so selfish and flitting hither and yon starting at 12:10 noon on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons? We hear the workshops are not compulsory at all but STILL many teachers refuse to give the children extra help on the "free afternoons."

There is no need of any extra expense for a uniform day and a simple lunch program. Twenty minutes to a half hour for lunch is plenty of time and since our teachers are being well paid with a big raise coming up next year it is only part of their duty to take turns watching the children at lunch. A common rotating system could be easily set up which would not be a burden on any one teacher.

When is Newton going to comply with the spirit of the State standards and the Willis - Harrington Report? Our State Board of Education, under the able leadership of William Saltonstall, has been working diligently to establish good school hours. Nearly every community (about 230 of them in the Commonwealth) are glad to co-operate but NOT the Garden City. Not our Administration that is. Naturally NOT, Newton is "teacher oriented" as one parent stated at a Mason-Rice meeting many months ago. A salute to him. He hit the nail on the head! And image will never educate a child.

Mrs. Heckler Still Our Congressman

Editor of The Graphic: Recently every local postal patron in Newton, and perhaps other communities of the Third Congressional District, received a printed communication from Representative Philip J. Philbin advising us of his office in Clinton, Mass. It seems pretty inconvenient of citizens of this area to communicate with a Representative whose office is away from Worcester whenever he may be in the state and away from Washington.

I think this matter should be given serious consideration and study by the political parties in this District to see where this latest gerrymandering by the Legislature has left us. A community which has had such great Representatives as Thomas Eliot, Christian Herter, and even in recent years, Joseph Martin and Margaret Heckler, one almost feels disenfranchised when advised of the fact that this Representative in Washington has his local office north of Worcester, Massachusetts, in the town of Clinton. It would be interesting to know what other people from this area think about this and perhaps the time has come for us to consider this representation in the U.S. House in view of the lines that have been drawn for us in this District.

Donald L. Daniels
94 Moffat Rd., Newton

(Editor's Note: Congressman Philbin obviously was advising the people of Newton where they can contact him if they desire to do so. Congresswoman Margaret M. Heckler still represents Newton in the national House and will continue to do so for the remainder of this year. She has an office approximately on the Newton - Wellesley line. Congressman Philbin undoubtedly will establish an office closer to Newton than Clinton if he is reelected next November from his revised district.)

Value Of Minds

Editor of The Graphic: Mayor Basbas gave dire warnings about the Newton tax rate in his inaugural address. He went on to state that the school budget is primarily responsible for the increase and cited the statistic that the school budget increased 106 per cent from 1959 to 1967. At first glance this sounds alarming, but like all statistics must be put in perspective. For example what is the increase of the investment Newton tax payers make in automobiles as evidenced by the total valuation of cars registered here in 1959 and 1967? And how much have hospital and medical costs gone up in that period? What about car insurance? And of course there is the good old haircut!

The mayor informed us that the collection of garbage went up only 45%! (His exclamation mark) And putting out fires costs us only 66% more. Now, certainly, there is just so much you can do with gar-

Political Highlights

From what was said by Volpe's friend it seemed obvious that Volpe not only would be removed from the political picture as a factor in next fall's campaign if he accepted LBJ's job offer but that he also would be obliged to resign from the Governorship.

That would mean, of course, that Lieutenant Governor Francis W. Sargent would move up to become Governor in such a turn of events and that he also would be the GOP gubernatorial nominee in 1970.

It does not seem likely that Volpe would resign from the Governorship before he has completed even half of the four-year term to which he was elected in 1966.

However, the hint that he might do so came from so solid and responsible a source that it cannot be entirely discounted.

No indication was given as to what job might be offered to Volpe, but it presumably would have to be a post of the importance of Secretary of Defense to cause Volpe to give up the Governorship for it.

Volpe Is Always Able To See Silver Lining

Governor Volpe would have to be rated as one of the truly great optimists in the history of politics.

He can spot a silver lining that objective if he could get the basic issue before the Legislature.

Never was Volpe's unflagging ability to see the bright side of things more evident than when he discussed the bills he hopes the members of the Legislature will enact during 1968. Without exception, they are measures which last year were either killed, buried in committee or revamped to the point where it was not possible to recognize them.

High on Volpe's list of "must" matters is the proposal for the erection of a new sports stadium.

The only trouble with this form of wishful thinking is that a lot more time will be wasted and nothing will be accomplished.

It is now fairly evident that Volpe will get nowhere with a plan providing that the State will meet any deficit stemming from the financing of the stadium.

Volpe will go down to another gallant defeat unless his proposal is different from the one rejected by the State Senate this year.

The Governor's financial responsibility plan is not regarded by most legislators as the best solution to the State's automobile insurance problem.

If Volpe simply dusts off last year's measure and resubmits it, it will go down the drain in 1968, just as it did in 1967. His proposal must be revised and polished up to overcome some baggage collection and you can't have many more fires over the years. . . . But I would hope that there is a great deal you can do for children's minds, hopefully, even more than you do for their bodies in hospitals! Minds are the most precious commodity any community possess and one should hope that it increases its expenditures on the minds' behalf at twice the rate it increases its spending on trash. Our mayor asked us to make a value judgement before we spend any more money for our children's minds. We made that judgement. Mr. Mayor, when we elected our school committee, the one that asked for that 13% increase.

ing facetiously whether McCarthy's real purpose is to make President Johnson look good by comparison.

McCarthy's candidacy was taken seriously at the outset because it was felt his anti-war posture offered an alternative to President Johnson's policy in Vietnam.

As his dull, lackluster campaign has unfolded, however, many observers have reached the conclusion that McCarthy actually is offering no realistic alternative to the Johnson policy.

McCarthy is regarded as a political spoiler by some Democratic party regulars.

He can't possibly win the Democratic Presidential nomination next summer, but he conceivably could lessen the likelihood that the next President will be a Democrat.

Another possibility is that McCarthy's campaign will prove such a disaster that it will improve President Johnson's chances of achieving reelection instead of hurting them.

No realistic politician ever assumed that McCarthy could do any more than make a reasonably respectable showing against President Johnson and that his only support would stem from anti-war sentiment.

President Johnson—if he decides to stand for reelection—would crush any challenge at the Democratic national convention whether it came from McCarthy, Senator Robert Kennedy or anyone else.

But McCarthy has been such a disappointment and a bust that he hasn't even come up to minimum expectations.

He would not be given serious consideration as a Presidential prospect if Lyndon Johnson suddenly and unexpectedly were to decide he would not stand for another term.

Some political pundits are expressing the conviction that Bobby Kennedy isn't trying to build up McCarthy this year because it would mean he would only have to knock him down again in 1972.

It's more likely that Bobby Kennedy realizes he couldn't build up McCarthy if he wanted to try. There just isn't anything on which to build.

Some statements have implied that the Kennedy brothers owed it to McCarthy to support him. As far as this writer is aware, there is no basis for that contention.

An erroneous impression exists in some quarters that McCarthy supported the late John F. Kennedy at the 1960 Democratic national convention.

The fact is that McCarthy made a nominating speech for Adlai Stevenson at the '60 conclave in Los Angeles and was hopeful that he would land on the Democratic ticket as the candidate for Vice President.

McCarthy will test his strength in the New Hampshire Presidential Primary March 12 and in the Massachusetts Presidential Primary April 30.

The guessing now is that McCarthy's campaign may have folded up before Bay State voters go to the polls in the first meaningful Presidential Primary held in Massachusetts.

In fact, some Democratic politicians are now so confident they could run ahead of McCarthy in this State that they may obtain the necessary 2500 signatures to have their names placed on the ballot as candidates against him.

Gibbons Health Broken While Under Indictment

Charles Gibbons, once one of the top leaders of the Republican party in Massachusetts, sat in a wheelchair only a shell of the vigorous man political writers knew but a few years ago.

He appeared broken in both health and spirit, and he wept openly in a courtroom as the indictments pending against him since early in 1964 were dismissed.

The action cleared the way for Gibbons to obtain a state pension and collect thousands of dollars in back salary.

As best it could, the law made amends to Gibbons for the years and the months he lived under a cloud since he was indicted on May 8, 1964, on the basis of information gathered by the now defunct Crime Commission.

But no one can undo the harm done to Gibbons himself—to his life, to his health—while he was under indictment.

It's not possible to give Gibbons back the three years and eight months which in a sense were taken out of his life.

This is one more example of the great and grave injustice which can be done when a man under indictment is not given a speedy trial.

Credit Lodge Of B'nai B'rith To Hold Breakfast

The new Credit and Finance Lodge, B'nai B'rith, will be instituted, officers installed and charter presented at a breakfast meeting on Sunday morning, January 21, at the Sidney Hill Country Club in Chestnut Hill at 9:30 a.m. Harry J. Greenblatt, past president, District No. 1, B'nai B'rith, will install Edwin H. Cohen as the first president. Irving Matross, president of the B'nai B'rith Council of Greater Boston, will present a gavel to the lodge and Phillip Faneuil, member, Board of Governors District No. 1, B'nai B'rith will act as toastmaster.

Harvey Platt of New York, secretary, District No. 1, B'nai B'rith, will deliver the keynote address.

Other officers to be installed are vice presidents, Leonard Chmura, Jerome L. Cole, E. Harold Frankel, Alan E. Kunian, Nathan Prince and Harold Rogowitz; recording secretary, Philip Silverman; corresponding secretary, Gerald Fleishman; financial secretary, Paul Finkelstein; treasurer, Harold Skolnick; warden, David L. Gan; guardian, Barry M. Freeman, and chaplain, Edward A. Getman.

Trustees, Lawrence A. Bernstein, John Gold, Herbert Jacobs, Robert Kess, Norton L. Kessler, Charles J. Lee, Burton M. Pike, Leo Pinciss, Matthew I. Shapiro, Geoffrey L. Smith, Willet Smith and William Wolper.

According to Philip L. Buxbaum, director of the Boston B'nai B'rith office, the charter will remain open until Jan. 21. There are now over 75 charter members. All men in the fields of credit, collection, financing, banking and office management are invited to attend and join this new B'nai B'rith unit.

Aldermen—

mittee Chairman Ernest Dietz felt that the board should be informed of equipment needs as soon as possible so that funds can be included in this year's budget which will be voted within a couple of months.

The board's action in calling for the snow removal investigation stemmed from numerous complaints following the snowstorms of Dec. 28 and 31.

Egelson, in his report, said that most aldermen were in agreement that the plowing jobs during the storms and the clean-up afterward were "the poorest in memory."

Egelson noted that at a meeting held after the storms Public Works Director Willard S. Pratt reported a series of reasons for the breakdown in the system.

These included: "extreme weather conditions, an unusually heavy snowfall followed by rain and freezing temperatures; the failure of some contractor equipment to show up for work, and many of those that did come without tire chains; the illness of key city supervisory personnel; the lack of available city-owned equipment and a higher incidence of breakdowns of that which we had in service."

It was felt by most aldermen, Egelson reported, "that the issue should not be one of recriminations for one instance of poor performance, but rather it should be that of determining the longer term constructive measures that the city should take to assure ourselves and the citizens that this situation would not be likely to reoccur."

"Fortunately, during the storm of this past weekend, we were shown again what a good job the city can do, under admittedly less severe weather conditions," Egelson concluded.

It was pointed out that neighboring communities had similar snow removal problems to Newton's during the year-end storms.

Alderman William Matthews suggested that city workers be invited to speak to the committee to give their views as to what went wrong.

Alderman Paul Burke said he hoped citizens would write to the chairman of the Public Works Committee of the Board of Aldermen at Newton City Hall to contribute whatever information on the snow removal matter they might have.

The aldermen, in related action, approved an appropriation of $54,000 to cover expenditures for snow and ice removal through Dec. 31, 1967. This was to make up a deficit incurred by the two year-end storms.

About 210,000 Connecticut men served in World War II and 52,000 in the Korean War.

Newton J.C. Hears Address On Drugs

This year's topic at the Newton Junior College All-College Convocation held on Tuesday was drug addiction. Conducted at the Newton High School Auditorium on Walnut Street beginning at 11:15 a.m., yesterday, the commentary accompanied by a color movie entitled "Decision", was delivered by Mr. William P. Kearney, Senior Inspector in the Massachusetts Department of Public Health.

The movie illustrated the condition which leads to drug addiction, the social factors which encourage the taking of drugs, and the problems of withdrawal.

In his commentary, Mr.

Lee Loumos Says:

The legitimate retail merchant is not only the forgotten man in our government, but is very often a scapegoat. The government has protected the farmer, the worker, the teacher, the old and infirm, the wayward and destitute, but the merchant, when not told to compete or perish, becomes the object of consumer protectionism. This development, however, is welcome for it is effective it means that I won't have to compete against come-on advertisements, usurious credit, or unkept service promises. I don't subscribe to the "caveat emptor" philosophy, which should be the legitimate target of legislation, but I do believe that many times the cupidity of the buyer is his undoing. So, in the overall picture, look for your money's worth; more than that can be suspected, and you are eminently entitled to no less.

Headlights and Highlights From Newton High School

By KATE SOLOMON

Before vacation at Newton High there were Christmas parties. The clubs had parties. The houses had parties. The classrooms had parties.

During vacation there were varied festivities. Students went to Hawaii and Florida. They went downtown Boston and to Harvard Square. They were twice forced to remain inside by "ferocious" snow storms. They slept. They ate. They had a good time. — Their teachers were not supposed to give them homework.

Now, it is after vacation; the end of the term no less. This year, for the first time, students will receive a semester grade in all their subjects. This semester grade, which is an average of the grades of the first and second terms, is needed for those students who decide to drop a course at the end of the term — a prerogative new this year.

Under this new system, called the tri-semester plan, if a student successfully completes the first half of a two part course in January and subsequently fails the second half of this course in June he will receive full credit for the first half of the course.

If a student drops a full-year course such as Math or French after successfully completing the first half, he must have his parents' permission and the approval of his guidance counselor. After acquiring this, he receives his two and a half credits.

All program changes must be made through the guidance counselors. This includes the addition or deletion of half year courses and involves a great deal of "red tape." In prior years, all second term subjects appeared on the student's schedule in September to avoid all the extra work.

There are 68 non-sequential courses offered the second term at Newton High. These include classes in English such as Creative Writing and Theatre Arts; in Mathematics such as Matrix Algebra and Consumer Math; in Science such as Chemistry Seminars and Physical Science; in Business; in Art; in Home and Family; in Industrial Arts; in Music; in Tech Vocation; and in Driver Education. Apparently quite a few of the twenty-five hundred students at Newton High will be visiting their guidance counselors soon.

"To facilitate the change to a new semester," said Principal Richard Meecham, "We will close school at 1:00 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, January 18th and 19th. The entire faculty will remain at school for consultation with students and other staff members until 4:00 p.m. on the 18th and until 3:00 p.m. on the 19th."

Mr. Meecham also reported that, "As of June 1968, we shall discontinue the formal 'trimester' system."

From Time

For both juniors and seniors the prom is a memorable occasion and the plans for the various details are made quite a long time in advance.

Last April, seniors made reservations at the Statler Hilton in Boston for the senior prom. Jay Gentile and Marian Cooper were appointed last week to work with class president Bob Tenant on the specifics of the occasion.

So far, it has been decided that the senior class will not provide dinner, as was done last year at Monticello, and of course, the dress will be formal. The prom will be held Monday, June 3, two days before graduation.

The Junior Prom will be held April 27 at Longwood Tower in Brookline. Dress is formal or informal according to the individual desire.

The theme for the junior prom is "Hold Fast Your Dreams." This theme was chosen for a number of reasons. First of all it provides many possibilities for decoration. It also sets the proper mood for the occasion and has quite a bit of meaning for juniors. This is the junior's year of planning, of deciding what changes will be made in his life. He should retain his idealistic dreams toward life — social, educational or otherwise.

Senior Class

The Senior Class Committee represents the entire senior class and therefore likes to know exactly what the senior class wants. On Thursday, January 4, it passed around a poll asking for the seniors' preference for a speaker at graduation.

The choices for the poll were (1) Entertainer, (2) Politician, (3) Athlete, (4) Philosopher, (5) Author, and (6) Others. Students were simply supposed to check one of the suggestions or else write in their own idea. The results of the poll have not yet been tallied.

A senior class forum is being scheduled tentatively for March 14. At the forum, awards such as the Harvard Book and the Williams Book will be given, and Mr. Meecham will speak. Mrs. Sally Martin and Mrs. Ruth Levine, senior class advisors will also talk to the class.

Bob Tenant, class president will review the senior year for the students, report the plans for the rest of the year, then open the floor to discussion.

Seniors will be encouraged to ask questions of Bob, Elaine Horn, James Weaver, Ann Meecham, and Barbara Dangel, the class officers. They will also be encouraged to express their opinions of the plans for the prom and for graduation.

Seniors can finally disobey the Newton High dress code. On January 23 (tentatively) seniors will be allowed to wear sweatshirts and crazy hats to school for the annual, "Senior Sweatshirt and Hat Day." Tickets will be sold in homeroom for twenty-five cents per person.

The Senior Class Committee is presently deciding whether the senior play, "The Rhinoceros," will be presented on only one night or on two successive nights. The play will be performed sometime in the middle of March. Casting for the play is now taking place.

A.F.S. Exchange

Friday, January 5, Newton High was not just populated with its own students. Four foreign students who are presently attending high schools in the Massachusetts area, visited Newton High. Bob Houghteling, a Newton High senior, brought the Switzerland student to all his classes; Amy Saldinger, also a senior, brought around a Brazilian student; and Florel Mallon, a junior who has lived all over South America, brought around a student from Argentina. The three students are studying at Wellesley High School, Beacon Hill High, and Lexington High respectively.

The fourth foreign student at Newton High was a girl from Denmark who now attends Newton South. Pat Chica from Columbia and Angela Pope from England, visited Newton South. Pat and Angela are the two Newton High A.F.S.'ers.

At six o'clock Sue Carp and Bob Houghteling gave dinner parties for all the Newton High A.F.S. members. At 7:30, a folk dance was held at Newton South High School. The dance was a combined effort of the Newton High and the Newton South A.F.S. chapters, and was open to everyone (75 cents per person).

Arthur Salzman, a graduate student from M.I.T. and Bob Houghteling taught various folk dances and Mr. Salzman sang and played the guitar.

Plays

Students from Mrs. Judith Brier's Theatre Arts class have been performing a part of Arthur Miller's "The Crucible" in front of several English classes. The play has already been performed three different times, and is forty minutes long. Costumes are only minimum but all parts are memorized. The play required about six weeks of preparation.

Starring in the play are Herbert Levine, a senior, as Judge Danforth; John Fleishman, a senior, as John Proctor; Alvin Krinsky, a senior, as Reverend Hale; and sophomore Mart Hurwitz as Judge Hathorne.

The female parts are Sandy Goodman as Mary Warren, Betsy Hinchey as Elizabeth Proctor, and Cindy Vogel as Abigail Williams. Sandy, Betsy, and Cindy are all juniors. Seniors Donna Ross, Ruth

Husband-Wife Art Creates Interest At Gallery Here

Technique combined with interpretive genius lends vitality and interest to the present two-man show at Berman-Medallie Gallery, Newtonville Square, now through Feb. 10.

Boris Margo and Jan Gelb, husband and wife artists, have achieved renown for their cellocuts and color intaglios.

The cellocut utilizes a new varnish (which is a liquid type of plastic material, composed of sheet celluloid dissolved in acetone), coated upon any smooth surface, such as copper, aluminum, zinc, etc. When it has set, the resulting surface may be worked with either woodcut or intaglio tools. The plates are printed in relief or intaglio as the artist desires. Prints are created on an etching press — each an original.

Boris Margo, the originator of the method, has employed it in an attempt to synthesize new techniques and forms with new content. In his application of the cellocut process, he has striven to portray some of the impersonal and intuitive expression of the artist.

Several of his cellocuts include writing. Margo borrows from the world's alphabets, expressing in this symbolic form the universal hope that all people will one day work together toward common goals. Margo's works may be found in major collections throughout the world. Among them are the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Whitney Museum of American Art, Museum of Modern Art, Brooklyn Museum, Sao Paulo Museum of Art, Brazil, the Art Institute of Chicago, The Los Angeles County Museum, Pidgeon and Ann Kristel are the children.

The Theatre Arts classes have also performed "The View from the Bridge," "A Taste of Honey," and "The Glass Menagerie." Starring in "The View from the Bridge" were Howard Bronstein, Larry Clark, Herbert Levine, David Rome, Nina Solimata, and Karen Gohn.

Nancy Pellows, Paul Toomey and Lyn Chernis starred in "A Taste of Honey" and Sue Hurray and Warren Feldberg were the stars of "The Glass Menagerie."

Newton Hockey Hopes High After Win Over Waltham

Sophomore Steve Condon came up with his second straight superlative effort in the nets to guide Newton High to a 2 to 0 win over arch-rival Waltham Saturday afternoon at the Boston Arena.

The victory raises the Tigers' record in GBI hockey to 3-1-1, just two points behind undefeated, league-leading Medford High.

The win was a "must," in that if Newton had lost, they would have fallen to fifth place behind Waltham and hopes for the State Tournament would have slimmed.

In the battle of the sophomore goal tenders, Condon and Hawk, Ned Yetten, the Newton youngster emerged victorious. Both played extremely well though, Yetten making 18 saves, and Condon stopping 11.

If not for the play of Yetten, the score would have been much more decisive, because the puck was in his end for most of the game. Midway through the third period, he made successive sparking saves on Donny Gallagher and Jack Droz which sent him sprawling to the ice.

He was hit on the head, but returned from the bench shortly afterward with a fine round of applause.

At 4:04 of the first period, Newton scored a power-play goal with a Waltham defenseman in the penalty box for tripping.

Senior Mike Dezzotti received a pass near the blue line on the left side from Bob Barry. He proceeded to stick-handle beautifully around two Hawk defensemen, circle around to the front of the net, and push the puck into the left corner. The puck slid under the pads of Yetten, and Newton led 1-0.

The final goal was scored early in the middle stanza as Donny Gallagher tallied unassisted. The wiry center out-fought a Waltham defenseman on the left boards, skated toward the net, and popped the disc by Yetten from about five feet. An outstanding solo effort.

In addition to junior goalie Bob Sweeney, left winger Bob Cotter has also been sidelined by the flu bug, and was replaced in Saturday's action by second liner Ralph Murphy.

Murphy performed creditably, although apparently not used to playing with Droz and Gallagher. In the third period Murphy was responsible for four Tiger shots on net, helping in keeping Waltham in its own end.

This contest was only Condon's second varsity game, and Coach Sarge Kinlin could ask for no better a beginning to his career. Prior to Waltham, last week he shut out Somerville, and appears to be gaining more and more poise in the net as he plays.

Kinlin is going to have a tough decision to make on which one of his netminders he is going to play in future weeks. Both Sweeney and Condon have two shutouts to their credit, and Newton has blanked its opponents in four of its five games.

One sidelight to the contest was the blanking of Waltham high-scorer Ed Roubian. Roubian has tallied 11 times, including a six-goal effort against Rindge.

Junior defenseman Paul Britt was especially responsible as he was stick checking well and knocked Roubian to the ice several times. During the game, Roubian was able to get off only four shots at the net, and none of those were particularly challenging for Condon.

The Tigers had 24 shots on Yetten during the game, and at one time had a two man advantage due to penalties, but could not score.

Except for Condon, Dezzotti would have to be named the individual star for Newton. The tough defenseman's skating and stick-handling was outstanding, and it was he who was essential to the Tigers' retaining the puck near the Waltham end.

The next three weekends find Newton playing at the Arena against Cambridge Latin, Arlington and Rindge. The first is a 7:00 PM game while the other two commence at 12:30 PM. The Tigers will have completed half their schedule after meeting Arlington.

Tiger Quintet Drops 2 More In Hoop League

A lack of hustle and rebounding strength gave the Newton High basketball team its third and fourth losses last week in Suburban League play against Rindge Tech and Brockton High.

However, Newton coach Al Fortune had two happy notes when seniors Phil Nelson and Mike Gallagher saw their first action of the year after being sidelined with injuries. Nelson, the co-captain, scored eight points in each game and Gallagher, a 6-3 forward, hooped 13 against Brockton.

Rindge fired to a commanding 39-16 halftime lead at Cambridge and went on to win, 75-62. The Technicians were paced by 6-3 Lloyd Merriman, who scored 24 points and pulled down 14 rebounds.

The tough Rindge defense, keeping the Tigers outside, and numerous Newton turnovers keyed the winners' first-half surge. Merriman and junior Warren Collins stifled the Newton offense by controlling the boards and coming up with three steals.

Struggling back in the second half, the losers came within 10 points but Merriman and Sonny Cox (13 points) kept Tech out of reach. Newton outscored Rindge after intermission, 46-36.

High scorers for the Tigers were Jack Mavissakalian and Paul Lubin, with 11 points each. Paul Colantonio was held to four points but grabbed 17 rebounds for Newton.

Like Rindge, Brockton started fast against Newton and rolled to an easy 58-38 victory at Newton.

Shooting only 24 percent from the floor, compared to the Shoe Citizens' 50 percent, Newton fell behind, 55-16, at the half. The Tigers were again out rebound, losing the board advantage 30-37.

Newton was unable to recover from its first-half falling as the Tigers made a number of mistakes in the final two stanzas. Newton committed 38 turnovers in the game and was again out-hustled.

Center Bernardo Sylvia, 6-6 led the winners with 17 markers and 13 rebounds. Brockton is now 4-0 in league action and 5-1 overall. Newton is 1-3 in the loop and 1-4 overall.

Lions Continue Hockey Surge With 4th Victory

By NED MORSE

Two goal performances by linemen Gary Mescon and Tom Rezzuti led the Newton South Lions to a 6-1 win over Westwood. This victory marked the team's fourth straight triumph and sixth game in succession without a defeat.

South generated a tremendous offensive attack early in the game. Aggressive checking, sharp passing, and accurate shooting resulted in four first period tallies.

With only 40 seconds elapsed from the opening buzzer, Jimmie O'Connor tallied the game's first goal. He tipped the puck during a scramble in front of the Westwood net, after two other shots had been thwarted by the rival goal-tender. Both Jim Spinks and Biff Wisner assisted on the tally.

Less than a minute later Ron Nelson scored off a feed from Captain Jack Dunnigan. Nelson popped the puck in from short range after receiving a perfect pass.

Rezzuti collected his first goal of the contest on a pass from Mescon midway through the period. Mescon started the scoring play with a centering pass to Rezzuti who was stationed in front of the Westwood net. Rezzuti finished the play by beating the netminder cleanly on a short shot.

Right wing Rezzuti paid Mescon back for his scoring pass by sending Gary in alone for the last goal of the period. Center Nelson also received an assist on the play.

The Lions held an edge in first period play outshooting Westwood, 11-4, and dominating play-completing. Even when short-handed on two occasions the Lions controlled play.

Saddled by two penalties at the outset of the second stanza South skated two men short. But the great skating and stick handling ability of Biff Wisner offset this deficit perfectly.

He did an outstanding job ragging the puck and killing the penalty. Despite the absence of his two line-mates Wisner fired two strong shots on net.

Returning to full strength after the penalty time expired, the Lions continued to barrage the Westwood goal. They had several good scoring opportunities but were able to convert only one.

Rezzuti tallied with time expiring quickly at the end of the period. He was set up in front by Nelson and Dunnigan. Immediately following his goal Rezzuti received the butt end of a Westwood defenseman's stick causing an ugly cut above his right eye.

This unsportsmanlike gesture led to a three minute major penalty for the Westwood skater. Fortunately, Lion trainer Bucky Adams was able to stop the bleeding and Rezzuti saw action in the third period.

With a one man advantage Coach William Jesdale allowed his third line to gain valuable skating experience. Bill Roundsville, Bob Ramirez and Chuck Wolfson showed plenty of hustle finishing out the period.

Third period action featured the Lion's sixth goal and Westwood's lone tally. With each team a man shy, Mescon won the faceoff in the Westwood end, faked out both a defenseman and the goalie and tallied his fourth goal of the season. Both Rezzuti and defenseman Alan Fraser were credited with assists on the play.

Westwood's only goal came on a high bouncing shot which took a crazy hop past the lunging stick of goalie Dave Roberts. Despite this freak score Roberts played his typical stellar game in the nets, making 17 stops.

Alternate goalie Warren Ross made an appearance late in the game and performed admirably, making three fine saves. South's domination throughout the game was exemplified by their 40 shots on goal.

Wrestlers Win Another Match; Sport 3-0 Mark

The Newton South wrestling team swept both of their matches last week, to bring their season's mark to 3-0.

On January 3, the Lions pulverized Weston High, 48-5. Neil Applebaum (103 pound class), Jon Walner (112 pounds), Mark Buchine (120 pounds), Dave Hill (127 pounds), Marty Leventhal (133 pounds), Howie Gershmann (138 pounds), Wally Milgroom (145 pounds), Captain Lou DiFazio (154 pounds), and Ned McDonald (165 pounds), all planned their opponents. Russell Brooks, wrestling in the unlimited class, earned three points in gaining a decision over his man. Cliff Kolovson, wrestling varsity for the first time, absorbed the only Lion defeat as he was pinned while trailing 6-5.

Against Wayland High School, January 5, the grapplers prevailed, 21-12. There were no pins in the match, but the Lions took seven decisions. Neil Applebaum started things off in the 103 pound class. He was followed by Jon Walner (112 pounds), who earned his decision, 4-3, by scoring a reversal in the final two seconds. However, Mark Buchine and Dave Hill lost their matches, and the score was tied 6-6. But Marty Leventhal and Howie Gershmann took their matches to give South the lead before Wally Milgroom was upended. Lou DiFazio and Ned McDonald beat their opponents, before Frank Vespa was topped in the 180 pound class. However, Lou Shuman, wrestling unlimited, ran over his opponent.

In the mile, junior Fred Kaye placed third to score South's first point of the day. Juniors Richard Aron and Rodney Brown then sprinted in second and third in the 1000, reversing their last week's finish. However, the Lions were the nsht-out in the two-mile and 300-surprisingly. Sophomore Fouad Sayess copped a second in the hurdles, but Newton was then blanked in the 50 yard dash. The Lions earned a split in the high jump (4 1/2 points) behind junior Peter Bernstein and a second in the shot put behind Dolberg to round out the individual scoring.

The final Lion points came on a victory in the four-man relay. Sophomore Bob Shea started for South. At the end of his two laps (of 176 yards each) he was five yards behind. Shea passed the baton to Kopelman, who, participating at far below peak efficiency, fell behind by nearly 25 yards. The third man, Peter Bernstein, made up most of the lost ground, and passed to Dolberg, trailing by just under ten yards. Dolberg, the anchor man, then roared by his opponent, winning by fifteen yards. South ran the relay, which is 1400 yards in 302.7, eight-tenths of a second slower than their winning time of the previous week, vs. Arlington.

South High Cagers Tumbled Tigers' Track Illness Mars Twice; Juniors Split Pair Team Loses Lions Track To Weymouth League Effort

By Lewis Freedman

The Newton South High cagers were topped twice last week in Suburban League action. A vastly improved Arlington team (from last year's last place finish), stymied the Lions 68-57, as did powerhouse Weymouth, undefeated in their last 24 league games, 77-56.

Against Arlington, Jan. 3, the Lions started slowly, scoring their first points with nearly half the period gone. At 4:51, with Arlington ahead, 4-0, senior center, 6-5 Ken Issacs dropped in a lay-up. He was fouled, and also swished the free throw. Seconds later Issacs came back to hit a short jumper to put the Lions in front, 5-4. However, Arlington was hot and the rest of the Lions weren't hitting. Arlington led, 15-9, at the quarter with Issacs scoring all but two of South's points.

In the second quarter, the Lions came out with a half-court zone press to force three quick Arlington turnovers. But hot Arlington's outside shooting broke the Lion's zone, so at the half the Lions trailed by 12, 29-17.

South came alive in the third quarter, pouring in 26 points. The Lion's zone defense was very effective, forcing many Arlington bad passes. Lee Casty, suffering from a bad cold, passed brilliantly, setting up Issacs and Cliff Greene repeatedly for easy shots. When the buzzer sounded, the Lions were within reach, 50-43.

The Lions faded in the fourth quarter, however, with only Cliff Greene remaining hot, and popping in every conceivable kind of shot for his 27 points. Even Issacs, who played an excellent game, on the boards, and in scoring (16 points), took a back seat to Greene's heroics. But Arlington was not intimidated, and prevailed, 68-57.

Following the varsity game, the JV Lions earned their fourth consecutive victory of the season, over the Arlington JV, 37-33.

South led all the way, behind exceptional play by guards Bill Starr, Barry Kraft, and John Lopez. Midway through the fourth quarter, quarter, however, Arlington made a comeback attempt. Arlington's spurt brought them to within one point, 28-27. But excellent free throw shooting saved the Lions. Starr, Kraft, and Lopez swished seven or eight shots from the charity strips. Arlington continued to score, though, and it took a clutch rebound and subsequent basket by forward Steve Porter to ice the game. Bill Starr was high man for South with 11 points.

In order to combat a taller, faster Weymouth team, Newton South started their contest off with a slow deliberate, offense with the purpose being to work the ball inside to the forwards. For a while, it worked, but mid-way through the first period, two steals by the Maroon were converted into fast-break lay-ups. These plays, coupled with the hot hands of guard Ed Wisneski, who popped in 10 points, enabled Weymouth to open up a 16-11 first quarter lead.

Weymouth's tenacious man-to-man defense, especially the backcourt duo of Wisneski and Fran Donovan, prevented South from mounting much of an offense. Even though Bob Saltzberg came off the bench to toss in 3 long bombs, the Lions were outscored, 22-13, in the period. Wisneski continued to bomb away, and racked up 13 points in leading Weymouth to a 38-24 halftime advantage.

As the third quarter began, the Lions started a brief comeback. Lee Casty fed Ken Issacs underneath for a hoop, and Skip Novick, after two recoveries of loose balls dropped in a foul shot. But then the Weymouth defense stiffened, and from that point on the Maroon outscored the Lions, 20-2, in the period for a 58-29 lead.

In the fourth period, Coach Warren Bechtold played mostly his substitutes.

The Weymouth coach followed suit, and a total of 23 players got into the game. South put on a very strong showing in the quarter, running up 27 points to Weymouth's 19. Ed Wisneski led all scorers with 24 points. For the Lions, Casty with 11, and Bob Saltzberg with 10 points were tops.

Tough defending state champion Weymouth defeated the Tigers of Newton High last Saturday in a dual track meet at the MIT indoor athletic building.

Weymouth's individual stars were quite apparent as they took eight firsts and four seconds while the Cats could manage only two firsts and five seconds.

The MIT track was very soft and the times were much slower in the distance events than usual.

Registering victories for the Newtonites were Seniors Chris Quinn in the hurdles and Dave Hoover in the high jump. Also placing for the Black and Orange were Bill Tomb and Jeff Hyman 23 in the mile; Ken Prince, Doug Tomb 23 in the 1000, Bill Thurston, third in the 600, and Captain Ned Epstein, second in the 300.

Bob Tennant and Dave Hoover took 23 in the 2 mile as did Don McMillen and Bob Matseff in the 50. Thirde were taken by Bill Clark in the high jump and hurdles and Rob Cohen in the shot put.

and John Lopez, was also a contributing factor.

The Weymouth speed and height finally wore the Lions down in the second half, as South was trounced, 30-16 in the half. When the buzzer sounded, the JV Lions were losers for the first time, 52-31. Bill Starr again paced the South attack with 11 points.

South is now tied with Wayland for first place in the schoolboy league with a 4-0-1 record. ## Military Bulk Mail Gets New Overseas Help

Upon payment of a fee of $1.00 per parcel, in addition to postage at regular surface rates, parcels weighing not more than 30 pounds or exceeding 60 inches in length and girth combined, which are mailed at or addressed to any overseas military post office outside the 48 contiguous States will be given airlift service.

These parcels should be marked in large letters PAL (parcel air lift) immediately below the postage and above the name of the addressee.

Postmaster Ephraim Martin emphasized that there is no change in the airlift service for parcels not exceeding 5 pounds on which a $1.00 fee is NOT paid. These are known as SAM parcels (space available mail).

The postmaster stated that there are plenty of one-cent stamps on hand for the general public to be used with 5-cent stamps on hand to conform to the new 6c letter rate which went into effect last Sunday, January 7th.

Secretaries of clubs and organizations should check with their local post-offices to ascertain the new rates before mailing their next meeting notices or other matter.

"I'm Living Yastrzemski" Says Author of Yaz Book

By KATE SOLOMON
Al Hirshberg is a writer. He has written 30 books. He writes a sports column three times a week for The Herald-Traveler. He writes random articles for magazines.

"Writing is like any other profession," Mr. Hirshberg remarked. "Sure it's fun. And certainly there's a thrill in seeing your name in print. But what really makes it exciting is getting paid for what you enjoy."

"It's mainly the novelist and the poet who become inspired," he continued. "Journalism is a practical business."

Mr. Hirshberg feels that the hardest part about writing is finding enough material. "If you have enough information, the writing itself should come easily," he commented.

Believing in a simple, direct style, Mr. Hirshberg contends that embellished, flowery writing often indicates a lack of substantial material. He himself does not like to use long or unusual words, but instead aims at creating a natural, conversational tone.

Mr. Hirshberg is presently writing a book about Carl Yastrzemski, narrated in the first person. "I've read over my notes so many times now that I feel like I'm actually living Yastrzemski," he commented.

All the expenses and profits connected with the book are to be split equally between Yastrzemski and Mr. Hirshberg. For example, immediately following the World Series, Yaz had to attend a meeting in Miami. Since Mr. Hirshberg had to begin the book at one, the two men shared the cost of Mr. Hirshberg's trip to Florida.

Instead of taking notes or remembering everything by heart, Mr. Hirshberg brings his tape recorder to his interviews. Knowing ahead of time exactly what he wants, his only problem is inducing the person interviewed to talk freely about certain topics. He doesn't have to be concerned with writing anything down; his tape recording is later transcribed into typewritten pages.

According to Mr. Hirshberg, the main problem of novice interviewers and sometimes even of professionals is their inability to listen. "Many interviewers are so busy thinking of their next question, they don't really listen to what their interviewee is saying," Mr. Hirshberg remarked. "Consequently, they often miss unusual information and can easily offend the speaker."

Another major weakness the interviewer often possesses is interrupting the speaker. "The interviewer should just let his interviewee keep talking," Mr. Hirshberg asserted. "Otherwise he'll rupture the interviewee's train of thought and will make him unwilling to offer unusual or especially probing information."

"The worst thing an interviewer can do is to show his complete ignorance of his interviewee's specialty," commented Mr. Hirshberg. "For example, one must not go up to a football coach and say, 'I don't know anything about football but...'. The interviewer should try to find out as much about his prospective interviewee as he can ahead of time."

Mr. Hirshberg gets most of the information for his books and articles from his interviews. He, therefore, is constantly coming into contact with people.

According to Mr. Hirshberg, the only way to draw out people who are excessively shy is

Diet Workshop Open House Set At 3 Locations

The public is invited to a Diet Workshop Open House to be held at the following locations:

Temple Kehillath Israel, 384 Harvard Street, Brookline, Wednesday, January 17 at 10:00 a.m.

Newton Corner office, 317 Washington Street, January 17, Wednesday at 8:00 p.m. Temple Emeth, 194 Grove Street, Brookline, January 18, Thursday at 9:30 a.m. An experienced group leader who has lost weight on this program conducts the meetings.

No medical advice is given, nor is group therapy attempted. Weight loss is attained through the stimulus of meeting others who share the same problems in following each other as they lose weight together.

Discussions are held on special problems, such as entertaining, attending dinner parties and other affairs, resisting children's left-overs, how to satisfy the nibbler and how to coordinate the diet with family meal preparations.

As participants in the program, members can anticipate losing pounds gradually and sensibly by means of using gourmet recipes, such as pizzas and frappes. These recipes, which go hand-in-hand with the diet are given each week, giving the members something to look forward to, as opposed to the old "rabbit food" school of dieting.

For those who stay with the program until they reach their goal, a Graduation present is tendered. In addition, graduates may attend meetings free-of-charge forever as long as they do not gain over two pounds.

There will be an opportunity for those to join to do so at the conclusion of the Open House. There will be no fee for those who do not wish to join.

Adult Center Open House Set For Wednesday Night

Anthony J. Bibbo, ACSW Executive Director of the Newton Community Center, has announced that an Open House for adults from Newton and surrounding communities has been set for Wednesday (Jan. 17) from 7 to 10 p.m. at their quarters 429 Cherry street, West Newton.

The purpose of this event is to afford interested persons the opportunity to learn more about the adult education courses offered by the Center and to meet the faculty. Early registrations will be taken following the "Open House" and throughout the days preceding the start of classes. Brochures are presently available at the Newton, Wellesley, Needham, Weston and Waltham Public Libraries as well as at the Community Center.

A sampling of the program includes: The History and Practice of Art taught by Mr. John Cornillon; the American Novel since 1950 taught by Miss Ann Sonz; The Art and Practice of the Journal and Short Story Workshop taught by Mrs. Susan Cornillon; and the Poetry Workshop lead by Mr. Barry Jackson.

The program is scheduled for two ten-week periods with meeting hours coordinated with public schools for the convenience of mothers with youngsters in nursery and elementary schools.

In commenting on the offerings, Mrs. William Wright, Center coordinator for this activity stated that each of the courses offers an excellent teaching faculty. A short description of one of the offerings, The History and Practice of Art — Artistic Participation in the World View of the artist from impressionism to the psychedelic would include that the course deals with modern intellectual and artistic trends. Students will be encouraged to paint or sculpt their interpretations of these movements as they go along so they can immediately put into creative practice what they have learned and are learning. Multi-media effects will be used to reproduce the environment of the ten major art movements that will be studied. ## Registrations Hit All-Time High This Year

Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin today announced that 1968 registrations processed through the end of December 1967 exceeded the two million mark creating an all-time record.

In releasing this information, the Registrar stated that this was the largest number of motor vehicles registered prior to January one for the ensuing year in the history of the Commonwealth.

"We are proud of the teamwork and unstinting devotion which Registry of Motor Vehicles employees exhibited during the rush of business in regular office hours and during many additional tedious hours after the close of the business day. Their efforts in processing the deluge of last-minute 1968 registrations in the last two weeks of 1967 made it possible to complete the enormous registration task in time for the New Year."

"The unusual volume of registration persists and harried employees who gave up their day off before the New Year are back on the job to continue to serve the motoring public."

Practical Nursing Course Begins Here This Month

Of interest to Newton residents is a new unit of the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health's School of Practical Nursing, structured to attract persons with home responsibilities, to be opened this month in Middlesex County.

To be known as the Middlesex Division, the new unit will be located at Metropolitan State Hospital in Waltham and will train applicants to care for the mentally ill and retarded in state hospitals and schools.

The program is open to qualified men and women, 25 to 50 years of age, who will receive a weekly stipend of $26.80 during a 15-month training period, according to Mrs. Frances T. Lenehan, chief supervisor of psychiatric nursing for the Department of mental Health. Early application is vital, she said.

Entrance fees are minimal: $6 for pre-entrance examination, $35 for uniforms, and $35 for books. Graduates will be eligible to take the state examination for licensure as practical nurses.

Two classes, limited to 20 students each, are now being formed. The first will begin on February first and the second next fall. The 15th-month session will include guided learning experiences at Fernald State School in Waverly, Choate Memorial Hospital in Woburn, and Metropolitan State Hospital, Waltham.

According to Mrs. Lenehan, the program is geared to the schedule of married women. Vacations and holiday periods coincide with those of the public school system enabling mothers to be at home with their children in these periods.

Students live at home and are responsible for their own transportation to the institutions. Classes are held at 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The Middlesex Division is the third regional school of practical nursing to be opened by the State Department of Mental Health. The others are the Pioneer Valley Division at Northampton State Hospital and the Norfolk Division at Foxborough State Hospital.

Applicants must be Massachusetts residents who are citizens of the United States or have indicated their intention of becoming a citizen. Education requirements for admission include completion of the tenth grade or its equivalent, and candidates under thirty years of age must be high school graduates.

Miss G. Varne McGilvray, RN, of Medford, has been named director of the Middlesex Division. In addition to

Newton National Bank Employees Enrich CP Fund

The Cerebral Palsy Association's annual appeal is richer today because of a unique gift-giving practice of the Newton National Bank and its employees.

The employee gift was a result of the staff and officers donating money to the association in lieu of exchanging Christmas cards.

Mrs. Barbara Goodchild, vice president of the employees' association, and Alfonso Devitto, assistant manager of the Nonantum office and president of the employees association, presented the group's check to Herbert L. Connolly, president of the Cerebral Palsy Association of Greater Boston.

Newton National Bank President Louis G. LeBlanc presented Connolly with a check from the bank matching that of the employees' donation.

The Cerebral Association currently is conducting its annual appeal for funds to provide programs and services for cerebral palsy children of Greater Boston. The once-a-year drive is conducted through next Sunday, the day of their annual residential march in Greater Boston communities.

Atty. Peter F. Harrington is chairman of the drive in the Newton-Waltham area.

The next meeting of the Newton YMCA Ski Club will be held today (Jan. 18) at which time the ski trip planned for Saturday will be discussed. The group will leave from in front of the "Y" on Saturday morning and will return that evening.

The last meeting of the club was on December 18. Bob Dunn, a member of the Professional Ski Instructors Association and who has directed the Boston Hill Ski Clinic, was on hand to talk about the importance of a well informed skier in the selection of his skis, ski boots, bindings and clothing.

Along with the instruction of choosing ski equipment Bob showed an entertaining film on the fun of skiing. The ski club members enjoyed the film and learned a great deal from the lecture.

Miss McGilvray, there are three full-time nursing instructors, Mrs. Kathleen Benedict, RN, of Lynn, Mrs. Barbara Stanley, RN, of Easton, and Mrs. Henrietta M. Rycroft, RN, Lexington.

Mayor and Mrs. Monte

G. Basbas

c/o City Hall

Walnut Street

Newton, Massachusetts

Dear Mayor and Mrs. Basbas:

I really do not know how to go about thanking you for your wonderful gift and kind thoughts. It is very refreshing to know that you are being thought of back home. And I can truly appreciate how very busy you are, so your gift means that much more to me.

I have shared most of it with all the young men who work with me; so, you have spread happiness to many fine young men — and filled their stomachs with other than Army chow.

I would also like to take this opportunity to thank you for your letter of congratulations for my having passed the Massachusetts Bar Examination. The hours of work and conditions here prevent me from being a good correspondent.

Knowing that I have that behind me makes life over here much easier. I feel that I have a great deal to look forward to. When time permits, I am planning and dreaming.

Although you do not know me, you might be interested in the type of work I am doing in Vietnam. I am located at Long Binh, approximately 18 miles northeast of Saigon. Before coming here, I was the Legal Officer for the Student Brigade (Signal Corps) at Fort Gordon. Here, I am the Adjutant of the 40th Signal Bn, which lays all cable for communications in Vietnam. I am also the Headquarters Detachment Commander and co-ordinator for almost 160 local Vietnamese Nationals.

I am also deeply involved with an orphanage in nearby Bien Hoa. (You might be interested to know that school children at Beadbrook are contributing clothing, etc. for our Christmas party for the children).

In addition, I have the usual multitude of additional duties. Utilization of my legal background is limited to a few Courts Martial.

News of the protests hits hard over here. I feel that many of these people are masking their fears and apprehensions about joining the service and giving up the "easy life." I also believe there is a great deal of misunderstanding about why we're here and what we have here.

Through my dealings with the Vietnamese I know they want us here. I guess the greatest testimony to that fact is an elderly man who came over to me one day and said, simply, "Thank you for helping us." There is nothing more to say.

And, our military establishment here is something most people do not realize; you

Thomas Adams Seeks Congressional Seat

Thomas Boylston Adams of Lincoln, who ran unsuccessfully in 1966 for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senate, announced his intention today to seek the Democratic nomination for Congress from the newly enlarged Third Congressional District which will include Newton.

Adams, a direct descendant of two Presidents, will enter the primary in an attempt to gain the congressional seat now held by Rep. Phillip L. Philbin, also a Democrat.

State Rep. Joseph G. Bradley of Newton also is seeking Philbin's seat.

Political observers expect the Third Congressional District race to be one of the most significant campaigns in Massachusetts this year. The district has been enlarged to include Newton, Waltham, Watertown, Marlboro, Concord, Lexington and other communities in addition to most of the Worcester County communities it formerly contained.

In announcing his candidacy Adams told The Graphic: "I am now a candidate for Congress in the Third Congressional District. I will run in the Democratic primary. I will win in the primary and will win again in November."

Adams continued: "As I see the problem, we have to have a stronger Congress. "And if we are to have a stronger Congress, we must see it to believe it. It would take us 10 years of work around the clock to move out."

You can rest assured that my service and that of all other Newton men over here is an important and integral part of our effort for the defense of the free world and ultimately of our American way of life.

You can be justifiably proud of all the men over here and the fine work they are doing. I am proud to be associated with them. They will be better citizens as a result of their experiences here.

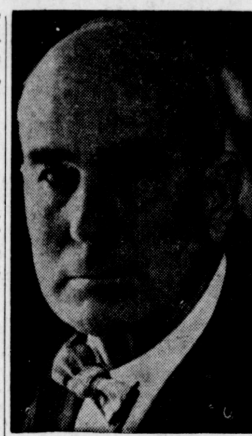

And let me once again take this opportunity to express my appreciation for the sacrifices that you and many families in Newton are making and for the loneliness parents and wives must endure. I know a good deal of heartache is taking place in the lives of those who must wait back home.

But, over here, we, too, are celebrating the Holiday Season, perhaps with more meaning than it has ever before had for us. Without the letters and packages from people like you, we would truly be at a great loss.

Thanks to the love and encouragement of faithful friends and families, our jobs are made much easier.

I apologize for the incoherence of this letter and for its lack of neatness; but Vietnam leaves much to be desired. May the light and the hope that is central to the meaning of this Holiday Season be of special comfort to you this year. Again, I thank you for your support.

Very sincerely, have to get better men in it. "The Congress has become just a rubber stamp to the Executive."

In the 1966 contest for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate, Adams was pitted against former Gov. Endicott Peabody and Boston Mayor John F. Collins. Peabody won the nomination, but was decisively defeated for the Senate seat by Newton's Edward C. Brooke.

Adams polled 21 per cent of the vote in Newton in that contest.

Atty. Robert DeGiacomo of Boston, a former defeated candidate for the state Attorney General's post, will direct the Adams campaign. He will be aided by Robert Spencer of Lexington.

Adams will open his main campaign office in Newton soon and later will open field offices in other Third Congressional District communities.

Adams, his wife and their five children live in Lincoln. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, president of the Massachusetts Historical Society, treasurer of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and a member of the faculty at Harvard University.

He has written on foreign affairs for many years and has been closely associated with efforts of arms control and the peaceful solution of international differences.

Richard Alan Yukes, 234 Church street is among the 187 students at the University of Missouri, Columbia, Missouri, that have pledged fraternities during the open rush period since mid-October. Yukes has pledged Phi Kappa Psi.

Headlights and Highlights From Newton South High

By JAMES SHULMAN

The Newton South High School PTSA is planning to confront the drug problem facing the school by sponsoring a two day symposium during the last week in January.

Plans for the symposium were drawn up by the Newton South Drug Committee, which is composed of parents, teachers and students. They are: Mrs. Herbert Rosenberg, chairman; Mrs. M. Roberts, and Mrs. M. Taylor; Mr. Charles Henderson, Miss Lenore Hersey, and Mrs. Patricia Kelley; Josh Alper, Noah Bronson, Glenn Carpenter, Lou DiFazio, Susan Melrose, Chuck Roth, Stephanie Sellinger, and George Tsumis, respectively.

They plan to show several films concerning drugs to the entire student body. A panel of authorities representing the medical, legal and moral view points would be presented to the students on the following day. Parents of the community would be able to see a similar panel the evening of the second day. Dr. Jerome Lettvin has agreed to be a member of the panel.

The PTSA, along with the Drug Committee, hopes that the program will be continued in small group discussions in the homes, churches, synagogues throughout the community.

The drug program came about last spring when a group of graduating seniors approached Principal William Geer and told him of the need of such a program. They realized a special program on drugs was needed to assist students in their decisions about drugs as the temptation to smoke pot and "flip out" assumed greater proportions. These students wanted more than an instructive class; they envisioned a complete confrontation of the issues involved in drug use. This group met regularly throughout the summer, and was enlarged by faculty and parent members.

Teacher, Mr. Charles Henderson, said, "these students deserve special credit for their determination to carry out their ideas. They put a great deal of work and time into this plan."

"Convenience and association with ones friends," are the two main reasons why The Newton Youth Center has decided to put into use four or five "drop-in" centers throughout Newton.

These smaller local "drop-in" centers will be set up in elementary schools and churches throughout the city, with local students from the area running the center and local parents chaperoning. Organized sports and tournaments will be scheduled at each of the centers. There will be basketball, volleyball, ping pong, pool, records, and possibly televisions at the centers.

An executive board will be formed by choosing two representatives from each center. These representatives will plan activities and bring all suggestions and complaints to the meeting. The Newton South High School area will be left as is, because of the success it is having with its victory parties.

If all goes well, the local centers will be set up within the next few months. But, Newton South representative, Barry Dichter said, "we are not going to force the centers if the students won't help."

The second Sophomore Symposium kept pace with its theme, "Point of View." Mr. Louis Weingarden, studying at Julliard Conservatory in New York, presented the "Composer's point of View."

History teacher, Mr. Chester Mattson, who is the Sophomore advisor, did a "tremendous job organizing and preparing for the symposium." Mr. Mattson summarized the unusual life of Mr. Weingarden, who was born in Detroit in 1943, and attended the local high school. Mr. Weingarden went to Columbia University for his under-graduate work. Because of his deep religious background he was inspired to become a Rabbi, and studied at the Jewish Theological Conservatory. After a few years of study Mr. Weingarden felt that his life's ambition was more in the area of an artist than a Rabbi. And finally his life changed again when he became a composer.

Mr. Weingarden has written many compositions and he is presently writing one for the city of Detroit concerning the murder of a conservative Rabbi, and the suicide of his assassin, two years ago.

After the introduction of Mr. Weingarden, he presented the panel of seven students who posed questions about his point of view. The student panelists were: Jill Einstein, Joyce Gerstein, Cindy Goldberg, Robert Kelter, Jay Lambert, Barbara Levine, and Erica Shiftman.

A question asked of Mr. Weingarden was, "what do you think of rock 'n' roll?" Mr. Weingarden said, "it has some good aspects, it has changed much more than social art, the words, not the music are meaningful and beautiful." He said he liked jazz a lot better.

He said Judaism has an effect on the way he writes, he uses the Bible whenever he needs ideas or phrases. Another question asked of him was, "what kind of music do you compose?"

Mr. Weingarden said he writes two kinds of music, music he is paid for writing, and music by inspiration. He said he liked his inspired works better because he is not ordered to write about a certain topic.

Mr. Weingarden told how a composer writes a piece, and how he specifically works. He spoke of music as a form of communication and art.

He spoke to the Sophomore class for an hour-and-a-half, and then had lunch with the class officers. The remainder of the day was spent in small discussion groups discussing the topic of the symposium.

The entire symposium was deemed very fruitful, and hopefully set the stage for a third Sophomore symposium sometime in February.

Art Program For Center To Start On January 31st

The Newton Community Center announced today the formation of a new art program to be taught by guest artists from Boston in six new fields: Mobiles, Abstract and Non Objective Painting, Additive and Subtractive Sculpture, Collage and Assemblage, Creative Stitchery and Applique, and Printmaking.

The unusual nature of this program allows the student to experiment in all of these fields over a period of 13 lessons. The program is designed for adults who like to "dabble", i.e., people who like to explore new artistic media without spending intensive periods of time studying in any one area. It is geared to the amateur, but students, parents and teachers who would like new art experiences to use in group, home or school situations are encouraged to attend.

The program, which gives each adult a chance to experiment with a variety of creative techniques and media will be held on Wednesday mornings from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. It will begin on Jan. 31 but advanced registration is necessary. Babysitting will be available at nominal charge.

Interested adults are urged to contact the Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry St., West Newton (244-2260) for further information. The Center wishes to announce that this group of artists and teachers may not be available again, and it is possible that this course will not be repeated.

On the other hand, anyone who has some familiarity with spoken Italian but not written Italian should find this course especially helpful. Emphasis on conversation will provide a background of vocabulary and grammar as the students learn to understand and speak the language. This class meets on Tuesday nights.

the director of Newton-Wellesley Hospital, William S. Brines of Wellesley, voiced his appreciation today to more than a dozen citizens who spent Christmas Day assisting patients and visitors at the community hospital.

"The folks came on a day when volunteers are hard to find. A number of hospital people, who usually find they must work nights or weekends or holidays, found it possible to spend this Christmas with their families, because of these volunteers," Mr. Brines said.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Ellis of Wellesley who volunteer three Sunday mornings a month to deliver newspapers to patients, also gave up Christmas and New Year's Day mornings to delivering newspapers.

Mr. Mile Blumenthal of West Newton and his daughter, Diane, returned for another year to assist in any manner possible. This year, Mr. Blumenthal served as an orderly in the Emergency Department. Miss Blumenthal

Teacher-Pupil Embroidery Now On Display At Library

A top-notch embroidery teacher and her prize pupil have teamed up to make a group of embroidery-picture adaptations of Kate Greenaway designs, which are on exhibit this week at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre street.

Mildred Davis, foremost authority and author of "The Art of Crewel Embroidery," and Sydel Byer, her pupil-turned-teacher, began to do on Kate Greenaway, a Victorian artist who was a friend and correspondent of Ruskin, about three years ago.

In their search for fresh embroidery designs, they became enchanted with the legendary Greenaway, and found themselves making a collection of Greenaway books, pictures, china, figurines, and even of copies of children's books by the gentle Kate Greenaway.

Miss Greenaway, who in her young girlhood was already making charming drawings of her favorite subjects—children and flowers, home and hearth, countryside and village—was heavily copied in her own lifetime by contemporary artists, some crude, some sophisticated. Mrs. Byer and Mrs. Davis, in their quest for authentic Greenaway illustrations, found eager Kate Greenaway collectors all over the country who shared their enchantment with the exquisite qualities expressed in the Kate Greenaway drawings and designs.

The two teachers, both Chestnut Hill residents, decided to make their embroidery adaptations available to other needlewomen, and have had transfer patterns of their skillful reproductions commercially made under the name M S of Chestnut Hill.

Mildred Davis has recently been named by the Embroiderers' Guild Inc. as Co-Chairman of their National Standards Committee, a group dedicated to raising the standards of embroidery teachers throughout the United States.

Sydel Byer, herself now a certified teacher and a dedicated craftswoman, teaches classes in the Newton Adult Education Division, in the Brookline Adult Education Department, and for the Embroiderers' Guild.

As a companion piece to the exhibit, the Newton Free Library is displaying a group of original Kate Greenaway prints, trade and greeting cards, from the collection of Mr. Robert D. McCarron of Newton. The entire display will remain on view through early February.

Aldermen Study New Step Scale For Police Here

A new plan to pay the cop-on-the-beat more money was introduced at the Board of Aldermen meeting last Monday night by Alderman Harry L. Walen.

Walen asked the Board to consider a resolution calling for the possible development of step scales for compensation for members of the Newton Police Dept. other than by regular promotion.

The compensation according to the resolution, "could be based on a system similar to that provided for public school teachers in relation to education, training and experience; such that a police officer could look forward to some advancement other than that provided by promotion alone."

In advancing the resolution for consideration by the Board, Walen noted that "we need a new kind of policeman and recruitment is difficult." He added that although the concept is new, "we should assume leadership in this area and make it profitable for the man on the beat to keep up with what's going on in new police work."

Walen said he wanted the Board to consider the matter for a possible vote at the next meeting in two weeks. If passed, the resolution, according to its content, would inform the Mayor of the Board's interest in the matter.

Aldermen questioned the legality of the resolution, and whether it conflicted with the dictates of Civil Service.

Alderman Paul J. Burke noted that the concept, plus many other ideas, are spelled out in the recent Police Study Committee report now before the Mayor. He said there is a good indication the Mayor will attempt to implement some of the committee's suggestions when a new police chief is installed in the summer.

Burke claimed there is enough incentive in the police department, especially under the new pay scale where there is at last $1,000 between ranks.

Walen said police could attend night courses of law and police tactics in the neighboring colleges, recognizing that the concept was new, but that "you only make a beginning by starting something."

He said that pay raises without promotions, based on education and training was a concept recently advanced by the National Crime Commis-

JOHNSON PLEADS FOR ATTACK ON DOMESTIC PROBLEMS

PRESIDENT JOHNSON last night appealed to Congress and a "restless questioning" nation to join in a massive, long-range attack on domestic problems. He called for higher taxes to help pay for jobs and homes for underprivileged Americans. In his annual State of the Union message, Johnson said the United States was exploring honestly whether any basis for peace talks in Vietnam could be established.

He emphasized there were "questions which must be answered" before the bombing of North Vietnam is stopped — such questions as whether peace talks would take place promptly and "with reasonable hopes" of being productive.

Johnson acknowledged in his message that many of the long range goals which he set for Congress and the country would be difficult to achieve. "But the state of our union will be much stronger eight years from now if we resolve to reach them now," he said.

The victims included Maj. Gen. Charles N. Eisenhart, 53, vice commander of the 15th Air Force and former chief of staff of the Strategic Air Command. Three colonels also perished in the crash. Gen. ### SPACE AGENCY SLASHES PROGRAM IN HALF

THE SPACE AGENCY has slashed in half its once-ambitious program for manned space exploration after the Apollo flights to the moon because of budget cutbacks, it was learned yesterday. One of the projects cancelled from the program known as Apollo Applications (AAP) was a space station in which astronauts would live for up to a year.

Also out the AAP picture for the foreseeable future, is a complete series of advanced moon exploration missions which scientists had recommended to the Space Agency. All that remains now in the program is a single embryonic space station and sun-watching telescope. Astronauts will live in that station for one 28-day period and later for two 5-day periods.

BISHOPS SEEK HIGH COURT HOUSING DECREE

TWENTY-FOUR BISHOPS and the National Catholic Conference for Interracial Justice prepared yesterday to ask the U.S. Supreme Court for a decree outlawing racial discrimination in housing as a "badge of slavery." Their fight, which was to be carried to the court Thursday is based in part on an 1866 civil rights law enacted to implement the 13th Amendment — the constitutional amendment which abolished slavery.

The World

SOUTH VIETNAM READY TO EXTEND TET TRUCE

FOREIGN MINISTER TRAN VAN DO said last night South Vietnam was willing to discuss with North Vietnam a possible extension of the scheduled 48-hour lunar New Year cease-fire. Do, returning from a five-nation African tour, also said there was no disagreement between Saigon and the United States over peace talks with the Communists.

The foreign minister said it was decided before the first of the three holiday cease-fires that if Hanoi wanted to discuss possible extensions, "we are ready to have our representatives to meet theirs to discuss it." South Vietnam has announced a 48-hour cease-fire for Tet, the lunar new year, which falls at the end of the month. The Viet Cong have called for a seven-day cease-fire.

SICILIANS DIG FRANTICALLY TO REACH QUAKE SURVIVORS

SICILIANS CLAWED with giant machines and their bare hands yesterday into the rubble that was once their homes, trying to reach trapped earthquake survivors. Moans of trapped men and women filtered through the debris and spurred those trying to save them. The odor of sulphur seeping through great cracks in the earth filled the cold, still air.

Thousands of rescuers worked with bulldozers, shovels and their hands searching for survivors of four days of earthquakes. The workers were jittery, unsure of the earth beneath them. Three fresh tremors jolted western Sicily Tuesday.

LABOR GOVERNMENT DEFENDS BRITAIN CUTBACKS

THE LABOR GOVERNMENT yesterday defended Britain Prime Minister Harold Wilson's drastic spending cutbacks, claiming it would be folly for Britain "to go on trying to play a role beyond our economic strength."

Roy Jenkins, chancellor of the exchequer, led off a two-day House of Commons debate on Wilson's decision to cut back Britain's military strength abroad and to cancel an order for American F-111 planes. Wilson's economic cuts, announced Tuesday, will also slash spending in domestic education and the National Health Act.

U.S. CARRIER'S ARRIVAL IN JAPAN SPARKS VIOLENCE

A BAND OF PRO-AMERICAN Japanese students jumped a larger number of anti-American youths and beat them with clubs and fists yesterday at Sasebo, Japan, in new violence over the scheduled arrival of the nuclear-powered U.S. aircraft carrier Enterprise late in the week.

The pro-American youths surprised a band of leftist students near the railroad station which serves the American naval base at Sasebo. They waded in with clubs and clearly had the upper hand in the donnybrook before police arrived to break it up.

LBJ AIDE TELLS HUB PANEL EXPORTS HIKE NEEDED

INCREASING AMERICAN EXPORTS is the best way to eliminate government measures to safeguard the dollar, Ambassador William M. Roth, President Johnson's special representative for trade negotiations, told a Boston business seminar sponsored by the International Center of New England and the World Affairs Council.

He said the government had been forced "to take hard and painful decisions" in protecting the strength of the American dollar. Two of those, he said, were "mandatory controls on American investment abroad" and "measures to narrow the dollar gap from tourism . . . Roth added, "Every one — your government most of all — wants to dispense with them as soon as possible."

WIFE WOUNDS HUSBAND, KILLS SELF IN SPRINGFIELD

A WOMAN SHOT and critically wounded her estranged husband in a Springfield post office yesterday and then shot herself, police said. She died a short time later.

Floyd Cook, 41, was taken to Wesson Memorial Hospital where his condition was reported critical. Doctors said he had been shot in the chest and back. Cook's wife, Agnes, 44, was taken to the same hospital where she died less than two hours later. She had suffered a head wound.

FITCHBURG FIRES HIT CHURCH, BUSINESS BLOCK

A GENERAL ALARM FIRE destroyed Beth Eaden Church in Fitchburg yesterday shortly after a two alarm fire heavily damaged a three-story building. There were no injuries in either blaze.

The fire at the Baptist church, a wooden structure on Ashburnham Street, took several hours to control. The fire in the business block destroyed two stores — an insurance company and a barber shop — and heavily damaged four vacant apartments.

Letters From Vietnam Reflect Appreciation

"It is good to know someone knows why and who is over here."

"It is really nice to know that there are people other than a guy's family who care that he is here doing a job that has to be done, at whatever price has to be paid."

"The reassurance we gain from the kindness shown by people in the States makes it a little easier to accept being so far from home."

Library Will Be Discussed Soon - Dietz

Chairman of the Aldermanic Committee on Public Buildings, Ernest F. Dietz announced this week that discussion concerning the site of the new Newton library will begin soon, probably within a month.

The problem of the new library and its site all but stopped four months ago after two committees brought out two totally different recommendations concerning the site.

Because of the conflict, the matter never reached a full aldermanic vote, and it was finally put back into a joint committee for further study. Because of the press of other business and elections, etc., it has been shunted aside with no action taken.

Dietz has called for the distribution of all pertinent material concerning past recommendations.

"I never dreamed that the Mayor of the city I live in would take the time to send me a Christmas present of any kind!"

The foregoing were four simple, separate sentences from four separate letters received last week by Mayor and Mrs. Monte G. Basbas thanking them for their kindness at Christmas.

The letters were from servicemen in Vietnam whose names and addresses were published in The Newton

Sgt. Mullen Wounded In Viet Action

Sgt. James R. Mullen, of 11 Auburn St., West Newton, is in Japan this week recuperating from wounds suffered near Dak To, South Vietnam. The 20-year-old youth lost his right leg, and his left leg was fractured in two places when a mine exploded.

The sergeant, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mullen, had been in Vietnam about eight months when he was wounded. He was a member of a communications unit and had recently been transferred to the Dak To area after service with the paratroopers.

"Wildcat Strike" Seen Cause Of Snow Problem

A "wildcat strike" by some municipal employees was one of the factors principally responsible for the poor plowing job done in Newton during and after two major snowstorms and for delayed rubbish collections.

This was learned by the Graphic as Mayor Monte G. Basbas and the Aldermanic Public Works Committee were making separate investigations into problems which arose in connection with plowing operations in the two big storms.

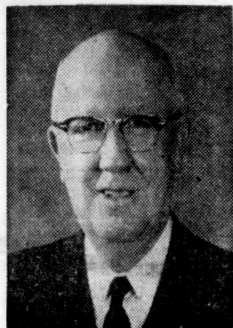

Neither the Mayor nor members of the Board of Aldermen would make any comment about the "wildcat strike" or even confirm that there was such a strike when they were asked about it.

However, the city is now engaged in collective bargaining negotiations with the unions in which the municipal workers, who participated in the unauthorized work stoppage, are members.

This is believed to be responsible for the silence of Mayor Basbas and his refusal to answer questions put to him.

About 20 city employees took part in the "wildcat strike," according to reliable information obtained by the Graphic.

They refused to supervise privately owned equipment rented by the city and to check on plowing operations in some sections of Newton.

HOWARD FITZPATRICK

Fitzpatrick To Be Feted

Middlesex County Sheriff Howard W. Fitzpatrick will be honored by more than 1,000 persons from all walks of life on Tuesday evening, February 13, at Blinstrub's Village.

Joining in the celebration will be Jimmy Durante, who will observe his 75th milestone with his friend, Howard Fitzpatrick.

The Sheriff Howard W. Fitzpatrick Dinner Committee is headed by Thomas J. White, chairman; Jimmy Durante, co-chairman, and Richard K. Bullard, treasurer.

Other committee members include Anthony Athenas, Stanley Blinstrub, Charles J. Burke, State Treasurer Robert G. Crane, Andrew J. Crotty, Jr., James Doulos, Chairman John T. Driscoll of the Turnpike Authority, Judge J. John Fox, John M. Fulham, Jr., and John V. Harvey.

Also, Attorney Walter F. Henneberry, Rev. Michael G. Pierce, S.J., George Swartz, Lloyd Waring, Ralph Tedeschi, Robert J.

As a result the city released some of the privately owned equipment it had arranged to lease in the emergency.

The "wildcat strike" was responsible to a major degree for the tardy rubbish collections and to a lesser extent for the poor plowing jobs.

Mayor Basbas last night assured Newton residents that everything possible is being done by him and the municipal officials to insure adequate snow-plowing and rubbish-removal in the city for the rest of the winter.

However, it was evident from the Mayor's statement that he is still apprehensive of the city's ability to cope with conditions if Newton is battered by blizzards of major proportions in the weeks ahead.

Basbas observed that the city hasn't yet received the new equipment ordered last August and added that he will seek funds in this year's budget to buy still more heavy equipment.

In discussing the preparations for coping with future storms, the Mayor declared that the utilization of employees in the city's engineering department to serve as "chasers" of plows will be continued.

This system worked out well in the last storm as the "chasers" followed the plows and reported on so-called "trouble" areas.

The Mayor said outside contractors are now working on rubbish-removal in an effort to get the collections up to date. The rubbish fell behind schedule because of snow-removal problems.

City laborers are in the process of negotiating for a pay raise above the $2.20 an hour they now receive. They are asking for about a 12 per cent boost. Indications are that the city is thinking in terms of approximately 8 per cent.

This rise would take up the slack that has existed in the past between Newton's pay scale and that of some other nearby communities.

At their last meeting members of the Board of Aldermen authorized the Public Works Committee to investigate all municipal practices regarding snow removal and rubbish collection during stormy periods.

City Strikes Blue Note Over "A" Flap

The lack of an "A" could cost the City of Newton as much as $500,000, it was revealed last week.

"The 'A' is in the financial rating of the City as established by Moody's Investors Service in New York. Newton now has a double A credit rating on bond issues where it once had a triple A rating.

Mayor Basbas, Finance Director Arthur A. Marr and Treasurer Theodore L. Scalfidi are attempting to re-establish the city's triple A credit rating and have written to Moody's to set up a meeting to discuss the criteria needed to regain it.

Marr contacted the investment service about a month ago, but, so far, has not received an answer. He said he would follow up the letter to convince the company that Newton is serious about regaining the high rating.

The city lost its high rating when the South high school was built and the city went into a bond issue debt of $21 million.

Computer Vote Test Is Due To Continue

A special joint legislative committee was scheduled to meet for the second time in Newton today in its continuing probe of the computer voting snafu last fall.

The committee's particular concern is "the mechanics of voting and the delay in counting and tallying the votes and any other related matters thereto."

Sen. Beryl S. Cohen, chairman of the five-member committee, said "everyone from the governor on down is interested in this kind of operation, as to what can happen." It was stated that the principal objective of the committee was not Newton's deficiencies but a broader approach "to get at the system" and set up protections throughout the Commonwealth on election procedures under a law passed last August.

Other members of the committee present at last Thursday's meeting in City Hall were Reps. Joseph G. Bradley and Paul F. Malloy, of Newton, and Rep. Albert Tuttle of Framingham. Sen. Leslie B. Cutler, of Needham, was absent because of illness.

Alan W. Licarie, executive secretary of Newton's Election Commission was questioned for three hours by the committee last week. Charles H. Morang, assistant city solicitor, supplemented many of his replies.

The committee had Licarie demonstrate each detail of the voting procedure and made note of possible weaknesses.

Licarie said he had anticipated a problem in getting instruction to the voters and described extensive attempts he had made to reach as many people as possible.

He had anticipated the problem of a back-up at the computer center at Boston College, with 33 precincts delivering ballots at approximately the same time. As a test he had 100 sample ballots run through the computer, an operation that took

Parents Form Group For Single Session

A group of Newton parents have formed "The Uniform Day Committee" to back a renewed drive for single session and a uniform five-hour day in the Newton elementary schools.

At present the City's elementary schools operate under an exemption from the State requirement of a minimum five-hour day. Short days on Tuesday and Thursday mornings are balanced off by long days with afternoon sessions after lunch on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The School Committee lengthened the school week last spring to meet the State requirement of 25 hours.

The Committee this year adopted the recommendations of an Elementary School Schedule Study Group and set up experimental programs in three elementary schools, while leaving the schedules in the other 20 schools unaffected.

Parents interested in single session and a uniform school day maintain that the three different pilot programs do not represent the wishes of 3000 parents who signed a

Churches Unite For Hospital Plan Here

Newton and Wellesley churches have inaugurated a cooperative program at Newton-Wellesley Hospital dealing with clergy visitations and the healing ministry.

The re-organized program was planned during September by representatives of Protestant churches from the two communities, to assure that work established by the Newton Council of Churches in the field of the healing ministry would continue.

The Newton Council of Churches disbanded as a formal organization during December.

Creative and cooperative work in the field of the healing ministry at Newton-Wellesley Hospital has begun to function under the direction of a committee comprising two laymen, two physicians and two clergymen.

They will coordinate activities for Newton and Wellesley churches, consisting of calls upon out-of-town Protestant laymen who are hospitalized and upon patients who designate no church affiliation.

The program will continue to function under the guidance of the hospital's Protestant Chaplain and Chaplain Coordinator, Rev. Cecil A. Rice.

Members of the committee are Robert M. Vaughan of R. Rust of the Village Con-

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Malcolm Peabody Set To Run For Congress As Republican

Malcolm Peabody, brother of ex-Governor Endicott Peabody, is back in the Republican fold.

In fact, Malcolm is preparing to run for the GOP nomination for Congress in the revamped Philbin district.

At times in the past a columnist had to check the records to ascertain whether the fence-hopping Malcolm was on the Democratic or Republican side.

When brother Endicott was running for Governor, U.S. Senator or Attorney General, which was in 1966, 1964, 1962, 1960 and 1958, Malcolm could be found working the Democratic side of the street.

But he invariably found his way back to the Republican party. Now he is hoping to go to Congress as a Republican.

Cadets -

Basbas said the idea of police cadets has taken hold nationally, and that it is a major step in recruiting future officers to the force.

The cadets would be used in the offices of the police department, be assigned to minor traffic duties, would be in special uniforms but would not carry firearms.

Basbas said the cadets would greatly improve recruiting problems facing many police departments. He said, too, that it would give young men who are not college-bound an opportunity to see if they would want to take up police work for a career.

The request is for authorization only. If approved by the board, the mayor would have to come back for funds to start the project.

Newton ACLD Marks Fifth Conference And CLD Week

The Newton Association for Children with Learning Disabilities is alerting the citizens of the community to the proclamation by Governor John A. Volpe of the week set aside as Perceptually Handicapped Children Week to begin Jan. 23 and continue through Feb. 3.

The week coincides with the fifth international conference of the ACLD being hosted this year by the Massachusetts Chapter on Feb. 1 through the 3rd in Boston. The local associations are beginning their second year to further the correct diagnosis, special educational attention and compassion and understanding for these children.

The conference will provide sessions dealing with every aspect of the perceptually handicapped child by experts from all over the United States and Canada, with displays of the latest teaching materials and aids by leading educational manufacturers, with resource rooms containing every available publication, private and governmental, on the subject and with a consulting service to be staffed by college and university faculty members to advise school superintendents, administrators, teachers, professionals and other conferees.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, through its Departments of Education, Public Health and Mental Health is providing public programs with matching funds from the State to local communities to meet the educational needs of these children and to help provide them with the tools for equal educational opportunity.

Learning Problems To Be Discussed

The Newton Chapter of the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities will co-sponsor a lecture on State requirements for the identification and treatment of children with learning disabilities on Tuesday, Jan. 23 at the Weston Country School, School St., in Weston at 8 p.m.

Principal speaker will be William A. Philbrick, Director of the State Department of Special Education. Other sponsoring organizations will be the Wellesley and Weston Chapters of the Association.

Marr said the debt is now around $17 million and the city should be able to get the triple A rating back. He pointed out that the difference between the ratings means about a quarter of a point in the interest rate when the city floats bonds. With new school and library construction scheduled in the immediate future, the quarter of a point in interest is equivalent to about $28,000 per million borrowed.

With a triple A rating, Marr said, the city could save about $500,000 on bond issues for the new high school, the new library and the F. A. Day Junior high school.

Marr said that when the South high school was built, the investment company felt the city was over-extended and the rating was cut to double A.

Moody's and Standard and Poor are the two nationwide investment service houses which give credit ratings to every community in the country.

In a letter to Moody's, Marr said that "we feel our community is underrated and we would like the opportunity to review our reasons . . . in every area we feel our community is superior and we would like the opportunity to convince you."

William B. Dockser of 51 Commonwealth avenue has been elected Chairman of Newton's Ward Six Republican Committee.

Dockser is well known in Newton political circles having recently engaged in the city's Alderman race. An attorney, he served several years as a Special Assistant Attorney General when Senator Edward W. Brooke was Attorney General. He is a graduate of Harvard College and of the Yale Law School.

Other officers of Ward Six are Mrs. Whelan Vinnicombe, vice-chairman; Mrs. Arthur J. Taylor, secretary; Samuel Citron, treasurer; Michael Lipof, ward finance chairman; Mrs. Malvin F. White, ward registration chairman.

The Committee made plans for expanded Registration activities and its participation in the Annual Lincoln Day Dinner of February 14.

The meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Stone of Greenlawn avenue, Newton Centre, was arranged by a committee made up of Mr. and Mrs. William Lane Bruce, Hon. Laurence Curtis, and David A. Lurensky.

Clergy Back Consciences Of Dissenters

Several Newton clergymen joined last week in issuing a statement in support of a group of persons including Dr. Benjamin Spock who were indicted for hindering the selective service law.

The group's chairman is the Rev. Harold R. Fray, Jr., of the Eliot Church in Newton. Other Newton signers of the declaration on "Conscience and Conscripton" include several Boston University School of Theology faculty members who live in Newton. They are Rev. Walter D. Muelder, dean of the School; Rev. H. Neil Richardson, Rev. J. Robert Nelson, Rev. S. Paul Schilling and Rev. Paul Deats.

From the Eliot Church in Newton in addition to Rev. Fray were William W. Clark, a guidance counselor at Newton High School, and Miss Julouisse Paulson, director of the Church's religious education program.

Also, Rev. Roland Stahl of Centenary Methodist Church in Newton and Rev. Joseph C. Williamson of the Andover-Newton Theological Seminary. Laymen signing the document include Mrs. Rosa Cannon and Harvey Pinyon of Newton and Miss Lillian Picken of Auburndale.

brary and library-site studies to be distributed among the new aldermen, especially members of Public Buildings and Finance Committees, who will study the problem jointly.

The two prime sites mentioned for over a year now are Homer and Walnut sts., next to City Hall, and the present site at Newtonville Branch Library.

Although Newton Centre has been mentioned as a prime site by library study groups, traffic and land availability there dictate that that site may never be realized.

Proponents for Walnut-Homer sts. site note that the city already owns the land, it is geographically more centered than Newtonville, and there is enough space there.

Those in favor of Newtonville site note the proximity of the schools, the heavy foot traffic to be gained in the Newtonville shopping area, and argue that it is only a mile from Walnut-Homer sts. and not that geographically removed.

The Humphrey-McNiff Report, and the Library trustees report, suggest Newton Centre, but the trustees, as a compromise, suggested that the Newtonville site would also be desirable.

The mayor's Library Site Committee, however, chose Walnut-Homer sts. site and therein lies the conflict. It is those reports that Alderman Dietz wants distributed among committee members in an attempt to pick a site.

The French, who have a sure instinct about foods, insist that nothing can match a good soup to start the meal. The Chinese, who take second place to none in cookery, go further and often eat two or more soups at a meal. Americans, too, have a long tradition of soup, but the custom has almost disappeared with us, a victim of the general movement to simplify meals and reduce the labor in the kitchen. Soups, plain or elegantly modern, can be superlatively good or dull, but seldom really bad. Rev. William G. Berndt has been elected chairman of the committee, with Rev. Henry H. Rust elected secretary and Donald W. Vose, treasurer.

A series of six monthly seminars involving all faiths were begun at the hospital during the past week under the guidance of the committee. The morning seminars bring together physicians and clergymen of the three major faiths and the denominations to explore topics of common concern.

The January and February seminars deal with the pastor and chaplain as members of the healing team.

Leading both seminars is Rev. Louis Hoyer, Ph.D. He is Protestant chaplain at Mass. Mental Health Center and has been associated closely with the training of hospital chaplains for nearly a dozen years.

He also is counseling supervisor in the Boston University School of Theology, Pastoral Counseling Department, and is the pastor of Lakeside Methodist Church.

This the third year in which area clergymen and physicians have regularly joined at the hospital for ecumenical seminar programs.

Annual Winter Convention Of N.E. Press Association

Nearly 500 editors, publishers, and newsmen are expected to attend the 19th annual Winter Convention of the New England Press Association in the Sheraton-Boston Hotel on January 25-28.

More than a dozen panels, demonstrations, and workshops will feature the convention and a number of nationally known newspaper authorities will serve as speakers.

Panelists will be held on "Publicity and the Reardon Report," "Newspaper Budgeting and Planning," "Local Display Advertising," "How to Deal with State Legislatures," "Education is Big News,"

"Right to Work Laws," "Summer Sections," and several others.

Some of the nation's leading newspaper experts on advertising, finance, and make-up will include Warren McClure, editor of the Burlington (Vt.) Free Press; Thomas Billings, planning and budgeting director of Copley Newspapers, LaJolla, California; Edmund Arnold, chairman of the Graphic Arts department at Syracuse University; and Howard W. Almer, newspaper consultant and former general manager of the New York Press Association.

Two dinners and two luncheons will be held and each will have an outstanding speaker. The Saturday dinner, however will feature an entertainment program, "NEPA Goes to a Carnival."

Results from the annual New England Press Association's Newspaper Contest, New England's largest newspaper contest, will be announced at the Annual Awards Dinner Friday, January 26.

More than 200 weekly and community daily newspapers are members of the six-state press association.

This newspaper is an active member of the press association.

The letters were among the first "thank you" notes received by the Mayor from the boys in Vietnam who had the time to write. Over the next few weeks it is expected that many more youths will be writing to the Mayor and his wife.

The four whose letters were received last week were: Capt. Daniel J. Mazzola, Jr., Cpl. John O'Neil Egan, Thomas Banner and AIC Philip DeMaio.

Cpl. Mazzola's letter was the shortest and very much to the point. He wrote: "I would like to thank you very much for the Christmas card you sent me. I appreciated it and also was very surprised to receive it. Thank you very much and it is good to know someone knows why and who is over here. Once again, thank you."

Phil DeMaio, who signed off with a "take care and God

bles," wrote a longer letter saying the same thing essentially but in different words.

"It's really nice to know that there are people who care that he's here doing a job that has to be done, at whatever price must be paid." (It's nice to know there are boys from Newton in Vietnam who feel that way.)

Tom Banner, who is in a Navy Support Activity group stationed at Camp Tien Sha in "the shadows of Monkey Mountain," admits "we are seldom involved in any form of fighting so home sickness is the most common ailment." He told the Mayor that "I have 336 more days, and with working 12 hours daily, they should pass quickly."

John O'Neil Egan, who is with the 1st Marine Div., told the Mayor he "never dreamed that the Mayor of the city I live in would take the time out

Hidden Key To Car Theft

Auto theft is the nation's second most costly crime, one that takes a half-billion dollars a year out of people's pockets. (Burglary is number one.)

Auto theft losses don't come out of the other fellow's pockets; nor do they come out of the insurance companies' coffers. They are paid by everyone who owns an automobile and pays insurance on it.

Motorists are constantly warned to "remove your key - lock your car" but the admonition doesn't seem to produce results. In the past six years 59 percent of all cars stolen were left by their owners ready to roll.

The careless or stupid driver who leaves his car unlocked with the key in the ignition is, to all intents and purposes, an accomplice in crime, and in some states this is recognized.

However, this action becomes all the more reprehensible in the light of car-theft statistics which show that 64 percent of all those arrested for stealing cars are under 18 years of age.

To many teenagers automobiles are almost irresistible and it is obvious that an unlocked, untended car, particularly a racy "bomber," presents a tremendous temptation.

It doesn't end with the boy stealing the car either. Criminologists point out that car thefts start many youngsters on what used to be called the "downward path." Certainly it gives them police or court records that can prove a tremendous handicap as long as they live.

But there is more. According to the Justice Department in Washington, more than 90,000 of the 550,000 vehicles stolen last year were involved in accidents. Another grim note - 15,000 of those cars caused injury to one or more persons.

It is something to think about the next time you slip out from behind the wheel. The unauthorized hand that turns the key you leave in the ignition could become involved in a fearsome tragedy. And you, of course, would be a party to it.

Lock your car when you park it. The time you spend doing so may be one of the best investments you can make.

A Good Man

A truly good man has left Boston. He is Msgr. John P. Carroll, who has relinquished the reins as head of the Boston Archdiocese Catholic Youth Organization, a post he held for almost two decades. He has taken a pastorate at St. John's Parish in Swampscott.

Msgr. Carroll will be missed by the youth of the Archdiocese. Under his direction, the Boston CYO built up a membership of 200,000 youngsters who participate in spiritual, social and cultural activities as well as the CYO's extensive sports program.

In addition to his work with sports, debating and oratory on the parish level, Msgr. Carroll was also the head of the huge sports programs of the Catholic high schools throughout the state.

The Monsignor is not unhappy about the change. "Even though it was rewarding, 20 years is a long time to work at one assignment," he said, "and I'm looking forward to my new duties at St. John's, a very fine parish."

"Naturally, I'll miss working with the young, but don't forget, there are young people in Swampscott, too. Besides, it's the life of a priest to be working with people of all ages."

Under his guidance the Catholic Youth Organization became a motivating force in the lives of countless thousands of Catholic youngsters during the past 20 years. Children whose energies might have been channeled into circuits of trouble, have, instead, grown into adulthood with a sense of honor, dedication, teamwork and spirit imbued in them through their association with the CYO and its leader.

We are sorry to see Msgr. Carroll go, but we take heart in knowing he left an organization that will continue to offer Catholic youth the proper guidance so necessary in our perplexing world of today.

Folk Concert For Children Sun., Jan. 28

Green Acres Nursery is sponsoring a folk concert for young children on Sunday afternoon (Jan. 28) at 2:20 at the Kennedy Memorial Junior High School, 655 Lexington street, Waltham. Folk artist Tony Saletan will present the concert.

Mr. Saletan is well known for his National Educational TV program, "The 21 Inch Classroom." Besides his work with ETV, Mr. Saletan has performed many concerts for children under the auspices of Young Audiences, Inc. He has worked extensively with children as Consultant for the Newton public schools. In 1959 the International Educational Exchange Service sent Mr. Saletan on a two year Far Eastern tour for the purpose of introducing the people of those countries to American folk music.

Among those working for the success of this Tony Saletan program are Mrs. Arthur Finn, 20 Mary Ellen Road, Waban (969-4170), Mrs. George Abrams, 22 Bernard Lane, Waban, (969-6637), and Mrs. Monroe Inker, 17 Leonard Avenue, Newtonville (969-8673).

Anyone wishing to purchase admission tickets can contact any of these people, or they may be purchased at the door.

TRAFFIC CONDITIONS POOR

Editor of the Graphic:
The two recent snowstorms have driving a real hazard. The plows were out and did some work—but not enough. Beacon street and Chestnut street were sanded. As for the other side streets, not many at all have been sanded. Piles of snow sit in the streets making traffic conditions even worse.

Children coming out of the schools have to climb over snow drifts to get on the sidewalks. Some of the sidewalks are plowed and some aren't. Their lives are endangered because of cars skidding or having the drivers not seeing them because of the high piled snow.

The driving is bad for all drivers and should be improved. Is Newton saving money by not plowing? Which is more important, saving money or saving lives?

Ellin White, age 10

Snow Complaint

Editor of The Graphic:
The hazardous conditions created by the recent snowfall can lead residents of Newton to draw one of two conclusions.

1. The City of Newton is no longer capable of providing its residents with the service one would reasonably expect to find in a progressive urban community.

2. The City of Newton is unwilling to provide its residents with the service you would reasonably expect to find in a progressive urban community.

It is an unfortunate situation when in order to send their children to school, parents must subject them to the grave risks of walking on icy and snow covered roads because passage on the sidewalks is impeded by snow accumulation.

Since either of the two previous conclusions are valid, may I respectfully suggest that the City of Newton inform us as to whether or not it is abandoning its prior policy of plowing sidewalks and if so, the reasons therefor?

While several of the Aldermen have called for an investigation of the Municipal Agency responsible for snow removal, it should perhaps be also within the scope of this investigation to inquire as to whether or not the independent contractors, in fact, qualify to perform snow removal. We might also be informed as to whether or not these contractors are hired on a bid basis or whether or not a select group of contractors, friendly to the administration, have been selected to receive these contracts. Perhaps we might also be told whether or not the contractors are required to post Performance Bonds and if so, what action has been taken because of their obvious default.

Lastly, we might also consider amending City Ordinance, Sec. 21-3 to include within its scope a requirement that property owners in residential districts be placed under the same obligation to clear sidewalks as are those property owners within business districts.

Very truly yours,
ROBERT COHEN,
215 Cypress Street,
Newton Centre, Mass.

To The Late George Phair and Carl Yastrzemski

Editor of the Graphic:
Did you know Mr. Phair from Medford? He was such a fine person I really wish Mr. Yastrzemski had met Mr. Phair.

Please realize and understand that the Fernald League for Retarded Children, Inc. does not expect the famous Boston Red Sox left fielder to come to our annual Holly Dance. It is a very simple affair, as no one will be wearing formal evening clothes. No politicians and no high society, just a few ordinary, common, little people, plain people will be there. We are the workers of our organization. We are not only very tired, but a sad group of people. We, of the Fernald League, have worked so long, and so hard, for so many years, and now we know the truth—all those promises and dreams will die with us like they did with Mr. Phair. He was such a gentleman. Now, no one will donate or build a new North Building in his name or memory. Father Crispo said, "If ever a man died of a broken heart it was Mr. George Phair." A heart that was broken by broken promises and smashed dreams.

Mr. Yastrzemski even though you are our Massachusetts Chairman for Retarded Children we will not meet, because we live in the same state, but very different worlds. I'll be at our fund raising affair at the beautiful new St. James Armenian Church Hall. If I look like a zombie, and if I can not eat or drink anything, if I do not dance, if I do not smile, if I can not laugh, it's because the Fernald League Treasurer Mr. Phair is not there. I'm not going to call again and beg for television coverage. I know we can not afford to have any pictures taken for publicity purposes. There will be a very small group of people at our fund raising dance. Do not pity us, do not give it a second thought—even if you came and brought the whole Red Sox Team with you, the Bruins and the Celtics could also have come, but my heart will be heavy and that hall will be empty because our friend Mr. Phair will no longer be with us . . .

Mrs. Robert Arate,
28 Brieffield road,
Newton Highlands.

CLEAR SIDEWALKS

Editor of the Graphic:
Newton's Tax Rate stands amongst the highest in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and yet where are the men WE are paying to clear the sidewalks so that the education WE are paying so much for can be given to our children?

I could speak — and feelingly! — as a mother-with-children — at-home-on-school-days but instead I would like to express some of the real indignation felt by citizens of every age at this total disregard for public safety.

After four days half the streets in the Newton Corner area are unsafe for pedestrian travel. In fact most of them are impassable, meaning that there are horrendous six foot mountains at varying intervals even in the midst of "ploughed" sidewalks. Church st., Vernon st., the upper half of Park st. are just three small cases in point . . . and it is because of this lack of help that we must either ask our children to walk in the streets, or not go to school at all!

If I could swing enough parents to help — and if this winter continues this way, this threat may well become reality—I would ask them to help form a spade-and-shovel brigade, and as mothers of Newton Corner, help shame an overpaid bureaucracy into recognizing our needs and perils. When I called City Hall, they said they got their instructions from the Police; when I called them, they told me that the School Dept. told them where there was need; and the School Dept. told me that "City, Stables" was in charge!

Perhaps it would be a good idea if a couple of City Fathers took a swift trip to Hanover, New Hampshire, to see how eleven inches of snow can be removed completely from every street and sidewalk within twelve hours of a storm. Hundreds of trucks, both private and public were automatically brought in, and the snow was not left to congeal in massive mountains . . . it was taken away altogether!

I would suggest that either the citizens of Newton Corner are told to hibernate until April, or the snow ploughing and removal is handed over to competitive-spirited private companies. The results of the latter might be very informative.

Every age feels the pinch of the taxes we are asked to pay for the privilege of living in the Gardner City. And yet everyone is being even more hurt by the slack of public help; the young, the old, the business world and the hapless housewife all alike. And yet where can we get anything done about it?

Sincerely,
Name withheld on request

LITTLE ELVES

'YOU'VE GOT BAD BREATH!'

Political Highlights

That creates some interesting possibilities since ex-Governor Endicott Peabody presently is holding a fairly high federal post in the Johnson administration.

The situation certainly could become intriguing if Malcolm Peabody should win the Republican nomination in next September's GOP primary.

As a background to Malcolm Peabody's move, it should be explained that when the State Legislature last year carved out 12 new congressional districts, the one it changed most was that of veteran Congressman Philip J. Philbin.

The voting power in the Philbin district was shifted drastically when such communities as Newton and Waltham were added to it.

As a result hot contests are shaping up for both the Democratic and Republican nominations for the seat Philbin holds on Capitol Hill.

Representative Joseph G. Bradley of Newton stepped out to challenge Congressman Philbin for the Democratic nomination.

Thomas Boylston Adams, peace candidate for the U.S. Senate two years ago, recently jumped into the fight with Philbin and Bradley.

Adams is not likely to win the Democratic nomination, but his presence in the field will hurt Bradley and help Philbin.

Meanwhile, former Congressman Laurence Curtis, who was legislated out of office when the number of congressional districts in Massachusetts was reduced from 14 to 12 in 1962, planned to seek the Republican nomination and meet the winner of the Philbin-Bradley-Adams clash.

Curtis had the GOP field all to himself until the Republican Peabody who, like Curtis, now lives in Newton, decided to get into the political act.

Now a group of prominent Republicans have met with Newton Mayor Monte G. Basbas and suggested that he enter the congressional race.

Basbas has made no decision on the matter but is giving the idea serious consideration.

Malcolm Peabody is a darkhorse contender. He probably would be one Republican Congressman who would be more liberal than President Johnson if the two should both get elected next November.

Favorite Son Volpe To Have Bay State Votes In Pocket

Governor Volpe will go to the Republican national convention in Miami next August with most of the 34 Massachusetts votes in his pocket.

Those votes could accomplish several things for Volpe.

They could start him on his way to the GOP Presidential endorsement in the event of a convention deadlock although this looms as an extremely remote possibility at the present time.

Delivered at the strategic moment to the winning contender for the Republican Presidential nomination, they conceivably might help to make Volpe the GOP choice for the Vice Presidency.

His credentials for filling second place on the GOP national ticket are pretty impressive with or without the bloc of Bay State convention votes.

The last and most likely possibility is that the bloc of votes Volpe controlled would get him a promise of a Cabinet post—if, of course, he swung them to the winning candidate at the Miami convocation.

This is the reason Volpe is running as the favorite son candidate for President in the Presidential Primary to be held April 30 in his home state.

Originally it was thought that Volpe might be catapulted into the forefront as a candidate for President if he defeated a nationally known adversary of the prominence of Governor George Romney or former Vice President Richard Nixon.

It is clear now, however, that Volpe prefers to avoid any fight and does not expect any opposition in the April 30 Presidential Primary.

Romney has not yet said he will remain away from Massachusetts, but most political observers believe the Michigan Governor has all the problems he can handle without making any more for himself in this State.

There is considerable conjecture as to what candidate Volpe eventually will back for the GOP Presidential nomination.

Dr. Hutchison Guest Lecturer Here On Jan. 24

The Rev. Frank Hutchison will be the guest lecturer at the Andover Newton Theological School, Newton Centre, on January 24th at 8:00 P.M. in Stoddard Hall.

Dr. Hutchison, a resident of New York City, attended Washington and Jefferson College, Princeton Theological Seminary and has done graduate study at Columbia University, and the American University at Cairo. He recently returned from a six week tour of Southeast Asia, concentrating on a study of the Refugee situation in South Vietnam.

Since there have been conflicting reports about the relocation of Hamlets and about the facilities and medical supplies available for the care of the thousands of sick and wounded, this evening will provide an opportunity for answers to these questions by a qualified observer.

This lecture is sponsored by The Andover Newton Theological School and The Newton Vietnam Committee. For further information you may contact the office at the Methodist Church in Newtonville.

The guessing is that the Governor will play a waiting game until the Republican Presidential picture comes into clearer focus.

Nixon is now considered to be well in the lead in the contest for the right to become his party's Presidential standard-bearer.

However, he must make a good showing in the Presidential Primaries he enters in order to beat down the argument of his critics that he cannot win election if he is nominated.

Persons close to Governor Volpe declare that he is friendly with both Nixon and Governor Nelson Rockefeller and that either of the two might tip him to fill second place on the Republican national ticket.

Unlike some political writers and commentators, they do not rule out a Rockefeller-Volpe ticket because of geographical considerations.

Ironically, while both Rockefeller and Nixon officially are New York residents, Nixon is more closely identified with California than with the State in which he now lives.

When Rockefeller tried for the Presidential nomination in 1964, his divorce and remarriage obviously hurt him badly in the voting booths.

Some of that feeling apparently has subsided, but some presumably remains, and this is a factor which troubles thoughtful Republican leaders.

Volpe, more than any other Vice Presidential prospect, might help Rockefeller to overcome that problem if he were his running mate.

It cused some slight lifting of eyebrows when Volpe announced that Senator Edward W. Brooke approved of Volpe's decision to run as a favorite candidate for President in Massachusetts.

At one point last year Brooke sharply objected to such a move by Volpe and maintained that it would prevent the Bay State Presidential Primary from being a meaningful one.

Romney was rated as the top Republican prospect for the Presidency at that time. Brooke and Romney were extremely close. In fact, there were rumors that Brooke might be Romney's Vice Presidential choice.

Since then Romney has just about talked himself out of the Presidential race, and Brooke, like a lot of other GOP leaders, has been scanning the field of potential Republican candidates for the Presidency.

Whether Volpe and Brooke will back the same contender probably will not be known until they make their respective moves at the national convention next August.

If they should split and support separate candidates, it would mean that Volpe will not control the State's entire 34 votes.

Brooke has been insisting on his right to designate some of the GOP convention delegates. His demands will be at least partially met.

The Republican Congressmen also will be delegates from their districts. Not all of them will necessarily follow Volpe's leadership although the probability is they will. But Volpe will control most, if not all, the votes.

Brooke Pours Scotch As Bottomly Sips Tea

Attorney General Brooke objected to some phrases of the script for the film, "The Boston Strangler," when it was shown to him.

His precise objections were not detailed, but the film at one point had Brooke and his top aide, John Bottomley, sitting together in the Attorney General's office at the end of the day.

Brooke was depicted as walking to a cabinet and pouring himself a drink of Scotch.

Breaks Leg

Dr. Fred Fowler of Kansas City, Mo., formerly of Newton Centre, is recovering from an accident, a fall on the ice while skating at the Carriage Club, resulting in a broken right leg. He is convalescing at St. Luke's Hospital in Kansas City, Mo.

Jewish Brotherhoods To Honor Bernstein In Feb.

Jewish Brotherhood Night will be celebrated in Boston in the War Memorial Auditorium in the Prudential Center on Sunday Evening, February 25 beginning at 7:15 p.m. The event will demonstrate unity among conservative, orthodox and reform Jewish men's clubs and brotherhoods, and will be the occasion to honor native son, Leonard Bernstein, for his contributions to the music world.

An international star of first magnitude will head the entertainment list which will include a combined choral group composed of glee clubs from many of the brotherhoods and Men's Clubs in the greater Boston area, augmented by some 30 professional singers and a full orchestra. Another headline feature of the evening will be a special report by one of the top Israeli personalities, climaxed by the Citation Award to Leonard Bernstein.

Bernstein, Music Director of the New York Philharmonic, composer, pianist, lecturer, author and teacher, was born in Lawrence, Mass., grew up in Boston, where he is a graduate of Boston Latin School class of '35 and of Harvard University class of '39.

Winner of many distinguished awards and countless accolades, Mr. Bernstein is counted today as "a vital force in the music of our country" whether it be as composer of "Jeremiah," his first symphony, "West Side Story," his smash musical, as commentator and conductor of his award-winning Young People's Concert, or author of "Joy of Music" among many other musical activities and achievements. According to Co-Chairman, Bernard J. Pearson, unusual interest is indicated already in this non fund-raising event in which some 60 men's clubs and brotherhood groups are participating.

The program will be taken from the works of composers of the 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries. All students and faculty members are cordially invited to attend the concert.

Henry Laaker, faculty advisor, has announced a Student Concert, to be held on Thursday, February 8, during X-Block in the Auditorium.

OFFICERS OF AID FOR CANCER RESEARCH — recently elected to the 20 year old group of greater Boston women who have been instrumental in collecting over $400,000 for this work are; left to right: Mrs. Mortimer Goldman, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Irving Goodman, president and Mrs. Murray Shlager, 2nd vice president, seated. ### 6 Newton Women Serve In Aid To Cancer Research

A group of Newton women, recently elected officers of Aid to Cancer Research, are busy with plans and activities for fund-raising during the coming year. Part of a 27 member group of greater Boston women who devote themselves to this cause they are: Mrs. Irving Goodman, president; Mrs. Mortimer Goldman, 1st vice president; Mrs. Murray Shlager, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Morton Berdy, recording secretary; Mrs. Leo Sontag, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Melvin Norris, assistant treasurer, all of Newton.

Their tireless efforts in behalf of research have supported numerous programs at local hospitals and medical schools. They are a local organization, not affiliated to a larger national group.

All requests for assistance from them are first approved by the eminent doctors of the Medical Advisory Board, consisting of Dr. Shields Warren, New England Deaconess Hospital, chairman 1967-68; Dr. Francis D. Moore, Peter Bent Brigham Hospital; Dr. Sidney Farber, Children's Medical Center; Dr. Joseph Aub, Mass. General Hospital; Dr. Peter Mozdor, University Hospital and Dr. Gerald Sklar of Tufts University School of Dental Medicine.

When the need for money to continue research is both urgent and immediate, Aid for Cancer Research is called upon. The speed with which a request can be investigated and granted by this organization is unique.

Financial aid was given the past year as follows: $2705 to Lemuel Shattuck Hospital for a Buchler Refrigerated Fraction Collector; $4971.75 to the University Hospital for a chromatogram; $3,000 to Mass. General Hospital for an Isotope and Laboratory animals; a grant of $950 to Paul D. Allan, a student at B.U. Medical Center; and $4,750 to Peter Bent Brigham Hospital for a Radio-Active Counting Analyzer.

The major fund raising function is the annual luncheon to be held this year on April 29 and 30, at Sidney Hill Country Club, Chestnut Hill, at which time there will be a fashion show and a Program Book will be distributed.

Mrs. Long Talks To Pen Women On Asia Travels

Mrs. Loy Long of 1830 Commonwealth avenue, talked to fellow members of the Wellesley Branch, National League of American Pen Women at a meeting last Friday at the home of Mrs. David Hall in Wellesley Hills.

Illustrating her lecture with colored slides, Mrs. Long described her fourth journey around the world, with particular emphasis on her visits to the Asian countries and India.

She showed the sisal plant and the rope the Indians were making of it in 1937, one of the 20 years she and her husband served as missionaries in India.

The Longs, who founded three social welfare centers in that country, began to experiment with the fiber. They found it could be combed, dyed, and prepared for the use in weaving carpets, hats, bags, and many other articles. The result of the discovery was the establishment of the sisal fiber industry in Ahmednagar. Today, 30 years later, 100 persons are still employed there.

People as well as places figured in the assortment of pictures and the story of medical personnel who have devoted their lives to prevent and cure diseases prevalent among the poverty-stricken of India.

The theme throughout Mrs. Long's talk was people's love of flowers, especially in the Oriental countries. The marigold, she said, was the flower one seemed to find in every country in the world.

Among those present was a guest, Mrs. Joseph Scott of Auburndale.

petition in the fall of 1965 asking for a uniform schedule.

The School Department has hired a number of teacher aids and specialists to run cultural enrichment programs at the three pilot schools on the three pilot days when children there do not return home for lunch. The Uniform Day Committee has also protested against the composition of the Study Group which decided there was no reason to change Newton's school day. The single session parents point out that 11 members of the Study Group were School Department staff members, while only five were allowed to represent single session parents.

The Uniform Day Committee also has claimed that only a small amount of the money appropriated for the pilot programs is actually being used for the lunch program.

It further charges that, "No attempt was ever made to conduct a poll of hardship cases, working mothers or the number of parents having children attending elementary, junior and senior high schools to remove the confusion of so many different time schedules in a family."

"Due to the present poor schedule," the Uniform Day Committee asserts, "there is not enough extra help for children. Three-thirty is too late on the long days, and it seems workshops and other meetings come first for the convenience of the teachers on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Where is the immediate help for the children? Time should be set aside each day for them."

"Many other school systems have workshops but never at the expense of the children's school day. The best learning situation is disrupted by our topsy-turvy schedule. The long days are too long, especially for grades one to three. Tuesday and Thursday afternoons are often overcrowded with activities and appointments," the parents claim.

12:00 noon, and from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. Part-time and evening students will register on February 1, from 4:00 to 8:00 p.m.

Accredited since 1963 as a Junior College by the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Newton Junior College offers opportunities to young and older adults to continue or to start work toward an Associate Degree on a full-time basis, beginning with the second semester.

Of particular interest is the newly instituted program in Secretarial Technology, leading to an Associate in Science Degree, for students interested in preparing for a secretarial career in business, industry, government or professional fields.

Opportunity is provided in the program for majors in the Electronics, Executive, Legal, and Medical areas, and provision is made for cooperative work-experience. This new program balances courses in secretarial subjects with courses in the Humanities, Natural Sciences, Mathematics, and Social Science.

New courses offered in the evening this semester are Elementary Statistics and Microbiology. Other course offerings include: Art History and Appreciation, Preparatory Mathematics, Typing, English Composition, Data Processing, Engineering Drawing, Electronics Laboratory, Communications Engineering, Humanities, Introduction to College Mathematics, General Psychology, and Social Problems.

Additional information about these courses and programs may be obtained by calling the college office, 969-9570.

Christian Unity Joint Services In Auburndale

The Auburndale Congregational Church will hold an ecumenical service marking the beginning of the Octave of Prayer for Christian Unity tonight at 8 p.m. at the church. It is a joint service sponsored by the three Protestant and the Roman Catholic church in the community.

Dr. Oscar E. Remick will be the guest speaker. Dr. Remick is an ordained minister of the United Church of Christ, but is an appointed professor of philosophy and religion at the Roman Catholic Assumption College in Worcester. He is also the co-director with Father Ernest Fortin of the Ecumenical Institute of Religious Studies at Assumption College which is a joint effort of the Roman Catholic diocese of Worcester and the Worcester Area Council of Churches.

Dr. Remick has just returned from Rome and is regarded as a leading ecumenist in the state and the most knowledgeable expert in the Roman Catholic-Protestant dialogue now taking place.

Another feature of the service is that the music will be by the combined choirs of the four churches, and the liturgical portion will be conducted by the ministers of the church in Auburndale—Rev. Eugene W. Meyer, Congregational (United Church of Christ); Rev. Dr. Roland Stahl, Methodist; Rev. Robert Gollidge, Episcopal; Father James Byrne and Donald Troy, Roman Catholic.

Auburndale churches have been seeking closer relations for some years now and Roman Catholics and Protestants have been involved for two years in living room dialogues. Plans are under way for establishing a more permanent institute of ecumenical relations on the adult educational level with some inter-faith groups anticipated.

The public is invited to this service.

only seconds. The results tallied with those made by the Commission before the runoff.

Rep. Bradley said he had visited 16 polling places on election day and had noticed that in approximately nine of these, clerks were handing out punch cards already in the envelopes, an incorrect procedure. He said that the punch card should not be taken from the deck until the voter was ready to receive it and only then should be placed in the envelope.

Write-ins and absentee ballots had to be handled separately. This was one factor causing delay. Unfamiliarity with the whole procedure was given by Licarie as another reason.

He said, also, that there were delays in delivering of ballots caused in part by lack of police coverage sufficient to accompany all precincts at the same time in part by necessary handling of ballots before shipment.

The first delivery was logged in at the computer center at 9:10, the last at 11:30. Before leaving the polling place, ballots were placed in a cardboard container sealed with a notary seal, and put in a container.

By 3:30 a.m., 23,000 ballots had been delivered to City Hall. Despite the time it took for transporting and counting, Licarie pointed out that all polling places were closed by 10:30 p.m., whereas two years before the counters were still working at 5 a.m.

Licarie explained that the Election Commission, established by the Board of Aldermen a year and a half ago, has all the responsibilities pertaining to elections except for calling them.

Members of the commission during the election—two from each major party—were Eugene M. Hirschberg, Charles J. Doherty, Donald S. Bishop, and Thomas F. Donnelly. Donnelly has since resigned, but the other three remain.

The commission was instructed to look into the possibilities of electronic voting or types of voting other than by paper ballots which had been used in the past, except for one experiment with a large automatic machine several years ago. It was the sense of the Board of Aldermen, said Licarie, to look at other kinds of units for comparison.

Existing prior to and concurrent with the Election Commission is the Board of Aldermen's voting machine committee headed by Alderman Paul J. Burke. Licarie said he fed information to the committee based on knowledge he had of companies and material.

The only time he sat in on that committee's session, he said, was when IBM and Seiscor, a division of Raytheon Co., demonstrated their products. Probably around July 31, IBM quoted a price of about $183 per unit, Seiscor about $150, both working with the same base of 514 voting units, the number

Former Corpus Christi Curate Visits Boston

Fr. Lyons is home after 15 months duty in Peru, where he will enter his ninth year of mission service as a member of the St. James Apostolate in that country.

Persons desiring to attend the luncheon may phone Helen Conley at 436-7070 after 6 p.m. for reservations.

Miss Conley is secretary of the Friends of Father John, an organization formed to provide financial assistance to Fr. Lyons and his mission church in Cienquilla, Miraflores, Peru.

Harvard Offers Design Service To Urban Areas

Newton area residents may be interested in a new urban field service which has been announced by the Harvard Graduate School of Design. Offering planning and design services without fee to neighborhood groups in low and moderate income areas, the new service will be directed by Professor Chester W. Hartman of the City Planning Department.

It will make available to local groups small teams of advanced graduate students in architecture, landscape architecture and city planning, working under the direction of a professional supervisor.

Examples of the kinds of projects for which the Urban Field Service is prepared to offer assistance are: converting vacant lot into playground, totlots, "vest-pocket" parks and sitting areas; converting vacant buildings and stores into neighborhood centers, nurseries, day-care centers, clubs and coops, advising on housing repairs and rehabilitation; analyzing neighborhood needs for community facilities and municipal services; development of neighborhood improvement plans and evaluation of plans already prepared; improving street appearance through planting of trees, shrubs and flowers. ## Greene In Confab Of Accountants

Howard F. Greene, of Auburndale, was an honored guest last night at a scheduled meeting of the Boston Chapter of the National Association of Accountants. Greene is a past president of the Chapter.

Highlights of the evening were an analysis of future tax increases by Robert R. Gilhooly, a partner of Arthur Young and Company, and special honors conferred on Bentley College President Thomas L. Morison of Winchester, national president of the Association of Accountants.

The Texas National Guard was first organized by Maj. Gen. Sam Houston to fight the Mexican Government in 1835.

necessary to meet requirements under the pending law. Either company would provide necessary staff but not the facilities for computing.

In order to have everything ready for November, the Election Commission and the Board of Aldermen were racing against time and assuming Law 564 would be passed. They had to allow 60 days between the city's acceptance of the new procedures and the election date. They took tentative steps, to become binding as soon as the law was signed.

On Aug. 17 the Aldermen approved a $10,000 appropriation to cover through Oct. 1, 1968, the estimated cost of a five-year contract which would be in effect a one-year contract with option to purchase over a period of five years and with option to cancel after each year.

On Aug. 21 Gov. Volpe signed the bill into law. That evening the Newton Board of Aldermen met and ordered the use of electronic voting systems at all primaries, preliminary elections, and elections in Newton.

The contract was then put out for bids. Bids were received and opened Sept. 9 and the contract went to Seiscor.

Faculty Recital At BU Features Edith Stearns

Edith Stearns, pianist, of West Newton, was the featured performer at the fifth concert in the Boston University Faculty Recital Series that was held Wednesday (Jan. 17) at 8:30 p.m. in the Concert Hall at 855 Commonwealth avenue. The concert included the Mozart Rondo in D Major, Schubert's Sonata in A Minor (Opus 42) the F Minor Fantasy by Chopin (Opus 49) and the C Major Fantasy by Schumann (Opus 17).

A native of Boston, and resident of West Newton, Miss Stearns is also a graduate of Boston University's School of Fine and Applied Arts. She organized and now directs the Sears Memorial Gallery Concerts in Waltham. Appearances on radio and television have been interspersed with European tours in Spain, Portugal, Holland, Austria and England.

The Boston Pops and several community orchestras have engaged her as soloist on their concerts. Recitals at Jordan Hall, and the Gardner Museum, as well as programs in New York keep her busy as a performer. A series on Boston's Channel 2 was especially successful.

New York — Drillers are probing ever deeper in search of new oil and gas reserves, according to Oil Facts. Forty years ago, the deepest producing well was about 7,600 feet; today's producing-depth record is more than 22,000 feet.

Halts Obstetrical Career But Leaves A Reminder At Hospital

While Dr. Joseph D. Ferrone of Newton Centre Hospital will serve to remember his presence for a long time. During a quiet ceremony on a recent afternoon the genial physician presented a doptone to the delivery room of the 250-bed community teaching hospital.

The doptone, working on the sonar principle, amplifies the sound of a fetal heartbeat. The instrument lets the obstetrical team monitor an infant's heartbeat during the time before birth, and provides valuable clues about the well-being of an infant during the pre-birth hours.

Accepting the gift was Robert C. Boardman of Waban, assistant director of the hospital, and staff members of the hospital's delivery room.

"Dr. Ferrone has worked very hard for this hospital during his career and the gift is further evidence of the concern he has shown. We greatly appreciate his thoughtfulness," said Mr. Boardman.

For reasons of health, Dr. Ferrone found it necessary during December to end a medical career that began in 1930, when he graduated from Harvard Medical School.

He was appointed to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital medical staff in 1933, and later was elected president of the staff and chairman of the medical staff executive committee.

"He is a diplomat of the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology."

Dr. Ferrone was born in New York City and worked his way through college and medical school. Over nearly four decades of medical practice, attended at the birth of more than 5,000 babies, he estimated.

Retirement activities of Dr. and Mrs. Ferrone will be centered at the family home on Beacon Street. For many years he maintained an office there, and in 1965 he established an office in the newly opened medical building at Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Many hobbies and interests, curtailed over the years by middle-of-the-night deliveries and a busy practice, will receive the doctor's undivided attention now.

Also due for added attention are seven children and seven grandchildren, with an eighth expected in 1968.

The Ferrones are the parents of four boys and three girls. Joe, Jr. is a resident in orthopedic surgery at Yale-New Haven Hospital. Dan lives in California and is active in television and motion picture work. Richard is a senior student and Michael is a junior student at Holy Cross University.

The daughters are Mrs. Gary Thomas of San Francisco, Mrs. Ann Gallagher of Concord, New Hampshire, and Miss Sue Ferrone, a teacher in New York City.

Parents may enroll for the course regardless of the hospital they elect to use. Enrollment is possible in the office of any physician on the hospital's obstetrical staff, as well as by telephoning the hospital directly.

Welch To Take Principal's Job At Emerson

As of March 1, Donald T. Welch, co-ordinator of elementary education in the Newton public schools, will become principal of the Emerson School, Newton Upper Falls.

Welch said he felt he would like to "get back closer to the children and things they are doing in school. I am particularly drawn to the Emerson School because of the work I have done with the children in that school in the Title 1 program and the summer Head Start program."

He will replace David S. Whiting whose request to be transferred to the Division of Instruction was recently granted. Whiting is serving as a curriculum specialist. In the meantime, Miss Catherine E. Harney, head teacher, is acting principal.

Welch came to Newton in September, 1958, and for two years was principal of the Clafin School. He was appointed to the position of co-ordinator in June, 1960. During the absence of Dr. J. Bernard Everett in 1962, he served as acting assistant superintendent in charge of instruction.

Welch was an administrator in the Plymouth Schools from 1948 to 1958, three years as district principal, one year as acting and assistant superintendent, and six years as superintendent.

Prior to that he had been a principal and teacher in the Middleboro schools, 1935 to 1942, and assistant principal and teacher in the Bridgewater schools, 1943 to 1948.

From August, 1944, to January, 1946, he served in the U. S. Navy as a specialist A, second class.

Welch received his B.S. degree in education at Bridgewater Teachers College where he majored in science and mathematics. At Boston University he earned his Ed. M. degree in elementary education in 1947 and a certificate of advanced graduate study in administration in 1952. He is a member of two honor societies, Phi Delta Kappa and Kappa Delta Phi.

Welch is the author of "Introduction to Proper Fractions," a programmed text published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston in 1962, and has written for several educational journals.

Laurits Paints Teacher Search

Newton is feeling the effects of stiff competition in its efforts to recruit good teachers, Superintendent of Schools Charles E. Brown and Assistant Superintendent James Laurits informed the School Committee at its last meeting.

Laurits, who as assistant superintendent in charge of personnel, heads up the City's teacher recruitment program told the School Board that his department now uses principals, housemasters and even teachers who are alumni of the college where interviewing is going on, to handle interviews, because of the number of candidates to be seen.

Top colleges for interviews are the University of Michigan, where Newton representatives will speak to 70 or 80 applicants; and Harvard, where Newton will interview some 40 or 50. Laurits disclosed that the Newton schools particularly like Harvard's Master of Arts in Teaching graduates.

At different schools, most of the interviews take place with pupils who are completing work for the Bachelor Master's degrees. However, some experienced teachers are also interviewed.

Laurits voiced concern over the effects that the draft has on the availability of male teachers.

Superintendent Brown lauded the School Committee for its boost in teacher salaries, which he indicated was the most important aid the committee could give to teacher recruiters.

Mercury Montego MX2-door hardtop

People who never gave Mercury a second thought are suddenly thinking of it first. Our new 2-door hardtop, the Montego, is a pretty good reason why.

Montego gives you nearly half-a-foot more car for about the same money. Its trunk has 20% more usable space. There's more knee room in the back. The longer wheelbase gives a more comfortable ride. It's more car—period.

Why more car? Well, consider where Montego comes from. The Lincoln-Mercury Division. The fingerprints of a Lincoln Continental engineer may be on the springs of your Montego. The Fine Car Touch separates our cars from the others. It's true with everything we make. The 2-door hardtops, 4-door sedans, wagon and convertible—everything.

We suggest you clip our chart and tuck it in your wallet. It makes a good reference piece when you go out to buy a new car. It's also a good reminder that there is somebody who's really trying to give you a little extra for your hard-earned money. The Fine Car Touch inspired by the Continental.

Billboard Public Hearing Sought By Ald. Jackson

Billboards came back into the news this week in Newton when Alderman David W. Jackson called for a public hearing on the permit renewal for the billboard at 349 Auburn st., Auburndale.

He asked that the public hearing be held by the Outdoor Advertising Board, the same board that last year turned down a request that the permit for the Auburndale billboard be denied.

Last year, the House by a four-vote margin defeated a Senate-passed bill that would have given cities and towns veto power over all billboard placement.

Presently, the Outdoor Advertising Board has sole authority to issue permits for billboards to outdoor advertisers. The Auburndale billboard has been the center of controversy since its erection.

The bill defeated by the House last year would have ended the controversy. The vote was 108 to 104.

Nearly every official in Newton, from the Mayor on down, has come out in favor of some home rule that would allow cities to judge where billboards would be allowed.

Despite that stand, in the House vote last year, two area representatives did not vote and one representative voted against passage.

At the time of the defeat, Mayor Monte G. Basbas called the vote a "disgrace" and said that cities should have some local control over billboard placements.

Computer Course For Management Begins In Feb.

A new firm that will specialize in training courses and educational materials for the management level has been formed here recently for the purpose of bridging the information gap between the businessman and the computer. Called Computer Institute for Management, its mailing address is Box 85, Babson Park, Mass. 02157.

The principals of the firm are business men and EDP professionals from the local area. They point out that the rapid growth of computers has not been accompanied by an equally rapid growth of management's ability to properly utilize Electronic Data Processing equipment. Computer Institute for Management is dedicated to filling this need.

As an example of its services, CIM will present a course entitled "Electronic Data Processing Orientation for Management" at the Holiday Inn in Newton, 6:45 to 9:15 p.m. beginning Tuesday, February 27, and running for 16 weeks. The purpose of the course is to facilitate a greater understanding of the computer and to enable the businessman to see more clearly what the computer can do for him and possibly equally as important, what it can not do. It approaches Electronic Data Processing from the management viewpoint rather than the technical viewpoint. This, the course staff feels, is most significant and distinguishes this offering from others currently available.

Recognizing that Newton is the home of many businessmen associated with but not directly involved with Electronic Data Processing, Computer Institute for Management feels the selection of Newton as the site for its course is a sound one.

Pay Raises Sought By City Help

Substantial raises for City Hall secretaries and city laborers, over and above expected across-the-board increases for all city employees, were sought this week by Alderman William P. Matthews.

The Alderman said that whatever the other employees get, the laborers and City Hall secretaries deserve a far better increase to bring them in line with other departments, adding that the salaries of personnel in those two categories are below standard.

He noted that with already low salaries, a percentage increase, which would be suitable to higher paid categories in the city's employ, would not mean much in the lower brackets.

Presently, collective bargaining is going on between the city and various worker classification units. The increases will eventually have to be passed by the Finance Committee and the full board when the budget is reported out in March.

Hobby Class To Meet

The hobby class of the West Newton Woman's Club will be held on Thursday (Jan. 25) at the home of Mrs. Ralph M. Barter, 876 Watertown street. Dessert and coffee will be served at 12:30 p.m.

Following a business meeting conducted by our leader, Mrs. Sidney R. Williamson, there will be a white elephant auction.

Discuss Plans For February Local School Holiday Trips

Newton Community Center Holiday Trip Director Mrs. Murray Janower announced tentative plans today for February vacation trips for school children.

"Trips are divided into two groups; half day trips for children Monday and Wednesday mornings and afternoons and full day trips for children on Tuesday and Friday," Mrs. Janower said, stressing the fact that arrangements are still pending confirmation.

For children in kindergarten through grade three there will be two half-day trips to examine the food industry. Children will go behind the counters in one of New England's largest markets, where they will see meat unloaded from trucks and taken out of freezers and being cut and packaged.

The second part of this trip will include a tour of the John E. Cain Potato Chip factory where children will watch potatoes peeled, sliced, washed, cooked, salted and packaged by machines. The trips are designed to give the children an understanding of what processes manufactured and pre-packaged foods undergo before reaching the market.

For children in grades four through six there will be two half-day trips also on Monday and Wednesday. They will examine "Weather and News" in detail with a first hand look and tour of the U.S. Weather Bureau at Logan Airport (including communications, instruments, observatory, radar, weather charts and so forth) and a tour of the Christian Science Monitor plant and Mapparium. Children will be able to watch type being set, news being received and printed.

At the Mapparium children will walk through a glass globe where an understanding of the world and its land and water relationships will be clarified through the use of light, color and sound.

Full-day trips will be open to children in kindergarten through grade six. Tuesday's excursion will take in the State House, including a tour of the Hall of Flags, legislative chambers and Governor's Council chamber.

Rep. Theodore D. Mann of Newton has promised to greet and guide the group.

Children will bring their own lunch and continue on for the 2:30 p.m. matinee of The Merry Pranks of Tyl performed by the Boston Children's Theatre.

Friday's full day trip will include another children's theatre production. Children will attend the Charles Playhouse's production of "Davy Crockett and the Mule Men," a musical adaptation of an American folktale with country and western music.

The story is a lively account of how Davy Crockett tries to straighten out a topsy-turvy day in which people turn into mules.

Children will also bring their own lunch on Friday, but afterwards they will be treated to a tour of a Bubble-gum Factory and will witness manufacturing, covering, flavoring, wrapping and packaging of bubble gum.

Specific time schedules and details of the registration will be available shortly from the Newton Community Center at 429 Cherry st., West Newton (244-2260).

Mrs. Janower also reported on Christmas activities conducted for children by the Community Center.

Headlights and Highlights From Newton South High

By JAMES SHULMAN

Through fields of snow and frost-biting cold, Newton South High School students continue to trudge to their "house of learning", eager to improve their grades as the second term comes to a close.

The Newton South Student-Faculty Senate is waiting to be set up and put into action, and now needs final approval of the faculty.

Marvin Swartz and Bob Levine made the presentation for the committee. Their proposal called for the formation of the Senate with ten faculty and ten student representatives. One faculty and one student representative would act as co-chairmen. The students would be selected by the Class Committee which would send three apiece and the Associates Council which would send one representative. The faculty members would be chosen by the faculty. The Senate would discuss student grievances and make recommendations to the administration concerning them. During the presentation Bob cited certain problems that the Senate might deal with: senior exam policy, study hall policy, use of X blocks, and easing of work loads during critical periods.

Marvin then said, "The problem I think is getting bogged down on the particulars of the proposal and the general proposal is being rejected. The faculty has the option to amend the particulars because what we were presenting was a concept and not a tight document. What is important is the general consensus that there is a need for more student-faculty dialogue. The Senate is not so much a power structure but rather a way for students to see how and why a particular decision is made. Certainly, students want a voice in these decisions, but it would also alleviate the situation if they were given an insight into the mechanism of policy making."

The Associates Council of Newton South has agreed to become part of the Peace Corps School Partnership Plan. The main objective of this plan is the construction of a school in South America. To raise money, a gala weekend is planned, with total school involvement a primary objective. A committee for the weekend had been formed, consisting of Andy Cornblatt, Bruce Cornblatt, Neil Linsky, Jerry Mann, Richard Shamban and Stuart Silverman.

Mr. Edwin Little, language teacher at South, wrote an article in the Newton South Newspaper, Denebola warning against cigarettes, alcohol, and drugs. This came about after the Lettvin program, and discussions about drugs in the school.

Mr. Little said "if we are honest, we will admit, I think, that there is no other reason for adopting such a childish practice as smoking cigarettes other than social pressure—an immature wish to appear 'grown-up' at least in our own eyes. It seemed important, at some time in the distant past to be like a friend who was then admired for reasons that seem silly now. Today, we would perhaps not wish to imitate this person in any way, but we must admit that we are like him in one respect and we aren't very proud of it: we are hooked on cigarettes."

"The more immature a person is, the less concerned he is about the possible harmful consequences of his actions. What is most important is social acceptance. If conformity means learning to smoke, by the time that this disagreeable practice has become tolerable, it has become a habit so deeply ingrained that it takes a tremendous effort to free one's self from it."

"Let no one tell me that there is any other reason for starting to smoke cigarettes other than a childish desire for conformity and a misguided wish to appear grown-up. For quite a while, cigarettes have a disagreeable taste when you aren't used to them. They may even make you feel sick. Getting used to them, is, in short, something of an ordeal—hardly a pleasure. By the time the practice is no longer completely disagreeable, it is a well-established habit. By then, there may be even some pleasure attached to it at times, but I would say, usually not very much. Sometimes the taste is unpleasantly bitter, and smoking makes your mouth feel unclear. You may even have a slightly sickish feeling at times. So much for the much-vaunted 'oral satisfaction.'"

"What are the other rationalizations? That smoking cigarettes is relaxing? How could it be when it quickens your heart beat and raises your blood pressure? Make no mistake about it: a grown-up who is hooked on cigarettes is a person who has a disagreeable and shameful burden left him from his childhood. No mature adult would think of beginning such a stupid practice."

"Have you ever known an inveterate smoker who hasn't at least on one occasion made a desperate effort to free himself from this slavery? How many mature adults do you know who started to smoke after they had attained maturity of judgment? That's why the sight of an adolescent smoking a cigarette is such a sad and pitiful sight to me. I know he isn't enjoying it. I know he is only trying in his pitifully misguided way to appear grown-up when unfortunately he is creating

PLAN BROTHERHOOD BREAKFAST—Committee members met at the home of chairman Dr. Leonard S. Freedman, Newton Centre, to formulate final plans for the January Brotherhood Breakfast to be held on Sunday, January 21 at 9:30 a.m. at Temple Shalom, Temple Street, West Newton. ## Co. Commissioners To Meet Deadline On Redistricting

Middlesex County Commissioners Frederick J. Connors, John F. Dever, Jr. and John L. Daney were notified last week by Secretary of State John F. Davoren that they must assemble the redistricting information within 30 days in accordance with Chapter 877 of the Acts of 1967. The Commissioners will schedule meetings in a number of communities regarding the redistricting of Representatives in the State Legislature. Middlesex County will gain three additional Representatives for a total of 58.

The Commissioners said they will, on request of responsible residents, try to schedule as many meetings as possible during the period in order to get the widest views and ideas of private citizens and officials of the various communities.

Several communities have already requested such meetings with the Commissioners. Individuals have expressed concern for the political integrity of their areas.

"We understand the concern of the 54 communities in the County," Commission Chairman Connors said, "and we as Middlesex County Commissioners, whose duty it will be to establish the boundaries of each Representative district, share in that concern to assure the most equitable and reasonable apportionment possible."

Commissioner Dever, noting that the task of redistricting will have to be accomplished by the three Commissioners by considerable time in order to comply with the 30 day deadline, added, "We want to come up with a plan of redistricting that will be fair to all the taxpayers of Middlesex County, giving them all the best representation they expect."

Commissioner Daney pointed out that the legislative act ordering the re-apportionment of representative districts in the State by County Commissioners, while allowing a certain latitude, requires the most equitable re-apportionment possible. "The meetings and discussions we expect to have over the next few weeks should certainly help us make the right decisions."

The authorizing act declares that it is the intent of the General Court that the members of the House of Representatives shall be apportioned in a fair and non-discriminatory manner and that the districts shall be so established that they will be so nearly equal in population as is practical.

In the act, the Commissioners also noted, the General Court emphasizes the necessity of the Commissioners' complying with the "one man—one vote" standard set by the Supreme Court. It also allows that there can be no exact mathematical compliance with such a standard.

"We have a difficult and thankless task before us," Commissioner Connors said, "but we also have an obligation under the law, and we plan to work hard to see that it is done in the best fashion for all the people of Middlesex County."

Robert Saltonstall Speaks At Newton Church Friday

Robert Saltonstall, president of the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee, Inc., which is involved in humanitarian service projects throughout the world, will be guest speaker tomorrow Friday evening (Jan. 19) at the First Unitarian Society in Newton.

Mr. Saltonstall will speak following dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the parish hall. Co-chairmen of the supper committee are Mrs. L. Fabian Bachrach, Jr. of West Newton, and Mrs. Norbert L. Fullington of Auburndale.

As UUSC president, Mr. Saltonstall oversees service projects in 24 countries, including work in medicine, social work, education, community development, family planning and leadership training. Although the UUSC receives most of its financial support from Unitarian Universalists, it actually is non-sectarian in its make-up and avoids proselytizing for any religious organization.

As Mr. Saltonstall explains it, the Service Committee does not go into a situation with preconceived solutions. It relies heavily on local individuals, institutions and resources and on local initiative. One of its main objectives, he says, is to work itself out of a project—to leave behind a thriving self-sufficient institution.

He cited such instances, where this was achieved, as the Seoul National University's School of Social Work in Korea, and establishment of the first Rural Elementary Teacher Training Center in Cambodia, which is now graduating more than 200 teachers each year. It was realized again, he said, with the creation of Home Opportunities Made Equal in Chicago, Ill., at the Columbia Heights Boys Club, the first integrated boys club in the Nation's capital, and in Gallup, New Mexico, at the Gallup Indian Community Center.

Mr. Saltonstall is vice president of Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Co., and formerly was assistant dean of admissions and lecturer in human and personnel relations at the Harvard Business School.

He was part of Governor Volpe's task force to study the Department of Education, and is currently a member of United Community Services, the Boston Chamber of Commerce, the Urban League of Boston, and has been a member of the executive committee of the Adult Education Institute of New England. He was 1966 chairman of the Metropolitan area division of the Massachusetts Bay United Fund.

Mr. Saltonstall received his bachelor's degree at Harvard in 1933 and his master's in 1938 at the Stanford University Graduate School of Business. He is the author of "Human Relations in Administration," published in 1951 by McGraw-Hill Book Co., and articles in numerous periodicals.

Lion Cagers Lose Pair To Rindge, Brockton

By Lewis Freedman

The Newton South varsity cagers ran into two of the strongest teams in the well-balanced Suburban League, last week, and were topped twice, 60-54, by Rindge Tech, at Cambridge, and 91-56, by Brockton, at home.

In each of these games, the Lions were outsize. And in addition, senior center Ken Isaacs (6-5) was out with an illness, further diminishing South's effectiveness on the boards.

At Rindge Tech last Wednesday, the Lions turned in their most spirited effort of the season. A heavily favored team, and speedier Cambridge squad grabbed a quick 12-7 first period lead, as only junior Cliff Greene's six points sustained the Lions.

In the second quarter, though, the Lions roared out with a full-court zone press, which completely confused the Rindge offense. With the period half over, guard Lee Casty picked off an errant Tech pass and flipped it to Captain Bob Levine for two points and a 15-14 South lead. Seconds later, a short Paul Brissette jumper raised the margin to 17-14. But Tech, paced by the rebounding of center Lloyd Merriman and the outside shooting of guard Charley Gunn, stormed back to take a 28-23 halftime lead.

The third quarter was highlighted by the all-around play of Rindge's All-Suburban guard Sonny Cox. Cox took charge; shooting from outside, driving, and feeding his big men underneath, to account for nearly all of his team's 11 third period points. However, the shooting of Lion's Greene and Levine, and the surprising amount of rebounds by 5-10 guard Ken Stuart, allowed South to keep pace. When the buzzer sounded, Tech led, 39-37.

Yale Winner Former NHS Top Athlete

IC4A 600-yard champion Mark Young, the finest athlete produced by Newton South High, earned a first-place medal, competing in the Eddie Farrell 500-yard run, in the 42nd annual Knights of Columbus track meet.

Young, now at Yale, edged out Walt Fitzgerald of Central Connecticut at the wire, with his winning time of 37.4 seconds. The former South student also led Yale to victory in their four-team relay vs. Rutgers (2nd), Harvard (3rd), and Pennsylvania (4th).

Young, running anchor man, received the baton in third place. With only 100 yards of his 440 to go, Young made his move. He sprinted out, just edging his opponent at the finish line for the second time of the evening.

His 47.9 leg enabled Yale to run the fastest, 3:10.7, mile relay of the 11 run during the night.

Rindge Tech's height advantage became evident in the fourth quarter, and this was the determining factor, as Bob Levine (14 points), Cliff Greene (13), Lee Casty (9), and Nick Parnell (9), continued to hit. But somehow, Rindge always managed to stay a few points ahead, and eked out a 60-54 win.

Box-Score
Newton South
Brissette	0-2-2
Levine	5-4-14
Stuart	0-3-3
Parnell	3-3-9
Greene	6-1-13
Casty	4-1-9

Merriman	3-2-8
Cox	7-4-18
Gunn	3-2-8

The South JV basketball squad was swamped, 60-27, by Rindge, in dropping their second consecutive game. The Lions had an all-around bad game, and Tech's tenacious defense capitalized on every South mistake. Sophomore Billy Garber came off the bench at the start of the fourth quarter to pop in six points and lead the scorers.

The Brockton High cagers came to visit Newton South Friday night, January 12. The representatives of the shoe city demolished the Lions, 91-56.

The trend was set early in the first quarter as Brockton's full-court zone press stifled the South offense. Only guard Lee Casty's pinpoint passing prevented the quarter from being a total disaster. Still, the period ended with Brockton on top, 20-8. Brockton's tenacious press was again the story in the second quarter. This, coupled with an explosive offense, showed why Brockton is tied for first place in the Suburban League. At the half, South was being snowed under, 43-22. The second half provided little excitement for Lion fans, as South fell further and further behind, trailing by as much as 43 points. Brockton's height advantage forced the Lions to commit fouls and Cliff Greene fouled out with 5:21 remaining in the third quarter. Bob Levine also exceeded the limit of five fouls, and left the game with 1:45 on the clock in the fourth period.

Coach Warren Bechtold utilized his subs liberally, and the nine Lions scored in the game. Lee Casty topped the Newton point-getters with 16 points. He was followed by Bob Levine, who tallied 13. Brockton had 10 players scoring, including four in double figures.

Kaplan To Teach Course At Lasell

Newton resident and businessman David J. Kaplan will give a second semester seminar course in Cultural Anthropology and Introduction to Archaeology at Lasell Junior College, Auburndale.

Kaplan, who is in the rubber processing industry, holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from Harvard University where he is currently working on his Doctorate in Archaeology. Over the years he has lectured in this field and has also done work for the Peabody Museum, Cambridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Kaplan and their two sons reside at 216 Highland Avenue, West Newton.

Lasell's second semester begins Monday, February 5.

up a loose puck at center ice, split the Boxford defense and beat the net-minder on a short wrist shot.

Mescon scored the second goal of the period with five minutes left. He tallied on a high rising shot from in front of the net after taking a pass from Tom Rezzuti.

The Lions continue to apply constant pressure during the remainder of the session but failed to capitalize on 11 shots. Hard checking and accurate passing allowed South to completely dominate play.

Wisner scored his sixth goal of the season midway through the second period. After shots by linemates Jimmy O'Connor and Jim Spinks, Wisner collected the rebound and fired it past the lunging goalie.

Mescon added his second goal of the contest after a centering pass from Rezzuti. Barry Cain started the scoring play by feeding Rezzuti in the corner who passed to Mescon in front.

The final game tally came on a breakaway goal by Boxford Captain Jack Dunnigan. Operating in a powerplay situation, Dunnigan took a pass from senior Archie Smiles on the left point and let a hard wrist shot go on the goalie who was unable to come up with the stop.

Third period action illustrated the Lions' complete domination of their foes. The busy Boxford goalie spent the period diving after 14 shots while South goalie Dave Roberts had no saves. Roberts made only eight saves during the game, compared to 28 for the Boxford goalie.

To qualify for the state hockey tournament South must win 75% of their tilts. Judging from their impressive record thus far, Newton South will be represented in the tournament for the first time in the school's short history.

The Lions have four men among the league's top scorers. Wisner has 13 points, Rezzuti and Mescon 12 each and Spinks 11.

Condon's Goal-tending "Super" As Newton Wins

Super-sophomore Steve Condon contributed his third shut-out in as many games, as Newton High's hockey team blanked Cambridge Latin, 4 to 0, Saturday at the Boston Arena.

The win allowed the surging Tigers to keep pace with the league leaders and up their record to 4-1-1. They remain in fourth place in the tight GBI race, but are only two points in back of league-leading Medford, and one point in back of Arlington and Brookline.

This Saturday, Newton will have an opportunity to rise a notch as it faces off at 12:30 at the Arena against the Spy Ponders from Arlington. This will be their first meeting this year and will complete the first half of the season for both teams.

Condon has to be the surprise of the year for Newton (a la Ronnie Arcese), as he came off the bench three weeks ago in place of the ailing Bob Sweeney, and, showing the poise of a veteran, has turned away 31 shots without a score.

Through the combined efforts of Condon and Sweeney, the Tigers have allowed fewer goals than any team in the league, except Arlington. Both clubs have allowed five goals in six outings. Newton's shut-outs have been Sweeney against Rindge and Medford, and Condon versus Somerville, Waltham and Cambridge.

Mike Dezotell and junior Paul Britt, the Tigers' starting defensemen, needless to say, have provided excellent protection. Both stick-check very well and Dezotell has shown himself to be an outstanding skater and stick-handler.

The super-soph was at his peak against Cambridge Latin, making 12 saves. A number of these were bullets off the stick of Joe McCabe,

Latin's top scoring opportunity came in the second period at the eight minute mark. Cantab Kevin Kelley broke in alone, but was stick-checked at the last moment by Captain Donny Gallagher. A loose puck resulted and Condon was forced to come 10 feet out of his net to knock the disc away.

Bob Cotter led Newton with two goals, his fourth and fifth of the season. Gallagher and sophomore Bob Fay also tallied, to complete the scoring.

Gallagher opened the onslaught at 1:19 of the first period. The wiry senior eluded two Cambridge defensemen at the left boards and burst in on goalie Bill Kelley, firing into the center of the net. It was his sixth of the season. He leads the team.

Cotter's scores came in the second and third stanzas. In the second period, he rebounded a Ralph Murphy shot into the left corner. An assist also went to Gallagher. He tallied an insurance goal in the final period when his shot bounced off a defenseman and he picked up his rebound, pushing the puck into the middle of the net.

Just prior to the end of the game, at 10:10, Fay scored on a solo effort which went in off the goalie's back. It was his second of the year.

Cambridge Latin played good position hockey and was hustling, but was unable to keep up with the quick-skating Tigers.

Ralph Murphy started in place of the injured Jack Droz (eye injury) and fired eight of Newton's 30 shots at Kelley. One of these was an attempt at an open net which barely missed.

In Murphy's place on the second line was senior Bob Barry who skated with Matt Kumor and Bucky Reidy.

Newton High's Hoopsters Riddled By Injuries, Foes

Two more Suburban League basketball teams added insults to Newton High's injuries as the inept Tigers, missing starting guards Sandy Winslow and Paul Lubin, were trounced by Cambridge Latin, 81 to 55, and Waltham, 79-53, last week.

Gene Walcott, a 6-5 center, and Mike Cook combined for 42 points, and a devastating Cambridge Latin zone press stopped Newton's offense.

Cambridge's press accounted for 13 straight points early in the third period to give the winners a 50-30 advantage. Cook had eight of those points and Walcott controlled the boards while intimidating the Tiger shooters.

Lubin is suffering from torn cartilages and should be lost for the season; Winslow has been sidelined with the flu. But the Tigers were given some encouragement with the continued fine play of Co-Capt. Phil Nelson who, in his third game since being injured, scored 16 points. The senior hit seven of eight floor attempts and hooped two free throws.

Waltham had four players score in double figures to overwhelm Newton. The Hawks were paced by Charlie Bonica (20), Russ Hammond (16), Chuck Lee (16), and Bill Adams (10).

But it was Waltham's defensive superiority that set up the offense. Newton lost the ball 19 times to the Hawks. After falling behind, 30-17, at the half, Newton sustained a brief rally in the third period but hot-shooting by Bonica and Lee quelled that thrust. Down, 54-34, after three quarters, Newton was unable to recover. Paul Colantonio, the Tigers' 6-5 center, played his finest game of the season as he scored 19 points. Jack Masakalian had 13 digits.

Local Boys' Club In Tourney Sat.

Newton will be represented at the annual Games Room Tournament of the Boy's Clubs of America this Saturday (Jan. 20) to be hosted by the Boys' Clubs of Boston Bunker Hill Unit, the defending champions of the New England Area Council.

The 11 to 16 year olds will participate in eight man teams in the competition in billiards, table tennis, checkers and chinese checkers from the boys' clubs of Arlington, Lawrence, Waltham, Manchester, N.H., Portland, Me., the Boys' Clubs of Boston Charles Hayden and Roxbury Units and the Salvation Army's South End Boys' Club.

Each player may represent his club in only one event in his age group. The team scoring the highest total number of points in all the events will be declared the winner.

Dolberg Wins Bronze Medal In BAA Meet

The Newton South trackmen had only two participants in the annual Boston Athletic Association (BAA) schoolboy track meet, January 13.

Senior stand-out Stan Dolberg ran in the 600 and junior Bruce Kopelman competed in the 300. Senior Jeff Davis qualified in the 2-mile, but was unable to run because of water on the knee. Senior miler Mike Donnelly also qualified, but was suffering from the flu.

Dolberg, the school record-holder in the 600 and 1000 yd runs, earned a bronze medal for his third place finish. His time of 1:16.8 was one tenth of a second slower than his fourth place, medal-winning time of last year.

Kopelman, the only junior to qualify, appears to have regained his early-season form after a bout with the flu, sped to his fastest time ever, 35.7.

The Lion board runners will return to dual-meet competition, Saturday, vs. Somerville High.

Antioch Recruits Science Students

College and Guidance Counselors from the Newton Schools attended a luncheon meeting on Monday (Jan. 15) hosted by Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio. The school is launching an aggressive recruitment campaign to attract more science students.

A meeting for prospective students at 4 p.m. Sunday (Jan. 14) was held at the First Parish Church in Harvard Square, Cambridge. The Monday luncheon for counselors was scheduled for the Holiday Inn, 399 Grove Street, Newton.

The decline of interest in science and engineering among the nation's most intellectually able young people is a national one, according to a National Merit Scholarship study. Some theories maintain that today's younger generation regards the physical sciences as dehumanizing. The huge expense of teaching modern science, with its demands for sophisticated equipment,

2nd Church Holds Twelfth Night Service Recently

The Second Church in Newton celebrated the Epiphany with a traditional Twelfth Night festival of candles and carols and the burning of the Christmas greens in a half-hour service held out-of-doors near the Chestnut Street bridge in West Newton at 7 p.m. Saturday (Jan. 6.) Each family was requested to bring a token bough from their Christmas tree from the symbolic blaze.

Epiphany is derived from the Greek word for "manifestation" — to show forth. Since the fourth century the church has celebrated the festival of the Epiphany to herald the shining forth of the light of the Christ to all the world.

Traditionally, the Christmas greens are burned in a festive Twelfth Night bonfire to symbolize that although the season is now over the Christmas light continues to shine forth through the cold and the dark. Fire and air pollution regulations limit the fire to a token blaze.

The Epiphany marks the visit of the Magi who came from the East following the light of the star of Bethlehem. These three kings, or wise men, carried the light of Christmas home to their distant lands. Hence, the festival of the Epiphany celebrates the manifestation of the Christ to the gentiles — to all the peoples of the world.

Three men of the congregation who, with their families have recently returned from mission journeys in the East, symbolized the spreading of the light by passing with candles through the congregation. As each person lights his candle from theirs he promises to make the light of Christmas shine forth in his home and in the world through the year.

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Besides the famed Oregon Trail, early Oregon pioneers traveled to the region via the Applegate Cut-Off.

particularly affects smaller liberal arts colleges.

Antioch, ranked by one study as 11th in the U.S. among liberal arts colleges in the production of scientists, cites the $400,000 Sloan Program which is trying to find the most effective ways of teaching undergraduate science; a $190,000 grant from the Research Corporation to aid science faculty; and the cooperative program which enables students to hold advanced scientific jobs all over the country—from Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution in Massachusetts to Lockheed Aircraft in California. These meetings reflect the school's efforts to do something about recruiting science-oriented students to Antioch.

Dauley Speaks To Local Woman's Club About Drugs

Members of the Auburndale Woman's Club heard about drug abuse and its control from Edward F. Dauley, a senior professional service representative of Smith, Kline & French Laboratories of Philadelphia, at their meeting on Wednesday (Jan. 10).

Law enforcement officials now have a weapon to use in their efforts to combat abuse of certain medically important prescription drugs. The weapon is the federal drug abuse control legislation.

Mr. Dauley said his firm, one of the nation's major pharmaceutical houses, strongly supported passage of the new law and is ready to accept the additional work it will require to keep drugs out of illegal channels and available for medical use only.

The law, whose major provisions went into effect on February 1, 1966, requires manufacturers and wholesalers who handle a mphetamine (stimulant), barbiturate (Depressant), and certain other prescription drugs to register with the federal government. Together with pharmacists and physicians who dispense medicine, they are required to make available to United States Food and Drug Administration inspectors records of sales and inventory of these drugs.

Only persons specifically mentioned in the law are allowed to possess such drugs. Illegal possession or sales are punishable, with particularly severe penalties for sales to persons under 18.

The law helps combat drug abuse by attacking the chief source of the abuse, illegal interstate traffic in drugs, the speaker said. He urged his listeners to see to it that the federal law is enforced.

However, legislation and law enforcement, important as they are, will not wholly eradicate the "hidden sickness" of drug abuse, Mr. Dauley declared, and added: "The basic solution is to overcome people's need, to escape hatches and kicks."

There is a "crying need" for a greater awareness of the danger inherent in misusing drugs, the speaker said.

"We should let young people know that drug abuse is a sordid escape hatch for people unwilling to face up to problems. Since youngsters often like to feel they're living dangerously, we should point out that there's nothing glamorous or dashing about a kid who steals his mother's weight-control pills or his father's high-blood-pressure remedy."

"We must be alert for sudden changes in behavior or school performance. If a youngster's behavior changes drastically, or if the appears drugged or intoxicated, we should have the family physician examine him."

"Patients taking medication must avoid sharing it with friends or relatives, and persons whose job require them to work long hours, or at night, must recognize that stimulant drugs are not safe remedies for fatigue," Mr. Dauley added.

"The adult abuser of drugs usually has a history of social maladjustment," Dauley said. "The pressures and demands of society are too much for him to bear, and he often has a background of family difficulties, disciplinary pro-

Tufts Alumni To Meet Wednesday

Tufts alumni of Newton are invited to attend a dinner meeting of the Neponset Valley Tufts Club to be held next Wednesday (Jan. 24) at 7:30 p.m. at the Pillar House, Newton Lower Falls. The dinner will be preceded by a social hour at 6:30 p.m. The principal speaker for the affair will be Tufts Football Coach Rocco "Rocky" Carzo.

Carzo, head coach of football at Tufts since 1966, was a former leading fullback at the University of Delaware and later backfield coach and top assistant at the University of Delaware and later backfield coach and top assistant at the University of California at Berkeley.

blems in school and trouble with the police.

"At some point he finds there are artificial ways to escape reality. He draws a chemical curtain between himself and the outside world," Dauley said.

"For youngsters the situation usually is somewhat different," he continued.

"Youngsters feel a need to be 'somebody' and to feel a part of something. A significant fact is that juvenile drug abuse usually takes place in a gang or party setting. Someone starts it and everyone else goes along for fear of appearing 'chicken.'"

Law enforcement officials now have the power to take action against the illegal sale, distribution and possession of amphetamine and barbiturate drugs, but their efforts will not be successful without our support. Nothing handicaps the police officers more than public apathy.

Art Program For Adults To Begin On January 31st

A new Art Program for Adults is scheduled to begin at the Newton Community Center on Wednesday morning, January 31st, from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

The program will consist of 13 meetings to be taught by guest artists from the Boston area and will allow the student to experiment in six different fields. Areas to be included are: Mobiles, Abstract and Non Objective Painting, Additive and Subtractive Sculpture, Collage and Assemblage, Creative Stitchery and Applique, and Printmaking.

The unusual nature of this program allows the student to experiment in all of these fields during the 13 week program. The course is designed for adults who like to "dabble," i.e., people who like to explore new artistic media without spending intensive periods of time studying in any one area.

Interested adults are urged to contact the Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry Street, West Newton (244-2260) for further information. Babysitting may be available, depending upon demand.

The Center wishes to announce that this group of artists and teachers may not be available again, and it is possible that this course will not be repeated. Advance registration is necessary.

Power Squadron Begins Boating Courses Feb. 7

Newton boating enthusiasts will be interested in the spring piloting class by the Pequosette Power Squadron under the auspices of the Westwood Adult Evening School which will begin on Wednesday evening (Feb. 7) at 7:30 p.m. at West High School. These classes will be headed by Duane Kocina.

The Pequosette Power Squadron is part of a National Public Service non-profit organization consisting of almost 75,000 members in over 350 squadrons located throughout the United States, Canada, Okinawa, Japan and all our territories. This nationwide educational association of boatmen was established here in Boston in 1914, and is dedicated to the teaching and promotion of safe boating.

To further the objectives of safe boating, Pequosette offers twice a year in Westwood a program, free of charge, in boating subjects for the benefit of all interested individuals. They are open to men and women, children over 18 and children between the ages of 12 and 13 who are accompanied by an adult.

Eligibility for membership in the USPS is acquired through the completion of the basic piloting course. Squadron members can also further their boating knowledge through advanced grade and elective courses, from seamanship to celestial navigation. All instruction and examination procedure is strictly conducted as set forth by the United States Power Squadrons. All instructors are fully qualified to teach their respective courses.

Squadron members come from all walks of life, business and social, and share one common factor, their interest in boating. It is not necessary to own a boat to be a member.

The classes run for 10

Lee Loumos Says:

To paraphrase an old saying, it's an ill, cold wind that doesn't bring someone good — and in this case that someone is me. The large shopping plazas offer a parking convenience to their patrons in mild weather, but few people enjoy the long walk from car to store in inclement weather, particularly in the biting cold winds of the past few weeks. For those of you who are still not aware of our facilities, let me remind you that our private parking lot to the rear of our store is only a few steps away from a convenient back entrance. At Lee Loumos, everyone is a 10-second man — 10 seconds from heated car to heated store!

Person Submits Bill for Adult Ed. Agency

Author of a bill that would establish a special state agency for adult and vocational education in Massachusetts is John A. Pierson of 101 Elm street, Newtonville. Representative Edward J. Connelley presented the bill in the House of Representatives. Pierson is a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives. The bill would create a state agency to coordinate adult education programs in the Commonwealth and would be comparable in status to the State Board of Education. Pierson commented, "because adult education is more than a process of transmitting information, it is a process of continuous inquiry extending throughout one's lifetime." Because there is such a variety of responsibility, professional services, and other matters among existing agencies, an effort to coordinate all programs in the field of adult education is long overdue. His bill will serve as a model for other states. No state college or university in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts offers a course in adult learning theory or adult teaching. Massachusetts offers no counseling, guidance or training facilities for adults. Less than 2 per cent of the amount spent for public

Symphony In Youth Concert Saturday, Jan. 27

The Newton Symphony Orchestra has scheduled an additional performance of the Youth Concert for Saturday, Jan. 27, from 2 to 3:30 p.m. at the Meadowbrook Junior High School because of the overwhelming response from Newton residents.

These performances are aided by a grant from the Recording Industries (Music Performance Trust Funds). The fund was set up by the Producers of phonograph records, electrical transcriptions and television film in the United States and Canada and is designed to increase the public knowledge and appreciation music. Samuel Rosbaum is the Trustee.

The Chairman of the Creative Arts Committee in each of the twenty-three Newton elementary schools have cooperated with the Youth Concert Chairman Mrs. Stanley Parker in issuing the invitations to all students in grades two through six. There is no charge for these concerts but admission is by ticket only. The tickets will be distributed to those who responded by the Creative Arts Committee Chairman in each school.

Michel Sasson, the music director, has planned an exciting introduction to orchestral music. George Kleinsinger's "Tubby the Tuba" will be the feature piece, with Richard Spark narrating and David Townsend playing "Tubby." Other outstanding aspects of the concert include an original composition by Judy Wolper, a Newton High School Student and a solo from Mozart's "Horn Concerto No. 2 in E flat" by Mark Russo, another of the school's competent musicians. "Variations on the Theme 'Pop!' Goes the Weasel" by Lucien Caillat and marches by Beethoven and Sousa conclude the program.

Patton Heads Cerebral Palsy Campaign Here

Heading the Newton Chapter fund drive this year for Cerebral Palsy is Robert Patton, assistant vice president of the Newton-Waltham Bank. "Children afflicted with cerebral palsy don't ask for charity, they ask for opportunity," he declared here as he announced that January has been proclaimed Cerebral Palsy Month and that the house-to-house appeal would begin on Sunday, January 14. Volunteers who have already received their materials may march at their earliest convenience.

What children handicapped by cerebral palsy are really asking, Mr. Patton said, is the chance to develop their individual abilities and to learn skills they will need to lead useful independent lives.

"When our campaign volunteers go to their neighbors for contributions, they will be asking them to help make possible the special treatment, education and training programs that youngsters with cerebral palsy require," he stated.

The association hopes to raise $200,000 through the residential solicitation, a commerce and industry drive and other phases of its campaign.

Mr. Patton urges all volunteers to complete their assignments by Sunday, January 14, and to make their returns at once.

The Newton and Wellesley and Weston Chapters of the Association for Children and Learning Disabilities (ACLD) have combined for a joint meeting to be held Tuesday (Jan. 23) at the Weston Country School, School Street, Weston, at 8 p.m. Guest speaker for the occasion will be William A. Philbrick, Director, Bureau of Special Education, State Department of Education. The attention of this meeting will be on the Learning Disabilities Law (Gen. Law 647) which makes it mandatory that every community determine annually the number of children residing therein who have specific learning disabilities.

Mr. Philbrick, a speech and hearing specialist and Consultant in Psychology, St. Lukes Hospital, New Bedford is also a member of the ACLD State Advisory Board. Serving with him on this Advisory Board are Mrs. Mary Everett, Principal of the Cabot School, Newtonville; Dr. Lawrence W. Macdonald, Optometric Assn. of New England and a practicing optometrist in Newton; Dr. Thomas Peebles, Pediatrician of Weston; Dr. John B. Junkala, Boston College School of Special Education; Dr. Donald Miatta, Boston University School of Special Education; Dr. B. R. Hutcheson, State Department of Mental Health; Mr. Charles Drake, Reading Research Institute; Dr. Robert G. Rosenberg, Children's Hospital Medical Center; Dr. Naomi Zigmond, Mass. Berkowitz of Newton; and Girard Hotteman of Natick; as well as J. Chester Webb of Waltham, a member of its Board of Directors.

Beyond the boundaries of its membership the Association seeks to provide an ideal climate for conducting activities on behalf of children with learning disabilities. To this end it has established its Advisory Board with members concerned with not only the educational needs, but with the medical and social ramifications of the problems facing these youngsters (i.e.

school drop-outs, semi-literate jobless, juvenile delinquents, etc.)

The Newton, Wellesley, and Weston Chapters of ACLD in an effort to encourage an educational atmosphere in which these children can flourish, and to create for them an empathetic society, invite all school committeemen, educators, physicians, and parents to join them in an effort to achieve these goals by attending this important meeting on January 23 at the Weston Country School.

A unique opportunity to obtain further in-depth information on the subject of Learning Disabilities will be provided to those who attend the FIFTH INTERNATIONAL ACLD CONFERENCE on February 1, 2, 3 at the Sheraton-Boston and Statler-Hilton Hotels. This 80-session conference will meet many provocative issues head-on. The program ranges from Screening and Diagnosis to live "How To Do It" presentations by Marianne Frostig

Newton High School Leads In New Linguistic Course

By KATE SOLOMON

How do we explain that we say, "Jane called up her sister," or "Jane called her up," but not, "Jane called up her,"?

How do we explain the difference in meaning between, "Re weighed a tuna," and, "He weighed a ton,"? — The two sentences have the same structure; pronoun, verb, article, noun.

How do we explain that in the question, "Who called you?" the subject is the first word in the sentence; that in the question, "Whom did you call?" the subject is in the middle of the sentence; and that in, "Why call anyone in the first place?" there is no subject at all?

There must be a reason why we have absolutely no problem in forming and understanding all three of the above questions, why we know when a certain verb is active, passive, or simply a condition, why we recognize nonsensical and ungrammatical sentences!

But what is this ability? What determines a "grammatically correct" sentence? And why is human communication so vastly different from animal communication, or the language of the Frenchman different from that of the Turk? What does a human being know when he knows his language?

Questions. Questions that have intrigued man since ancient days. Questions which are just beginning to inspire logical and scientific answers. Questions which are being posed and discussed at Newton High.

Newton High First With This Course

Newton High School is the first high school in the United States ever to offer a linguistics course. According to Mrs. Miriam Goldstein, the teacher of the course, the purpose of the class is, "To introduce the students to the big language questions and to show them how the scientist goes about answering these questions."

One amazing factor of human communication discussed in the NHS course is man's ability to produce and understand an infinite number of sentences. No one teaches him this productivity in his native language, nor does he learn it by imitation or conditioning. After all, when the baby sees his mother in the mirror and says, "Come out of the mirror, Mommy," he has certainly never heard this sentence before. And the mute child who is never rewarded for speaking sounds that resemble English words and is thus not conditioned to learn his language, he too eventually understands everything that is said to him.

Linguists claim that the human being's productivity in language is related to his biological structure. Man can create an infinite number of sentences because of the unique way his brain is "hooked-up."

Unlike man, an animal has no way of adapting his language to his needs. He has a repertoire of sounds or signals and can say them separately or string them together; but he can in no way produce or understand new units of meaning.

For example, a certain animal might be able to communicate, "I am hungry," "Let's go hunting," but would not be able to communicate, "I will be hungry," or "Because I am hungry, I will go hunting." Only man can utter such conglomerations.

Another curious feature of language discussed in the linguistic course is the origin of language differences. For several hundred years man has attributed the existence of different languages to geographic, political, and religious barriers. However, it wasn't until fairly recently that a scientific explanation was proposed.

The Language From Which Others Came Ferdinand Saussure, a Swiss

among others and from Assisting the Adolescent to Educational Materials and Techniques. Conference registration information will be available at the Weston meeting as well as from Mass. ACLD, 397 Moody street, Waltham.

linguist, was the man to make this proposal. Noting the similarities and differences among many languages and their histories, he assumed that there must have once been a language from which all these other languages came. Saussure attempted to recreate this language.

Since Saussure's hypothetical language no longer existed, his theory seemed unbelievable. However, years later archeologists discovered tablets with the same sounds and symbols Saussure had assumed existed. Saussure had recreated an ancient and obsolete language simply by tracing backward the laws he had assumed to explain sound change!

Noam Chomsky, another famous linguist, feels that, "Grammar is generally taught as an essentially closed and finished system, . . . as a system of 'terminology,' instead of the open-ended science that it is."

On the other hand, contemporary linguistics emphasizes concepts rather than labels, effectiveness rather than correctness. It recognizes that language is constantly changing and that what is to be described or explained in the grammar cannot be either right or wrong. We speak differently to different people; we simply try to talk to our listener in the most effective way.

In the United States no one official group decides what is correct or incorrect. The usage of educated people determines the standard. For example, as the tendency to say, "It's me," increases, it becomes more and more standard. We cannot say that if something was "proper" English fifty years ago, it remains "proper" or effective English today.

But even without language change, many old grammars are still insufficient. They do not explain the rules we know when we know a language. They take too much of man's knowledge for granted.

For example, when we hear a static radio program or when we are listening to someone who is mumbling, we can understand a full sentence by hearing only a few words. Grammarians do not explain this innate knowledge; they do not explain why we do not stop with, "He talked to the," why we know something is missing if the sentence is to be comprehensible. A true grammar must describe this knowledge of ours. . . . And the linguist is searching for this "true" grammar.

Concert-Party By Newton METCO & Fair Housing

The parents and children involved in the Newton-Roxbury M.E.T.C.O. Program will be guests of the Newton Committee for Fair Housing and Equal Rights at a luncheon party on Saturday (Jan. 27) in honor of the families from both communities participating in the M.E.T.C.O. Program.

The luncheon will be held in conjunction with a children's concert to be presented by the Newton Symphony Orchestra following the luncheon in the cafeteria of Meadowbrook Junior High School, which begins at 12:30 p.m. The concert follows at 2:30 p.m. in Meadowbrook Auditorium.

Arthur Lyman of Newtonville, chairman of the Fair Housing Committee, announced that the Newton M.E.T.C.O. Committee has collaborated with the Fair Housing organization in arranging the luncheon and concert affair, and a block of 150 tickets has been made available to the M.E.T.C.O. children by the Newton Symphony Orchestra, through the good offices of Mrs. Katherine Jones, Newton M.E.T.C.O. Coordinator.

Roxbury children and their parents will be bused to Meadowbrook, where they will meet the Newton host families as well as member of the Fair Housing Committee. Following the informal luncheon, the children will attend the performance by the orchestra, while the adults tour the Meadowbrook facilities if they wish to do so.

U. S. STILL SEEKING DIPLOMATIC SOLUTION IN CRISES

DESPITE THE REFUSAL of the Soviet Union to intercede with North Korea at the United States' request for the immediate release of the hijacked USS Pueblo and her 83 crewmen, there was highly tentative indications that the crisis might be resolved without resort to military retaliation. Official statements at the White House and the Pentagon suggested that President Johnson was instructing the government to continue to concentrate efforts through diplomatic channels.

The president conferred with members of the National Security Council yesterday for the first time since Nov. 29 for less than an hour. Discussion on the Pueblo incident took up about half that time, the White House said.

Secretary of State Rusk reflected the administration's deep concern earlier in the day when he said seizure of the Pueblo on high seas could be considered "an act of war." He warned North Korea to "cool it."

PROBES TOLD MD MADE $2000 DAILY WITH DIET PILLS

SENATE INVESTIGATORS were told yesterday that some doctors specializing in weight reduction charge patients as much as $40 per week for dispensing penny apiece pills that sometimes produce discomforting side effects. An industry document said an Illinois doctor treated about 100 patients a day at an average fee of $20 each for a daily gross income of $2,000.

Chief witness before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee was Carroll D. Brown, president of Lanpar Co., Dallas, Tex. Brown defended his firm's drugs, but Subcommittee Counsel Jerome Cohen produced subpoenaed field reports from Lanpar agents dealing with complaints by doctors about side effects of the drugs.

YEAR'S DELAY SEEN IN NEW HAVEN RR MERGER MOVE

NEW HAVEN RAILROAD trustees said yesterday that the line's inclusion in the Penn-Central merger may be delayed until the beginning of next year while the New Haven fights creditor suits. The trustees said in a statement that "though the inclusion of the New Haven Railroad into the Penn-Central system has been approved and ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the courts, the forthcoming consummation of the merger itself will not automatically accomplish the New Haven inclusion."

William J. Kirk, one of two trustees who issued the statement, explained that the delay would be caused by the multiple suits now being filed by bondholders and other creditors.

JOHNSON AGAIN ASKS OPEN HOUSING LEGISLATION

PRESIDENT JOHNSON asked Congress for the third time yesterday to approve open housing legislation. But key lawmakers said passage was as remote as before. The request came in a message to Congress asking for passage of four civil rights measures left over from the first session of the 90th Congress last year.

The others would strengthen federal laws preventing interference with civil rights workers; give the Equal Opportunity Commission expanded authority to deal with job discrimination; and assure nondiscriminatory selection of federal and state juries.

The World

RELEASE OF PUEBLO CREW BY REDS SEEN POSSIBLE

THE RELEASE OF THE CREW of the USS Pueblo by the North Koreans was seen possible by U. S. officials last night as they noted signs of the North Korean intentions at the meeting of the Military Armistice Commission at Panmunjom, Korea. Officials figured the Communists might release the crew after milking the alleged "intrusion and provocation" of all possible propaganda value. The signs were:

North Korean Major Gen. Pak Chung Kuk, while advising U. S. armistice officers that "the ship will remain in our hands," did not make the same statement about the crew. Subsequently, a North Korean broadcast an alleged "confession" by Pueblo Cmdr. Lloyd Mark Bucher which ended with a plea "to be forgiven leniently so that he and the crew could return to relatives anxiously waiting for us to return safely." The wording was similar to that other captives of the Communists have been forced to endorse in order to secure their delivery.

WILSON SEES NO 'MILITARY SOLUTION' TO VIETNAM

BRITISH PRIME MINISTER Harold Wilson yesterday concluded two days of nearly non-stop talks with Soviet leaders and said he would tell President Johnson "there will never be a military solution" to Vietnam.

Wilson flew home to London following lengthy talks with the Soviet Union's ruling troika about Vietnam, the Middle East, nuclear weapons and other international problems. The British prime minister is scheduled to visit Washington Feb. 8 for talks with President Johnson.

NORTH VIETNAMESE SHELL U. S. BASE NEAR BORDER

NORTH VIETNAMESE forces bombarded the American base at Khe Sanh with heavy artillery for the first time last night amid intelligence reports Hanoi has massed up to 40,000 troops for a major offensive along South Vietnam's northern frontier.

U. S. Marine spokesmen said Communist forces concealed in the heavily jungled mountains surrounding the Khe Sanh Marine garrison fired 150 artillery rounds on the key northwestern base in a half hour. The bombardment with guns up to 152mm (six-inch) was the heaviest attack in a week against American forces in the area where military spokesmen said North Vietnam has positioned from 16,000 to 20,000 troops within striking distance of Khe Sanh.

TAUNTON MAN ACQUITTED IN WIFE'S SLAYING

A SUPERIOR COURT JURY of 10 men and two women yesterday in New Bedford acquitted a 25-year-old Taunton man of murder in connection with the brutal stabbing death of his wife. The defendant, Francis J. Dias, of 34 White St., Taunton, wept when the innocent verdict was returned after an hour and 50 minutes of deliberation.

Dias, a construction worker, returned home after a night out with friends early in April last year and discovered the body of his wife, Mary 24. She had been stabbed 25 times with a 10-inch kitchen knife, but medical experts said the first blow, into the aorta, the principal artery leading from the heart, probably was fatal.

VOLPE ASKS STATE CIVIL SERVICE REVISION

GOVERNOR VOLPE said yesterday a revision of the state's Civil Service system is the most important problem blocking the work of a more efficient state government. "Experts agree a thorough reform of our state's antiquated Civil Service regulations is the key to better government," he said.

"Our personnel management mechanisms must provide a 'service' to all the people of the Commonwealth, not simply be a servant to those who would like to get on the state payroll. With sound Civil Service reform, Massachusetts can set the pace for the nation."

RAYTHEON CO. REPORTS RECORD SALES, EARNINGS

RAYTHEON CO. REPORTED yesterday in Lexington it had record sales of more than $1.1 billion for 1967, coupled with record earnings and earnings per share.

Sales of $1.106 billion represented earnings of $28.6 million and per-share earnings of $3.95 for the year, the company announced. The figures include operations of Calorico Corp. and the Badger Co., both of which were acquired within the past year.

Two Newton Priests Can Return To Fold

The way continued to remain open this week for two Maryknoll missionaries from Newton to return to full priestly standing in their order despite their involvement with Communist guerrillas in Guatemala.

The Very Rev. John J. McCormack, superior general of Maryknoll, said suspension of Frs. Thomas Melville, 37, and his brother, Arthur Melville, 34, will be ended if and when they return to the society's headquarters in Ossining, N.Y.

The priests, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Melville, of 245 Cypress st., Newton Centre, were stripped of their priestly faculties for refusing to return to Ossining after they had been accused of aiding the leftist movement in Guatemala.

Under church law, a suspension is an ecclesiastical censure which prohibits priests from performing such official duties as administering the sacraments and celebrating Mass.

School Board Sets Meeting Time Ahead

The meeting time for the Newton School Committee has been pushed ahead to 7:45 p.m. In the past the Committee started its sessions at 8 p.m. Regular meetings are held every second and fourth Monday at the School Committee meeting room in the old Stearns School on Watertown St.

Mrs. Norma W. Mintz, Committeewoman from Ward 2, objected to questions regarding the motivations of mothers who wish to work. "I feel it is not within our province to request this information," she said.

Mrs. Mintz also pointed out that some mothers might not want to work but would want to finish their college education or do graduate study. Superintendent Brown replied that the school department felt that it had to draw the line at working mothers for purposes of the questionnaire.

Committeeman Hawkrige added that some information about the financial needs of persons who are working or want to work is necessary in order to make judgements on the priorities in setting up the lunch program at different schools.

Committeemen Hawkrige, Mintz and Alvin Mandell recommended that the questionnaire include a breakdown on how many children of elementary, pre-school and secondary school age each family has.

Committeeman Vincent P. Stanton told Mrs. Brick that if the School Department adopts a lunch program which is supported by contributions from parents of participating children, it will have to send out a second questionnaire asking for the names of interested persons. He asked whether it might not be advisable to make it mandatory to sign the questionnaire.

Hawkrige replied that the original plan of allowing signatures to be optional would get more honest answers.

School Committee member Douglas commented that it is impossible for the School Committee to foresee the full range of reasons why people might want to work.

"Death and divorce are obvious reasons. An indigent relative or some element of tragedy might also enter into the reasons," said Douglas who supported the plan to leave signatures as optional.

Mrs. Brick declared that the question relating to whether earnings are necessary for the family "might

On a motion by Committeeman Hawkrige seconded by Mandell, the committee unanimously voted to authorize Dr. Brown to send out the revised questionnaire.

Safety Official Speaker At PTA Council Meeting

Warren Huston, Acting Supervisor of Health, Physical Education and Safety of the Newton School Department discussed the School Department's safety program at an open meeting at the home of Robert Sandman, 72 Fairlee road, Waban, of the Newton PTA Council Safety Committee held January 18.

The meeting was attended by many PTA Safety chairmen representing the individual Newton Elementary and Junior High Schools, and other interested citizens.

The School Safety Program includes a safety teaching program for the elementary schools, the distribution of safety educational materials, traffic surveys (in cooperation with Officer Charles Feeley, the Newton Police Safety Officer) and a bicycle safety program. Bicycle safety instruction, which is initiated upon the request of the school principals, has been carried out in 10 of 23 elementary schools this year.

A lively general discussion followed. A great deal of attention was devoted to the problems of snow removal, which has been under study since September. This concern was reflected, earlier in the week, in a letter sent to Mayor Basbas by the PTA Council Safety Committee requesting priority plowing and clearing of snow from school premises and established school routes.

Families helped through this project are referred to the Community Council office by agencies, departments and schools. Most of these families receive checks from $5 to $25, depending on the size of the family and the seriousness of the situation.

This money is intended to be used in whatever way the family wishes, but most often buys toys for the children or a little extra food, which otherwise would not be possible.

Among the departments and agencies who referred Newton families in need of help are the Public Welfare Department, Public Schools, Visiting Nurse Assn., Rebecca Pomeroy House, Newton-Wellesley Hospital, Family Counseling Service, Newton Boys' Club, Newton Community Center, Salvation Army, Newton Lodge of Elks, St. Vincent de Paul Society, Kendrick Fund and Churches.

Since the 1930's, the Christmas Service Project has been helping match Newton's families who need a little extra help with groups and individuals who are able and willing to help. Originally Christmas baskets were distributed to families, but this was later changed to checks so that

The Gourmet Adventures of

PIERRE OF THE HIGHLANDS

Vegetable cookery is a better test of a good cook than fancy desserts. At its best it is most simple; the freshest of vegetables at just the right maturity, the briefest of cooking in the least water, and served at once. This way vegetables bring grace and lightness to a meal, they supply vitamins, minerals and a pleasant sense of fullness — with very little fat and few calories. Excess water and overcooking eliminate flavor, texture, vitamins and minerals. Boiling is not the only way to cook vegetables. All vegetables can be worked into casserole dishes. The more we travel around the world, the more kinds of vegetables and methods of preparation we discover.

All our food is prepared with the utmost care and skill. ## Pick Up The Challenge

President Nathan M. Pusey of Harvard is to be congratulated on the stand he has taken on the "intemperate behavior" and "belligerent nonsense" of some students. His remarks pertain to students on other campuses as well as those in Harvard's hallowed halls.

For American universities, Mr. Pusey sees a difficult educational task of bringing back to reality the few students who "safe within the sanctuary of an ordered society, dreaming of glory — Walter Mittys of the left (or are they left?), they play at being revolutionists and fancy themselves rising to positions of command atop the debris as the structures of society come crashing down."

The Harvard president said he wasn't referring to students who are sincerely concerned about the war or who choose to participate in orderly protest for whatever reason, but rather only of a small group of over-eager young in evidence on many campuses in recent years "who feel they have a special calling to redeem society."

He pointed out that the literature circulated "among themselves on various campuses" assumes in what they call their "analysis" that "... American society is rotten through and through ... our universities have been taken over by the business and military establishments ... our universities are now devoted to the present and future oppression and domination of the people of the world — both in Vietnam and in our urban ghettos."

"Obviously," Mr. Pusey said, "they live in a world of fantasy."

In his annual report, the Harvard president went on to say that "bringing students of this persuasion back to reality presents a new kind of challenge to education, to faculty certainly, but especially and with painful immediacy, perhaps to deans."

We hope education, the faculty and the deans pick up the challenge.

Price Tag Legislation

There is an outstanding bill on file with the Legislature for consideration during the 1968 session. It would require that all legislation passed by the Commonwealth having to do with expenditures, include estimates of the cost to the taxpayer.

It is called "price tag" legislation and it was filed by the Republican Minority Leader of the Senate, John F. Parker of Taunton. It provides that a fiscal memorandum projecting the estimated cost over a period of five years be attached to all bills reported favorably by joint committees.

Parker says in commenting on his proposal that the Commonwealth has been operating in a "financial blind alley" so far as the cost of legislation is concerned.

"I continue to be appalled," Parker said, "at the number of bills that go through the House and Senate and are signed into law without any knowledge whatsoever as to the financial impact on the citizens of Massachusetts."

So do we. Especially with the state budget at an all-time high of $827 million and approaching $1 billion. It almost staggers the imagination that a state with a population of only about six million people (U.S. Census of 1960 records 5,148,000 residents) would have — and would need — a budget of that size.

Parker puts it neatly and succinctly when he says: "The Legislature is doing a disservice to the people unless it is frank and open about the cost of proposed legislation, when it is brought out of committee to the floor of either chamber."

"Knowledge of the complete cost of legislation acts as a cautionary check on votes in the House and the Senate and it is high time we stopped pulling the cost out of the air, such as in the welfare reorganization bill."

"Committee chairmen should give the members of both branches an honest estimate of what effect legislation would have on the tax structure of our state."

In a scathing, all encompassing indictment of the members of the Legislature, Sen. Parker pointed out that —

"Every session of the Legislature has voted in the dark on bills that ultimately cost the taxpayers millions of dollars without a single legislator having any idea whatsoever as to the tax impact."

A glaring, absolute example of this is the Medicaid bill which was hastily enacted into law without legislators having any idea of its final cost. They, and we, are now finding out that cost to the detriment of our thinning pocketbooks.

We would like to point out that state spending for programs begun in 1947 has risen from $327,834 to well over $100 billion in 1967. New activities assumed by the Commonwealth have increased from two in 1947 to 142 in the current year.

"Price tag" legislation is imperative.

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—Students who fall asleep in a new no-credit class at the University of Oregon may be the ones who get the best grades. The class is called "techniques of relaxation," and teaches students to relax their major muscles through orderly, systematic procedures.

Letters To The Editor Dr. Becker Is Author Of Book On Mental Ills

Editor of The Graphic:

Another milestone in the headlong rush toward the centralization of government will have been reached the day the Commonwealth takes over our local education systems.

Representative Joseph Bradley feels the state ought to assume the responsibility of "financing" local education. His colleague, Representative Irving Fishman, advocates state enforced "equalization" ostensibly, so that the underprivileged will have the same opportunities enjoyed by those of us who live in more affluent circumstances.

There is certainly need for compensatory education programs to assist the culturally underprivileged. There is no need, however, to destroy, in the process of trying to correct the educational deficiencies of particular communities, the many fine systems that already exist and that draw their main strength and impetus from a concerned and responsible local leadership.

Does Mr. Bradley really believe that the state will respect local autonomy in education once it has assumed the obligation of paying the bills? The implementation of Mr. Bradley's suggestion would almost certainly lead with the passage of time to a total takeover of our local school systems by the state.

Mr. Fishman speaks of equalizing standards of education. If we attempt to equalize opportunity by state directive it will be at the expense of quality. A uniform standard of education, however enlightened and well-intentioned, would have these unfortunate effects: It would usurp from the local community its responsibilities and powers where education is concerned and thereby do damage to local self-government. It would, moreover, place the administration of better than 300 separate school systems in the hands of a state bureaucracy.

As an alternative I would suggest some form of no-strings-attached federal revenue sharing program that would leave local power and prerogatives intact while providing the funds necessary to raise the quality of local education in Massachusetts.

WIGMORE A. PIERSON

Thanks Graphic

Editor of The Graphic:

On behalf of the board of directors and the members of the Epilepsy Society of Massachusetts, I want to take this opportunity to personally thank you for printing our recent news releases. The Epilepsy Society of Massachusetts is indeed proud to be the state affiliate of the newly formed Epilepsy Foundation of America, an organization formed to coordinate activities and help 2,000,000 Americans who have epilepsy.

We have a tremendous public education program in front of us. The Federal Government in part has recognized this problem and has awarded us a $220,000 grant for vocational rehabilitation. The reason is simple. There is a very definite negative attitude towards epilepsy, and an extensive educational program must be carried on to educate the public and the employer through mass media.

We wish you to know how grateful we are and to thank you again for cooperating with us in our endeavor to combat negative attitudes that have existed ever since history was recorded.

George Lingenfelter, Executive Director.

Editor of The Graphic:

The time has come to cut through the verbal smog that is spreading throughout our city and choking the good intentions of our many citizens. I am referring to the letter that the Uniform Day Committee has recently distributed, and the publicity which this committee has been able to obtain.

There are two major qualities of this committee that greatly disturb me and many other responsible parents. Firstly, its members insist on remaining anonymous, which would indicate that they are either slightly ashamed of what they are saying or that they do not believe all that they state. Anyone with valid opinions and good intentions need not hide his identity in this community that is so used to varied discussions.

Secondly, each piece of information from this committee is riddled with half-truths, negative thoughts, and destructive accusations. Is this committee trying to get the best schedule for their elementary school children, or is its main objective to denounce the school administration? The latter seems more likely, and this greatly disturbs me, for I too am an interested parent who would like a single session schedule. But I, and many others, want this through positive actions.

I strongly believe that the school administration is composed of dedicated individuals who are trying to give our children the best possible education. Their opinion of what is best may occasionally differ from the opinions of those in the community, but with serious investigation and constructive suggestion a fair solution must be possible.

It is a known statistic from the Knowles report, that the majority of parents want a single session. Many advocates of this schedule have worked diligently and constructively, realizing that any beneficial change takes time and serious consideration.

The Uniform Day Committee has put forth a negative, destructive philosophy, punctuated by anonymity, and therefore they do not reflect the tone of those who sincerely and constructively want a single session in the elementary schools.

Criticizes Supt.

Editor, The Graphic:

I think Charles Brown had some nerve making our kids go to school this past Tuesday (Jan. 9th). Besides being extremely cold out, the street and especially the sidewalks were not plowed sufficiently. The school buses were not running on time and in a number of cases they didn't show up at all.

Everyone knows that Newton's School System is one of the best anywhere and Dr. Brown has certainly made it so. But sometimes I think he is pushing the kids a little too hard. Could it be possible that he realizes that his reputation as Superintendent is quite outstanding and he doesn't want to lose his and Newton's status. If our children do go to school a few days longer each year supposedly the average intelligence of the city pupils would be raised. This is like patting Dr. Brown on the back. I frankly do not see why he should jeopardize the safety of our children.

Political Highlights

Political experts believe that Volpe as the Republican nominee for Vice President, could pull some Catholic and Italo-American votes which ordinarily go to Democratic candidates.

Some of them, incidentally, expect that Volpe will be eliminated because of geographical reasons if New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller should finally emerge as the Presidential choice of the Republican national convention.

Others, however, maintain that Rockefeller as a divorced man would need the help Volpe would give him.

Republican chieftains in Massachusetts are having doubts about polls which indicated a Rockefeller-Reagan ticket is the strongest one the GOP could nominate. Rockefeller and Reagan both have been divorced. The political analysts suspect that millions of women would turn away from such a slate.

Volpe's election as Vice President, which now must be regarded as a real possibility, would cause a tremendous chain reaction in Massachusetts.

It would mean that Lieutenant Governor Francis W. Sargent would move up to the Governorship when Volpe left that office to assume the Vice Presidency.

Sargent would be the GOP nominee for Governor in 1970, and Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson would be shunted out of the gubernatorial picture.

Of course, there remains the matter of toppling one Lyndon B. Johnson which may be a lot more difficult to accomplish than many optimistic Republicans anticipate.

Volpe and Brooke In Behind-the-Scenes Row

A behind-the-scenes dispute over the selection of the Massachusetts delegates to the Republican national convention appears to be building up between Governor Volpe and Senator Edward W. Brooke.

It will explode into the open before the April 30 Presidential Primary unless either Volpe or Brooke backs down or a compromise is worked out between them.

Winfield A. Schuster of Douglas, wealthy and influential industrialist, is the cause of the present row between Volpe and Brooke.

Volpe wants Schuster designated as one of the two delegates from the Philbin district.

Brooke is insisting that Senator William I. Randall of Framingham and Representative Albert A. Gammal, Jr., of Worcester be named as the delegates from that sector.

This is a renewal of a feud which goes back a few years.

Schuster, who wields considerable influence in the Republican party in his section of the state, supported Elliot Richardson against Brooke for the GOP endorsement for Attorney General in 1962.

Richardson would have defeated Brooke on the first ballot at that 1962 conclave in Worcester except for a weird ruling by former Senator Leverett Saltonstall who presided over the hectic proceedings.

Brooke went on to win on the second ballot after many of Richardson's supporters had left the convention hall and started home. But he never forgave Schuster and some of the other GOP chieftains who had opposed him.

The quarrel between Volpe and Brooke could be resolved by naming Schuster as a delegate-at-large and Randall and Gammal as district delegates.

That, however, would be tantamount to a victory for Brooke, and Volpe may be unwilling to yield to such a degree.

On paper it would appear that Senator Randall and Representative Gammal would have the advantage if the fight were legislate votes cast by the 50 states and the District of Columbia in order to win election.

Each state, of course, has one electoral vote for each of its Congressmen and U. S. Senators. Thus, Massachusetts, with two Senators and 12 Congressmen, has 14 electoral votes.

The five smallest states in a population count — Vermont, Wyoming, Alaska, Delaware and Nevada — with only one Congressman apiece — have three electoral votes each.

The two most populous states — New York and California — have 43 and 40 electoral votes respectively.

Strange things could happen if the election were forced into the national House.

Under the Constitution each state has one vote when the House chooses a President.

Vermont or Rhode Island has the same voting power as New York or California or Pennsylvania.

The Congressmen in each state determine how their state's vote is cast.

Usually, they vote on straight party lines. They are required to make a choice from the three candidates who received the most electoral votes.

If they should deadlock, their state is deprived of its right to cast a vote.

Now let's take the situation here in Massachusetts.

Political experts agree that Congressman Philip J. Philbin faces a hard fight to win reelection. His district has been changed drastically.

With no affront whatever intended to the very capable Congressman Philbin, let's see what would happen if Philbin lost his seat to a Republican but all the other Bay State Congressmen were reelected.

Massachusetts would have six Republicans serving in the national House in such a turn of events.

The likelihood is that they would ballot along straight party lines and that there would be a 6-6 impasse.

Massachusetts would forfeit its vote for President if such a stalemate occurred regardless of how the people of the Commonwealth had voted in the election.

Illinois now has 12 Democrats and 12 Republicans serving in the national House. If they are all reelected and all voted for the candidate of their party, as is probable, a 12-12 tie would be created.

Republican leaders in California have been predicting that their party in the coming election may pick two seats in Congress now held by Democrats.

Should that happen, the state's delegation would be split evenly with 19 Democrats and the same number of Republicans.

Thus, Massachusetts, Illinois and California might all find their Presidential votes forfeited.

These possibilities are cited to point up some of the weird things which could happen if the Presidential election should be thrown into the House.

The House elected Thomas Jefferson in 1800 after Jefferson and Aaron Burr each received 73 electoral votes.

After a four-candidate race in 1824, the House elected John Quincy Adams president even though he had received fewer popular and fewer electoral votes than had Andrew Jackson.

The Democratic candidate probably would be favored if the Presidential election should be forced into the House.

Of the 50 state delegations in the lower chamber of Congress, the Democrats are in the majority in 29 and the Republicans in 18 while three are evenly divided.

Of the five states which only have one Congressman on Capitol Hill, four — Alaska, Delaware, Vermont and Wyoming — are represented by Republicans while one — Nevada — is served by a Democrat.

Whether Alaska's Congressman Howard W. Pollock will be able to hold his seat is a question. He was elected in 1966 and was the first Republican sent by Alaskans to Washington in 36 years. The Democrats will be out to regain his seat in November.

Isaac Asimov To Lecture At Local Library

Spend an evening with Isaac Asimov and "Escape to Reality" on Tuesday, January 30, at 8:00, at the Newtonville Library, 345 Walnut street, Newtonville. This lecture is one of a series sponsored by the Friends of the Newton Free Library and is presented without charge.

Professor Asimov is the author of an amazing number of books—87, including: science fiction, short stories, textbooks, science books, and science books for teenagers. A resident of West Newton, he has been Associate Professor of Biochemistry at B.U. since 1949.

Asimov has lived in this country since he was three years old (he was born in the Soviet Union). At 15, he entered Columbia University. His first book, "Pebble in the Sky," was published shortly after he earned his Ph.D. According to Asimov, "I can't remember when I wasn't on fire to write." His earliest science fiction story was published in 1938 when he was 18. Of all his books, Asimov has a special attachment for his science books for teenagers. He muses, "Someday a great scientist will recall that he grew interested in his profession through reading one of my books."

Copies of all Asimov's books may be obtained from the Newton Free Library. A display of his books and manuscripts may be seen this week at the Main Library at Newton Corner.

The Friends of the Newton Free Library cordially invite the public to hear Professor

The Lincoln Day Dinner begun by the Newton Republican groups in 1960 is now a major political event in the area. Its ticket committee is chairmanned this year by Norman Buchbinder.

Cops Clueless In Highlands Bank Holdup

Newton police were without clues today in the $2000 holdup Tuesday of the Newton South Cooperative Bank, 1156 Walnut st., Newton Highlands.

While one masked gunman held three women employees at gunpoint, his accomplice went behind the tellers' cages, scooped the cash from the drawers and stuffed it into a black attache case.

The employees were Mrs. Dorothy Powell of 20 Oak ter., assistant treas.; Mrs. Barbara L. Carding, of 46 Cutting st., and Sheila Byrne of 16 Columbus ave., all Newton.

Police said the bandits fled in a stolen car. They abandoned it a half-mile away at Standish rd. and Chestnut ter. where they switched to a waiting black and beige car containing a man and woman accomplice.

Police Seek Early To Rise Bandit Pair

Police continued a search this week for two early morning bandits who held up the night auditor of the Charter House Motor Hotel, 160 Boylston st., Chestnut Hill, last Thursday and fled with $400 cash.

It was about 4:15 a.m. when the bandit pair walked in on Irving G. Sigilman in the lobby. One asked if "a Mr. Arsneault" was checked in.

As Sigilman got up and walked to the switchboard, the smaller man jumped over the counter with a gun in his hand. He ordered the auditor to "keep quiet and give me your glasses." He then told Sigilman to place his hands on top of the front desk and keep his head down.

When Sigilman approached the desk he saw the larger man standing outside the counter, was also holding a gun.

The pair took $75 to $100 from Sigilman's wallet and $300 from the cash drawer before forcing the auditor in the ladies room with a warning to remain five minutes.

One man was described as 5-foot-7, 150 pounds, and the other 5-foot-8, 170 pounds.

Headlights and Highlights From Newton High School

By KATE SOLOMON

The second term is over. Term papers have been handed in. Term tests have been completed. The student's intensified studying has resulted. Even the sub-zero weather has disappeared for the occasion.

The Rhinoceros, the senior play, was cast during this "emergency period." While students were home studying, the fifteen members of the cast were practicing turning into rhinoceri. They stayed after school every day to rehearse. The play will be performed Friday and Saturday March 15 and 16.

Daisy and Berenger, the two lead roles of the play, will be played by Kathy Gurd and Neil Silverman.

Other members of the cast are John Ziergiebel as Durdard, Fred Schwartz as Bortard, Andrew Golub as Jean, Gail Winnick as Mrs. Bouef, Glenda Lovell as the housewife, and Jon Fleishman as the logician.

Also in the play are Sue Hurray as the waitress, Neal Gorfinkle as the grocer, Donna Ross as the grocer's wife, Barry Tattleman as the old gentleman, Jeff Simon as the cafe proprietor, Eric Malins as Mr. Papillon, and Mark Whitehouse as a fireman.

Douglas Treem is the student director, assisting Mrs. Judith Brier. Jim Weaver, as the general coordinator, is in charge of money, tickets, publicity, programs, refreshments and ushers.

Approximately forty students are working behind the scenes for the senior play. The Rhinoceros involves such intricate details as issuing animal sounds, changing into rhinoceri and eating paper and flowers, and thus requires extensive backstage work.

There are six "behind the scenes" committee, namely:

seeking a worthy successor to Dean Geen. Dr. Perry, who became Goucher's seventh president last July, is also a graduate of Newton High School and the recipient of an M.A. and Ph.D. from Harvard University.

When in Newton, Miss Dorsey resides with Mrs. Clara MacKenzie of 300 Tremont street.

Wentworth Institute in Boston has accepted two Newton High Seniors for the 1968-69 academic year according to announcement of Dr. H. Russell Beatty, Wentworth President. The seniors are Donald E. Cassidy of 89 Hunnewell avenue, Newton and Joel B. Sandberg, of 49 Warren Road, Waban. Wentworth is a 2 year program school leading to a Certificate or Associate in Engineering degree and the largest accredited and endowed institute in the United States.

Sound Committee, Make-up Committee, Lighting Committee, Stage Crew, Set Design and Prop Committees, and Costume Committee.

The members of the committee were chosen on the basis of training, responsibility, and reliability. Each interested student had to submit an application and was subsequently interviewed.

The Sound Committee, with Michael Schwab as the student head, must deal with the producing of rhinoceri sounds, making sure they come in exactly when they are supposed to and for the correct amount of time.

Tina Takyanik is in charge of the Make-up Committee. Mike Bogan of the Prop Committee, Peter Colby of the Lighting Committee and Ken Appel of the Stage Crew.

The Costume Committee is headed by Ronald Sherman, who was also in charge of costumes for South Pacific. The costume committee must make and plan two sets of costumes, one for the actors when they are people and one when they are rhinoceri.

Satire Newspaper

Would you believe that Newton High is putting on You're a Good Man Charlie Brown as its annual all-school musical? Would you believe that bus-riding causes cancer or that the six houses of Newton High are severing relations? Would you believe that the administration banned all interscholastic contact sports?

Of course not! (?) But these were all topics discussed in the NEWTONITE satire issue of January 9. The paper was four pages and contained only "news stories," no "editorials."

The pictures for the issue were also quite humorous. There was a picture of a swearing in ceremony and the caption read, "Simon sez: Raise your right hand."

There was a picture of five students burning an IBM card and the caption, "The NHS Chapter of SDS (Students for Dumping on Society, not Students for a Democratic Society) burn their IBM cards to protest the NHS grading system." Report Cards have the tradition for being written up by IBM machines.

There was also a picture of a housemaster, and two teachers with the caption, "Well, I think one hundred millimeter cigarettes do taste better."

Youth Center

The Newton Youth Center three years. For three years it has been held at Warren Junior High. For three years it has provided entertainment and relaxation for high school students.

The Youth Center Committee is planning tentatively to establish several small local youth centers instead of the one central center.

The problem with the Warren center is that it doesn't attract enough students. According to the committee secretary, Joanne Glickman, "It doesn't look like we can bring the city together." People who live far away from Warren often find difficulty finding transportation there.

These local youth centers, instead of being open only to high school students, would probably be available to any Newton teenager.

Math Team

The Newton High Math Team belongs to a league of nine high schools. At each meet, all nine schools compete. The members of each team are given math problems to solve, and each correct answer given by a student receives a point.

Two seniors, two juniors, and one sophomore make up a math team. Before each meet, students compete for the five positions. Newton High placed second in one of the meets.

Viet Nam Discussions
Newton High is immensely interested in the Viet Nam problem. The teachers sign petitions. The students go to demonstrations in Washington D. C. And the school sponsors speakers.

Irving Fishman, who is a state representative and an ardent supporter of Sen. McCarthy, spoke to the Libertarian Club and all interested students on Thursday January 11. He was originally going to speak at Jill Breslau's home in front of an audience of teen democrats but a fierce snow storm prevented his appearance. Fishman explained McCarthy's views on Viet Nam and stressed that Johnson hadn't "gotten the job done."

Senator Edward Brooke was also at the school recently. He was the guest speaker at a discussion on Viet Nam. He expressed his views on the bombing in Viet Nam and expressed concern over the lack of attention given to U.S. cities.

Mrs. Nesson To Post for H.F. Special Gifts

The appointment of Mrs. Marjorie R. Nesson of 1063 Commonwealth Ave., as special gifts chairman for the 1968 Heart Fund in Newton was announced by David B. Slater, general chairman of the Greater Boston Heart Fund Drive.

Mrs. Nesson has previously held positions as general chairman, Heart Sunday chairman, and special gifts chairman for the campaign, having been an active leader for over ten years.

She will assume responsibility for contributions from major donors. The special gifts section produces a large part of the income upon which programs of research, education, and community service depend.

The fight against heart and blood vessel diseases in recent years has included such gains as the development of drugs for treating high blood pressure, development of new methods of treating stroke and rehabilitating stroke patients, development of "intensive care" units for coronary patients, and the introduction of closed chest cardiopulmonary resuscitation for restarting stopped hearts in some cases of sudden death.

The annual meeting of St. John's Parish was called to order at 8:00 p.m. in the Parish House by the Senior Warden, Dr. Frank C. Wheelock, Jr., who presided. Following the introduction of Reverend and Mrs. Sunderland and the presentation of various reports, the Nominating Committee reported the following slate:

Senior Warden, Mr. C. Evan Johnson; Junior Warden, Mr. Allan Q. Mowatt; Clerk, Miss Emily P. Burdon; Treasurer, Mr. Orville F. Hagaman.

Hicks; then the new Senior Warden, Mr. Johnson, paid homage to Doctor Wheelock for his untiring efforts as Senior Warden during the past two years and presented to him a Book of Scripture.

Newton Building Slack In 1967

Building permits issued in Newton last year fell by more than 12 per cent as compared to 1966, the Building Department revealed yesterday.

Most permits issued in any year are for alterations to existing residential buildings. Last year 261 out of a total of 480 permits were issued for this motive.

The drop in new single-dwelling permits from 45 at a cost of $869,800, to 32 at a cost of $800,000 is a reflection of the scarcity of land in Newton, although the cost figures show that the cost of materials and labor is increasing by about five per cent a year.

Building inspectors see a natural trend toward apartments, because cost and scarcity of land prompts people to get the most out of the area they build on.

The total value for 480 permits issued last year was of $6,002,386, while the total value for 548 permits issued in 1966 was of $11,002,100.

Championship In Sight For NH Gym Team

Newton High's undefeated gymnastics team trounced Suburban League opponents Watertown High and Brookline High for its fifth and sixth victories and moved within a single triumph of winning the league championship for the third straight year last week.

The Tigers swept the first three places in every event against the Arsenal Towners and took the top four spots in all but two events to win, $5.55 to $6.30.

Steve Clancy's 6.25 in floor exercises was the highest score of the meet. Junior Bill Henry and senior Co-Capt. Ed Hallow placed second and third, respectively.

In side horse the top three were Mike Boyajian, Jim Battista, and Tom Iodice. It was Hallow, John Blakeney, and sophomore Paul Gorfine in Horizontal Bar.

Henry won parallel bars and was followed by junior Jeff Silverman and sophomore Murray Solomon. Hallow topped long horse vaulting, with Jay Gentile and Co-Capt. Rich Searle second and third.

Searle won rings and Hillel Kieval was second, with Steve McCarthy third.

The Newton acrobats built a quick six-point lead in floor exercise against Brookline and never were headed, winning, 93.50-74.39.

Clancy's outstanding score of 6.75 won floor exercise. Bill Henry's 5.85 placed second, and Dudley Hall's 5.4 was third. The winners swept horizontal bar and rings. Battista, Hallow, and Blakeney finished 12-3 in horizontal bar, and Searle, Hall, and Battista were the top three in rings.

Boyajian won side horse once again, with Battista second. Other Newton place winners were Searle (1st in parallel bars and third in long horse vaulting) and Clancy (second in long horse vaulting and third in parallel bars).

South Trackmen Topped, 56-29 By No. Quincy

The Newton South trackmen were topped by North Quincy, 56-29, last Saturday, in Division II of the MET Track League.

The Lions managed only three first place finishes. Senior Stan Dolberg sped to a 1:18.9 in the 600, and remains unbeaten in dual-meet competition this year. Junior Bruce Kepelman, a recent transfer from the 300, running the 50-yard dash for the first time, also topped first place with the time of 6.1. Junior Peter Bernstein earned a tie for first in the high jump at the height of 5'2".

South grabbed four seconds, however. Senior Mike Donnelly ran a 4:59 mile, the first time he has broken the five minute barrier. Junior Fred Kaye, competing in the 1000-yard run for the first time grabbed a second, as did sophomore Fouad Sayess in the hurdles, and Dolberg in the shot.

Senior Dave Williams sprinted home third in the 600 for a single point, as did senior Geoff Davis in the two-mile, and junior John Stahl in the dash. Both have been out for a month with injuries and are just returning to early-season form.

In the only JV race—the JV 600—sophomore Ron Schneider was very impressive in gathering a third place in the field of 20 competitors.

This year is a rebuilding year at Newton South. There are only four seniors on the team and there are an abundance of promising sophomores and juniors. In addition to inexperience, the Lions have been plagued by a rash of injuries, and this, more than anything, is responsible for the poor showing of the team.

Tigers Lose To Arlington; Hockey Team In 4th Place

An inability to convert scoring opportunities in front of the Arlington net cost the Newton High hockey team a chance to move into second place in the GBL as the Tigers dropped a 5 to 1 decision to the Spy Ponders Saturday at the Boston Arena.

The loss, coupled with Brookline's 5-2 win over previously undefeated Medford dropped Newton even deeper into fourth place. It is now three points behind co-leaders Arlington and Brookline. The Tigers' record is 4-2-1.

Newton had possession of the puck for much of the first two periods. Defensemen Mike Dezotell and Paul Britt played well in front of goalie Steve Gordon, and going into the final stanza Arlington led 2-1.

The first score of the game at 9:41 of the first period, when the Spy Ponders' Bernie Quinlan lifted a puck shoulder high past the outstretched glove of Condon. The sophomore goaltender had been partially screened out on the play.

Newton had several chances to tie the score, but was unable to take advantage of centering passes by Ralph Murphy and Jay Keefe. The best opportunity came on a vicious slap shot from the blue line by Jack Droz at the eight-minute mark on which netminder Joe Bertagna made a glove save.

The teams were at full strength together for only seven of the 12 minutes in the first period as six penalties were called; four on Newton.

A two-on-one break at 3:23 of the second stanza provided the Tigers with their only goal of the afternoon. Droz, returning after missing two games due to an eye injury, shot a rebound into an open net, after Captain Donny Gallagher had pulled the goalie out of position.

Newton's joy was short-lived, however, as Arlington tallied a minute and 24 seconds later to put it in the

Celtics Star To Give Hoop Clinic At 'Y'

Don Nelson of the Boston Celtics will give a basketball clinic for teenage boys on Saturday, January 27th at 12:00 p.m. at the Newton YMCA. The public is invited to attend. Nelson, a steady scorer and rebounder for the Celtics, will cover basic fundamentals of the game.

Immediately following the clinic the Newton YMCA's Junior High School League teams will swing into action at 1:00 p.m.

At 2:00 p.m. a coffee and donut session will be held in the main lobby of the Y for all adult members and guests and will end at 4:00 p.m.

lead for good. Tim Russell, the league's leading scorer with fellow co-captain and teammate Bill Corkery, gave a beautiful centering pass from behind the net which Kent Davidson tapped in from five feet out.

A Newton resurgence temporarily followed with both Bob Cotter and Murphy nearly scoring. The puck then came back the other way, and Condon made a superb kneeling save on Russell.

Within the span of two minutes and four seconds, Arlington scored three times in the third period to eradicate any Newton hopes of victory. Corkery began the onslaught at 2:52 as he emerged successful from a five-man scramble in front of the Tiger's net. An assist went to Davidson.

Ten seconds later, Russell lit the lamp, as he skated from the right corner and backhanded the puck into the net. Corkery completed the scoring at 4:56 when he stole the puck from a defenseman and pushed it past Condon. Both he

Newton High Cagers Win, Lose For 2-6 League Mark

A career-high output of 25 points by 6-foot-5 Paul Colantonio, enabled the Newton High basketball team to break a five game losing streak, 56 to 40, over winless Watertown High, a week ago Tuesday at Watertown.

The Tigers then traveled to Brookline Friday night, only to see the Wealthy Towners gain their first victory, 49-38, at the expense of Newton. The Tigers are now 2-6 in Suburban League play.

Colantonio and sophomore Bob Wargin "shared the laurels" against the Red Raiders. Wargin, playing his first varsity game after returning from a broken arm suffered in varsity football, sparked Newton to a large lead midway through the second quarter.

He came off the bench with one minute remaining in the first period, and the game deadlocked at 6-6. Showing a scrappy floor game, the 5-foot-10 sophomore proceeded to propel the Tigers to an 18-6 advantage. This lead was never lost.

In all, Wargin scored five points, including a three point play. Coach Al Fortune was extremely pleased with his performance.

Colantonio put the game out of reach in the final quarter, having 16 markers. These points came largely as a result of Watertown's switching from a zone to a man-to-man defense which allowed the tall center to get free more easily under the basket. His previous high had been 21 against Cambridge Latin last year.

Another important factor in the Newton win was the way and Russell now have 17 points.

The shots on net were not indicative of the 5-1 score. The Spy Ponders forced 23 on Condon while Newton graced Bertagna with 19. The saves were 15-13 in Bertagna's favor.

Newton's passing was quite good but its shooting was not up to par. The Tigers' reactions seemed to be slow while down in the Arlington end. Of their 18 shots, Gallagher fired eight.

In an attempt to score, coach Sarge Kinlin was constantly switching his first and second lines; playing Droz on both. Condon played the entire game in goal.

This was Arlington's (the defending State champs) fifth straight win after a 2-1 loss to Medford, and its 53rd in its last 54 games.

Newton's next game is this coming Saturday at the Arena against Rindge Tech at 12:30 p.m. The Technicians have suffered 27 consecutive losses, the Tigers having already beaten them 6-0 earlier this season.

Melrose And Illness Pin Newton South Grapplers

The Newton South High varsity wrestling squad split two decisions last week, topping Malden, 33-6, for their sixth consecutive victory, before being upended by a powerful Melrose team, 26-17.

Last Tuesday, January 16, the Lions rolled over Malden quite easily, gaining three pins and winning all but two of the eleven matches. Neil Applebaum started things off by pinning his opponent in the 103 pound weight class. He was followed by Jon Wainer in the 112 pound class who duplicated his feat, and South was off to a quick 10-0 lead.

Danny Freedman, wrestling in place of the injured Mark Buchine, in the 120 pound division absorbed the Lions' first defeat. However, decisions by Dave Hill and Marty Levanthal in the 127 and 133 pound classes built the South margin to 16-3, before Paul Eisenberg, wrestling for the absent Howie Gershan was topped on points.

The Lions then proceeded

There Is Joy In Mudville; Lions Win First Hoop Tilt

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

The Newton South hoopers climbed out of the Suburban League cellar last Friday, January 19, by nipping Watertown, 50-48, for their first Suburban League victory of the year.

South got rolling quickly, as only seconds after the tap-off, Cliff Greene picked off an errant Watertown pass and flipped it to Lee Casty for a fast-break lay-up and a quick 2-0 lead. For most of the quarter the two clubs played even as both were shooting cold. Suddenly, with two minutes to go, the Lions ignited, as senior Bob Saltzberg popped in a long jump shot, junior Cliff Greene dropped in a lay-up, and senior Ken Issac put in two. When the buzzer sounded, Newton was on top, 14-7.

The Lions dominated the second quarter, even though they were still cold. However, the visitors from Arsenal City were even colder. South also was strong on the boards, as Watertown, the shortest team in the league, gave away height at every position. The Newton defense was exceptionally strong in the period with key plays being turned in by forward Nick Parnell, a beautiful "stuff," and guard Ken Stuart, two steals. The Lion offense was spearheaded by Greene's 10 points and the Newton boys carried an 11-point bulge, 27-16, into the locker room at the half.

Watertown made a comeback in the third quarter, cutting the South lead to six points, 36-30. Newton was extremely cold, as they sunk only nine points in the entire period. South scored their first point at 4:08 of the period on two Ken Issacs foul shots. Center Issacs dropped in a lay-up seconds later to keep the Lions out of reach of the fast-closing Watertown cagers.

A determined Watertown five kept chipping away at the South lead until it was down to two points, 45-43, with two minutes remaining. Watertown missed two chances to tie the score, and Cliff Greene finally pulled down the rebound at 1:48. Lee Casty then sunk a free throw with 1:17 on the board for a 46-43 lead. With 56 seconds to go, Issacs grabbed a rebound and tossed a full-court pass to Captain Bob Levine, who scored, for a 48-45 spread.

A series of fouls and some wild scrambling ended with the score tied at 48, six seconds on the clock, and Issacs at the charity stripe. Issacs calmly swished his two attempts and Newton was victorious.

Earlier in the week, South had been trounced, 72-47, by Cambridge Latin, in absorbing their sixth Suburban League loss. South led, 16-13, after the first quarter, as Cliff Greene, but Latin retaliated with a very aggressive zone defense which completely shackled the Lion offense. Meanwhile, Cambridge ran wild, outscoring Newton, 20-4 in the period, and earning a 33-20 lead at the half.

The Lions' offense never got rolling as only Greene hit consistently with occasional assistance from center Ken Issacs, who had 9 points. Latin was paced by forwards Mike Cook with 14 points and Ron Lee with 13.

The story of the game is best illustrated by the shooting statistics. South actually outshot Cambridge, 59-52, but Latin hit 50 percent to the Lions' 30 percent.

The slumping Lion J. V. basketball team was topped twice last week. The Jayvees have now dropped five consecutive contests for a 4-5 slate.

South was bombed by Cambridge Latin in the first half, 34-19, and never recovered, going down, 57-41. The biggest Newton problem was one of balance. Three Lions did nearly all the scoring. Sophomore Ken Green led the pointgetters with 15 points and he was followed by juniors Jeff Newman with 11 and Bill Starr with 10.

Against Watertown, the Lions led all the way, but wilted under a fourth period onslaught as Watertown tied the game, 44-44 after four quarters. South was then topped, 49-48, in the overtime.

The game was deadlocked at seven points each after the first quarter, but Newton opened up a six point lead, 24-18, at the half, behind Jeff Newman's excellent rebounding and the fine all-around play of sophomore Billy Garber.

The Newton spread reached 10 points midway through the third quarter as sophomores Bill Garber (5 points) and John Corcoran (8), sparked the Lion attack. South still led, 35-29, after three quarters.

Watertown continued to surge throughout the fourth period, but after an important Bob Bakerman rebound with 24 seconds left, and two Bill Starr foul shots and South on top, 44-40, Lion victory seemed assured. Watertown was not to be stopped, though, and tied the game.

Watertown went ahead quickly, 47-44, in the three minute overtime, but a fantastic move on a lay-up by Starr, with :38 seconds left, put Newton on top again, 48-47, but a costly Lion miscue followed and gave Watertown an easy lay-up and the game, 49-48. Starr was high man for the Lions with 13 points.

Lopsided South Hockey Victory Maintains Dual County Deadlock

By NED MORSE

"Right wing Tom Rezzuti's 'hatrick' and two goal performances by forwards Gary Mescon and Biff Wisner led the Newton South pucksters to a 9-0 victory over Lincoln Sudbury.

The win enabled the Lions to remain deadlocked with Wayland for Dual County League supremacy. Each team boast 6-0-1 records.

Newton South had opened their season nipping Lincoln Sudbury 3-2 in a hotly contested meeting. Their second encounter saw South completely dominate play on both offense and defense.

In their best performance of the season, the Lions outshot their opponents 37-7. Only several fine saves by the Sudbury goalie kept the team from hitting double figures in their goal output.

Rezzuti notched his first goal of the game early in the first period. It came on a wrist shot from fifteen feet out. He was set up on a center pass from Mescon.

Captain and defenseman Jack Dunnigan ended first period scoring with a slap shot from the left point. The goal came during a power-play situation. Ron Nelson and Rezzuti received assists on the play.

During the opening session Sudbury was outshot 8-4. Sudbury forward Ted Henricks had a golden opportunity for a tally but was robbed on a clear breakaway by Lion netminder Dave Roberts on a great save.

The rare penalty shot play occurred as a result of a penalty to defenseman Brad Graham for delaying play, an unusual call. Graham had fallen on the puck in front of the Lion net to prevent a shot.

Except for this great scoring chance Sudbury failed to keep the puck in the Lion zone. Even when short-handed on three occasions the Lions prevented Sudbury from clearing their own defensive end.

Three second period goals were scored by the offensive line of Mescon, Nelson and Rezzuti. Mescon tallied twice and Rezzuti once.

Mescon scored his first goal on a high rising wrist shot from 12 feet out. He was set up on a beautiful pass from Rezzuti in back of the net.

His second goal of the game was his eighth of the season. After digging the puck out of the left corner he skated around a defenseman and poked the puck into the net. Assists went to Rezzuti and Nelson on the score.

Rezzuti scored on a pretty play with the team short-handed. He stole the puck in his defensive zone, outskated two Sudbury defense and took an off balanced shot on the goalie. His scoring attempt was blocked but he took the rebound from the goalie's grasp and fired it home.

On three Lion penalties in the period, forwards Spinks and Andrew Schwarz forechecked masterfully keeping the puck in the offensive zone. Third period action featured goals by Rezzuti, Wisner and Jimmy O'Connor.

Rezzuti completed his hatrick by firing in a backhand shot after shots by his linemates were thwarted. Wisner tallied during a Sudbury powerplay situation. Penalty killing specialist Schwarz stole the puck in the right hand corner of the Sudbury defensive zone. He fed Wisner who skated in unmolested on the goaltender and beat him from two feet out on a wrist shot.

O'Connor, a hustling junior forward ended the Lion's scoring with 11 seconds remaining in the contest. His backhand shot beat the goalie after shots by Spinks and Wisner failed.

Lion Lines: By scoring three goals Rezzuti duplicated his performance of the Lion's opening game win over Sudbury when he tallied all three scores. He now has 10 goals and 8 assists to lead the team in scoring. Overall the team has out-scored their foes 42-10.

McCarthy Democrats Hold Meeting To Organize Here

125 Newton Democrats attended a meeting at Grace Church, January 16, and heard Paul G. Conahan and Victor Kumin outline the plans to get the name of Senator Eugene McCarthy on the April 30 Presidential preferential primary ballot.

State campaign chairman Conahan announced that thirty towns in Massachusetts now have McCarthy committees. The state committee is staging a mass welcome for Senator McCarthy on Thursday, January 25, at its headquarters, 11 South St., Boston 02111. In addition there will be a $100-a-couple cocktail party and a $1000-a-plate luncheon for the senator. It was announced that tickets can be secured from Mark E. Gordon, 54 Kirkstall Rd., Newtonville. In the evening Senator McCarthy will address a meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. Honorary chairman of the state committee is Henry Steele Commager.

City chairman Victor Kumin reported that Newton has a working group of 350 members raising money and distributing McCarthy petitions, bumper stickers, pins, and information. Kumin stressed his conviction that a hot primary fight will not split the Democratic party in Massachusetts but is necessary for disenfranchised Democrats to express dissatisfaction with administration policy which he says is "diplomatically, morally, and pragmatically disastrous."

Fred King, 21 Standish St., Newton Highlands, listed the ward petition coordinators: Ward One, Mrs. Ruth Baden, 12 Cedar St., Newton Centre; Ward Two, Mrs. Sidney Gorfinkle, 124 Mt. Vernon St., Newtonville; Ward Three, Mrs. Janet Friedel, 122 Temple St., West Newton; Ward Four, Herbert Hoffman, 39 Grove St., Auburndale; Ward Five, Mrs. Francesca Hartnett, 39 Chester St., Newton Highlands; Ward Six, Mr. and Mrs. Aron Bernstein, 142 Langley Rd., Newton Centre; Ward Seven, Mrs. William Cantor, 382 Kenrick St., Newton; and Ward Eight, William Strong, 1401 Walnut St., Newton Highlands.

Mrs. Irwin Freedberg, 16 Charlotte Rd., Newton Centre, won a door prize by making the best guess as to the amount of money raised when Finance Chairman Murray Falk, 158 Beethoven Ave., Waban, passed the hat for current local expenses.

Dr. Nelson is a professor at Boston University school of theology.

Recently Dr. Nelson gave two lectures in Cleveland, Ohio before the annual convention of the American Protestant Hospital Association. He spoke on the ethical implications of human genetics and voluntary euthanasia.

The new books by him are published this month, Church Union in Focus and Crisis in Unity and Witness. The former is an interpretation of the Consultation on Church Union, which includes at present ten denominations. The latter is an analysis of some urgent issues confronting churches at this time.

Dr. Nelson lives at 63 Oakwood Road, Newtonville.

One jack rabbit for every 5 to 10 acres of land is usually considered a high population.

Newton PTA Panel Urges State Aid To Schools

"State Financial Aid to Education: The Outlook for Massachusetts" was the subject of a panel discussion recently at the Horace Mann Elementary School in Newtonville which included as panelists Representatives Joseph G. Bradley, Irving Fishman, Paul F. Malloy and Theodore D. Mann.

Moderator was Mrs. Edward F. Ryan of Manchester, Chairman of the Massachusetts Education Conference Board, which was responsible for proposing and carrying through legislation on the new state aid formula. Mrs. Ryan also is legislation chairman for the nation P.T.A. and is a past president of the Mass. state P.T.A.

Rep. Bradley told the group that state support is likely to come now that the burden is greater than cities and towns can bear. He suggested a raise in state income tax to accomplish this as that is the only tax with built-in growth factor.

A raise in the income tax has already been rejected by the voters and even if they reversed this stand in another referendum, said Rep. Mann, it would not be applicable for seven years. He predicted that Newton, as an affluent community, would continue to pick up the tab and advised the School Committee to "make certain the taxpayer is getting a dollar's worth of service for every dollar expended."

"We live next to communities whose education systems were invited. All the schools which have participated in the tournament are no where near as good as ours," noted Rep. Fishman. "We recognize the injustice of one student in Newton enjoying the kind of education here, and by virtue of accident of birth a student in Roxbury, a few miles away, being at the other extreme of the educational scale."

He complained that an unfair comparison is made in Massachusetts' place on the scale of state aid to education (44th) as Massachusetts is the only state where funds can be allocated from the local aid fund. He thought the recently passed welfare measure will provide money to aid cities and towns so they will not suffer from a change in distribution of funds.

The effect of automation on society and the tremendous challenge it poses for education, was commented on by Rep. Malloy. "It is my opinion that as far as education is concerned, we are just in the beginning stages, both in educating people and in amounts of money to secure for our children and our children's children the education they will need to compete and develop in the future or even survive as humans," he said. The complicated New England School Development Conference formula by which allotments are determined was explained by him.

Mrs. Ryan said she looked forward in the future to a smaller local share, a larger state share, and also a federal share in financing education. "The amount of money you are spending per pupil in Newton is less than average spent in New York State," she said. "This means this is a very hard working system, getting lots of quality out of your dollars."

She said that, under an amendment to the NESDC formula which says that the percentage which is due any town according to its ability to support schools is to be applied not to all school expenditures, but to those between 80 and 110 percent of the state average, works to the disadvantage of our system. The average is about $508 and Newton is about $700, which leaves several hundred dollars for which the percentage for Newton would not apply.

Among those attending the meeting were four Newton School Committee members, Francis P. Frazier, Mrs. Norma Mintz, Vincent P. Stanton and Alvin Mandell. Eugene Bullock introduced the panel and Mrs. Bullock presided at the business meeting.

Fire Damages Doctor's Home

The home of a Newton Centre doctor was badly damaged last week by a fire that started in the kitchen and spread through partitions and into the loft.

Dr. Richard Gorlin, of 87 Graycliff Rd., a cardiologist on the staff of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, arrived home at 7:30 p.m. to see smoke pouring out of the loft.

The loft runs the length of the house and the blaze gave firemen considerable trouble. There was also extensive water damage to the downstairs walls, ceilings, floors and furnishings.

Dr. Gorlin and his wife, Marjorie, along with their maid, Nellie Nunez, 34, were able to stay in the house overnight. The couple's children, Wendy, 6; William, 4; and Douglas, 1, went to the home of a neighbor.

Headlights and Highlights From Newton South High

By JAMES SHULMAN

Even with senior slump now in progress, students at Newton South High School are uniting and working towards a "Winter Carnival."

The "Winter Carnival" will be a series of events sponsored by all three classes at South, to take place during the first or second weekend in March.

Some of the tentative plans for the weekend are, to have a skating party Friday night and a dance Saturday night, or have a skating party and a snow contest the following night.

Cliff Greene, junior class president, and coordinator of the carnival, feels "if each class plans its events separately, and then invited the whole school, everybody would have more fun and more school spirit would be generated."

Senior class president Jerry Levine, said "he would like to see a Senior Dance for its members, and he went on to say "an all school dance might not be as successful as individual class dances."

During the meeting this week plans for the "Winter Carnival" will be finalized, and the students will set to work preparing for the gala weekend.

The Sophomores at south, are wisely following their predecessors foot steps, by sponsoring a Sophomore Computer Dance, much like the one that brought so much success to the class of '69.

The dance is a project of the Sophomore Activities Committee, headed by Steve Porter and Scott Lampert, and consists of approximately 25 people. The Committee is open to the entire class. The officers hope that many more will join, as this is the only way a dance can be a success.

One purpose of the computer dance is to let any boy or girl be matched up by a Honeywell 200 Computer, based upon their answers to a questionnaire. However, if a person wishes to come without being electronically matched, he need not fill out a questionnaire.

"The Quiet", will provide the music. The dance will take place in the cafeteria from 8:00 to 11:00 p.m. on January 26. The answer cards are being processed by the Contact Computer Company of Boston, which has pioneered in computer dating.

The altered dress code at Newton South has received explanation by Principal William Greer, who feels "school is no place to arbitrate fashion. The dress code is very reasonable, and that most people do abide by it. The extreme cases have caused the revision."

It seems that the basic reason for a dress code is to create a harmony between students and to reflect a good image for Newton South High School. In the past, the rules about dress length and stressed definite objections to dungarees. The revision is as follows:

The students at Newton South High School are expected to exhibit good taste and cleanliness in their personal appearance. Unusual and exotic fads will be discouraged by the school which has the right to send any students home if in its judgment their appearance does not reflect good taste and cleanliness.

The small minority of students who wear "exotic clothes" will be discouraged, but if parents allow their children to attend school in this fashion, there is little that the school can do about it. However, the school will try to advise both students and parents that this type of clothing is improper.

When asked about the touchy situation on dungarees, Mr. Geer clarified his position. He feels that neat, clean ironed dungarees are not bizarre or exotic. But, if dungarees appear as though they have been used as work clothes, they will be immediately discouraged.

In most cases "discouraged" is the key word. The students will be advised what to do, but in extreme cases such as boys wearing dresses, immediate disciplinary action will have to be taken.

With the project that we are announcing, the Parent Teachers Student Association at Newton South High School is illustrating how parents, teachers and students can join together to recognize a problem, examine it and offer ways to help solve it.

The symposium on drugs to be held for students on January 30 and 31, and for parents on the evening of January 31 has been the work of a committee made up mostly of students of Newton South High School. Teachers and parents have participated as advisors. The program, the panelists and speakers were arranged by them. They are aware of the complex problems they face and are taking steps to find solutions to them. We, as parents, can do no less.

The Newton South debating society captured first place in a debate hosted by Great Neck North High School, New York.

The South students who helped gain first prize were: Nancy Kaplan, president; and Eugene Kaplan, vice-president; who composed the negative side. And Marc Koslow and Lewis Kaziz, who made up the affirmative team.

The Newton South representatives spent four days in New York. They attended classes with their hosts on Friday. Friday evening the debaters attended a lecture given by Dr. Benjamin Spock. Dr. Spock talked chiefly about the United States commitment in Vietnam. The lecture provided a break between the debates, which began Friday afternoon and continued all day Saturday.

Most of the tournament was held on Saturday. Debates began at 10:00 a.m. and concluded about 5:00 p.m. Saturday evening the Great Neck Debating Society gave a party for the Newton South teams.

Lee Loumos Says:

The word Sale is an often misused term. It can mean anything from a promotional lure for purely publicity purposes with little or no decrease in prices (witness many department and chain store ads which always seem to include the word "sale"), to a genuine substantial price reduction. I personally believe that only this latter type constitutes legitimate use of the term. This is the season of Annual Sales with several of my lines in which price reductions are shared by both the merchant and manufacturer, and substantial savings are afforded the consumer. They generally take place in late January or February and the first of these is in process right now with our Sylvania TV and stereo. So come in now, the sooner the better, for first choice on many outstanding values.

Mercury Montego MX 2-door hardtop

People who never gave Mercury a second thought are suddenly thinking of it first. Our new 2-door hardtop, the Montego, is a pretty good reason why.

Montego gives you nearly half-a-foot more car for about the same money. Its trunk has 20% more usable space. There's more knee room in the back. The longer wheelbase gives a more comfortable ride. It's more car—period.

Why more car? Well, consider where Montego comes from. The Lincoln-Mercury Division. The fingerprints of a Lincoln Continental engineer may be on the springs of your Montego. The Fine Car Touch separates our cars from the others. It's true with everything we make. The 2-door, hardtops, 4-door sedans, wagon and convertible—everything.

We suggest you clip our chart and tuck it in your wallet. It makes a good reference piece when you go out to buy a new car. It's also a good reminder that there is somebody who's really trying to give you a little extra for your hard-earned money. The Fine Car Touch inspired by the Continental.

Newton Youth Symphony Concert This Saturday

The magnificent response of Newton residents to the Youth Concerts presented by the Newton Youth Symphony Orchestra has resulted in establishing these concerts as a continuing endeavor here.

The Newton residents, composer and horn soloists will be featured at the concert conducted by Michel Sasson this Saturday (Jan. 27) at 2 and 3:30 p.m. at Meadowbrook Junior High School.

Judi Wolper, composer and violinist, and Mark Russo, principal horn, are both members of this orchestra. These concerts will add a new dimension to Newton's profuse cultural atmosphere. This, being the first such program to be presented to Newton Youth in many years, is expected to be attended by some fourteen hundred children and parents. Included in this number are students who attended the Newton Schools as part of the METCO program.

Judi Wolper, whose Overture in F major will be performed, is a senior at Newton High School. The Overture which she composed and orchestrated in 1966 was an outgrowth of Mr. Henry Lasker's Theory of Music I and II classes in which Judi participated. It was premiered at a concert by the Newton High School Symphony Orchestra. Following her graduation this year Judi plans to continue her education as a major in Composition and Music Education.

Mark Russo, who will be French horn soloist in the Mozart Concerto in E flat, is a sophomore at Newton High School. From the age of nine he participated in a church choir, studied the trumpet and played in the Winchester school band. He then began to learn the French horn independently and in sixth grade became principal horn player of the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra. He is presently studying horn with Mr. Harry Shapiro of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and hopes to continue his music education abroad after graduation.

Youth Center Committee To Hold Open Meeting Jan. 30

Judge Julian Vesley, Adult Chairman and Barry Dichter, Youth Chairman of the Newton Youth Center Advisory Committee, have jointly announced an open meeting for Tuesday evening, January 30th—7:30 p.m., at the Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry St., in West Newton.

This meeting will be devoted to a program report on the Center operation and a discussion of a proposal drafted by members of the Youth Executive Committee under the Chairmanship of Barry Dichter. The proposal, which has been mailed to all Advisory Committee Members, includes some new basic structure for operation. Content of the approach results from 3 years experience with the Youth Center Program held in the facilities of Warren Jr. High School.

In commenting on the proposal, Barry Dichter stated that his Executive Committee following many hours of discussion and evaluation, have set forth a master plan which they feel should enhance the Youth Center Operation. It provides for continuity, deals with the realities of transportation problems, a broad representative advisory committee of adults and youth, and other aspects which have been under discussion and may now, hopefully, be implemented.

All adults and high school age youth interested in participating in future planning and operation of the Newton Youth Center Program are encouraged to attend this important meeting. Those who wish to participate but can not attend the meeting and wish to be included in the future, may leave their name and address at the Newton Community Center, Inc., or phone 244-2260. Additional information, etc., may also be obtained prior to the meeting by calling the above listed number.

Creative Art Classes Now Open At Community Center

The Creative Art Program, at the Newton Community Center is now open for registration for elementary school children of all grades. Parents interested in having their children participate in this unusual program should contact the Newton Community Center immediately for information and registration forms. The Center is at 429 Cherry St., West Newton, 244-2260. Registration will close shortly as places are limited.

This program, which emphasizes total involvement of every youngster — intellectual, emotional and sensory, is directed by Mrs. Murray Janower of Newton. The new 13-week sessions will cover different aspects of a basic visual education which was begun this fall. Exciting sessions in puppetmaking, three dimensional space sculpture, mobiles, woodmaking and other media are planned. In addition to a discovery of new materials, and an orientation towards imaginative creation in their use, Mrs. Janower presents a "problem" or "project" each week to the children.

"This method of presentation serves many purposes," Mrs. Janower said. "It stimulates creative thinking and feeling in the children, and it offers more than a sensory satisfaction in the creative experience. Children learn to value their ideas, as well as their finished product."

This past semester we have examined Prehistoric Animals, personalities of people and birds, fingerpainted to music, and tried many other approaches to art which have kept the youngsters challenged and interested.

Classes meet for Grades Kind. and 1 at 1:15, Grades 2 and 3 at 2:15 and open Grades at 3:15 on Tuesday afternoons. These classes will begin on Jan. 30 but registration must be made before that date. Due to the emergency schedule of the Public Schools of Newton, class hours will be changed temporarily to 2:00, 3:00 and 4:00, respectively, for these classes. Normal hours will resume when the Public Schools resume their normal schedule.

Classes meet for children in Grades 3 and 4 at 1:30 on Thursdays, and for Grades 5 and 6 at 2:45. These classes will also operate on an emergency schedule at 2 p.m. and 3:15 p.m., respectively. It should be noted that this, also, is an emergency schedule which will change when the Public Schools of Newton resume their normal scheduling.

There is also a special class for Kindergarten children which will meet on Tuesday mornings from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. This time will remain the same during the emergency period, as it is a class especially for Kindergarten children in the afternoon session of the Public Schools.

Seek Host Families For Foreign Students In '68

The Newton Chapter of The American Field Service is endeavoring to find host families for the foreign students coming to this city this summer for a year's stay and attendance at one of the high schools.

How stimulating and rewarding this undertaking can be is best told by a family performing such a role. The following is a letter from the de Bettencourt family of Sterling street in West Newton who have "adopted" for one year Patricia Chica Avela from Bogota, Colombia.

In both the 20 yd. breaststroke and backstroke events and Edward Smith for the second successive week took first place in the 20 yd. backstroke and second place in the 20 yd. breaststroke events.

In Class C (boys 11-12) team point leader, Greg Paton took second place in both the 40 yd. freestyle and 80 yd. individual medley; Chris Murray took second place in the 40 yd. backstroke event; Charlie Enos, third place in 40 yd. butterfly event; Tom Boyle took first place in the 100 yd. freestyle and third place in the 40 yd. breaststroke; David Jenigen has shown great improvement in the 40 yd. breast and 80 yd. individual medley events.

In Class B (boys 13-15) Andy Morales took second place in the 60 yd. individual medley and third in the 60 yd. freestyle events; Henry Green-side with the introduction of the Hawaiian flag took second place in both the 100 yd. freestyle and 100 yd. breaststroke events; Jerry Prell took third place in the 100 yd. backstroke event.

Newton is now halfway through the season with the squad consisting of the following swim enthusiasts:

Class C — Tom Boyle, Charlie Enos, David Jenigen, Chris Murray, Greg Paton and Glenn Ross.

To the Editor:

"Dear Sir,
We wanted to share with others our very real enthusiasm for the American Field Service student exchange program. We had heard some friends speak about the program and their satisfying experience with their students."

"When we applied to be an 'A.F.S. parent' we were really looking forward to the experience. Our own 17 year old daughter has really been enriched by this warm and wonderful experience. It has been a joy for her to have a 'sister' after growing up with no older brothers."

The girls have interests in common (as American Field Service carefully considers this aspect), but they are also very different and both are profiting by exchanging ideas and learning about each other's backgrounds and life experiences. As a family we have all learned more and can truthfully say that having an A.F.S. student has more than measured up to our expectations."

Our Columbian daughter became a happy member of our family very quickly and we are all very happy to have this opportunity to be a part of the A.F.S. program and would certainly encourage others to try it also. Sincerely yours,

the de Bettencourt family

Public Quizzing Of School Board Suggested By Member

Motions by freshman School Committeeman Alvin Mandell of Ward 8 to amend the Committee's by-laws in order to include a brief period in which the public could question the School Board members at each meeting, and to require the School Committee to meet at five different schools during the course of a year were discussed at Monday night's meeting.

The proposals met with cautious backing from new members Vincent P. Stanton and Richard M. Douglas, but ran into sympathetic opposition from veteran members Francis P. Frazier, Norma W. Mintz, Edwin Hawkrig and Harold J. Berman.

The motion to permit a minimum 10 minute question period was amended by Stanton to permit a maximum 20-minute question period.

The matter was tabled for further study at the next regular Committee meeting in February on the recommendation of School Committee Chairman Manuel Beckwith.

At Beckwith's suggestion the Committee also deferred a vote on any definite requirement to hold meetings outside of its normal meeting place at the old Stearns School but agreed to hold meetings on a trial basis at various sites throughout the City.

Present School Committee by-laws allow the Chairman to permit persons who submit a written request prior to the meeting to address the School Committee. Also, the Committee may hold meetings outside of its normal room, but is under no obligation to do so. One such meeting was held during 1966-67.

Mandell explained his proposals as ways of improving communications with the citizens of Newton.

Committeeman Frazier remarked: "I fail to see the need of the Amendment. I think that the present section allows more. It only requires a written prior notice with no limit set on how much prior to the meeting the notice must be given. It does not set a time limit on a speaker whereas this proposal sets 10 minutes. Persons who wish to address the School Committee should be interested enough to put their request in writing before a meeting."

"To my knowledge," added Committeeman Hawkrig, "no citizen, who submitted a written request, has ever been denied the right to speak. There is also the entire informal method of communications that consists of citizens calling us at our homes. I am concerned by the fact that we have increased the number of meetings."

ingly more work. I am jealous of Committee time. If there is major interest in any subject, 10 minutes will not solve anything. It is better to schedule a special meeting."

"We all share Mr. Mandell's concern," affirmed Mrs. Mintz, "about increasing communication. But it would be the worst kind of public relations to open a meeting to the public and then close it before letting everyone speak."

School Committeeman Berman declared: "I am very sympathetic to the spirit and purpose of both proposals. I think the means suggested are not the best to achieve that purpose. I would urge strongly that any change be held to a policy change which we could experiment. I would like to endorse what Mrs. Mintz said. If discussion is scheduled, it should be a long discussion. It is very easy for members of the public to speak to us. I as chairman had requests submitted just before the meeting; I would like to see this policy better known."

"I see a great many problems," replied Committeeman Stanton, "but I think it's worth a try. The dialogue should be between the School Committee and the public, and not the public's approach to Dr. Brown or the school administration."

Mandell replied that he had no intention of abolishing the existing right to petition to address the School Board. However, he declared, "the people who petition have some specific topic in mind rather than the subjects which may come up in the course of a meeting. I hope the Chairman would not allow the question period to turn into a soliloquy or a filibuster," he added.

Committeeman Frazier declared that he regretted having to oppose Mandell's second proposal which would require meetings to be held throughout the City.

He pointed out that School Committee rules require that meetings be held where the Committee records and rules are near by, and that the normal School Committee room is much more comfortable than a makeshift arrangement for a meeting that may last several hours.

"It doesn't make any difference where meetings are held," Frazier remarked. "People use automobiles to come, and those who want to, can come."

Committeeman Douglas pointed out that there is a difference between permitting meetings to be held throughout the City and requiring it.

No Objections To Request For Oil Storage Bid

A petition by the Marriott Motor Hotel Corp. for permission to store 25,000 gallons of fuel oil in an underground tank at the Norumbega Park location of the new luxury motor hotel was granted by the Board of Aldermen Monday night.

The action was taken following a public hearing at which no one appeared in opposition and at which Lieut. Joseph T. Fitzsimmons of the Newton Fire Department reported that the Fire Department had no objections.

The underground tank will be located in the southwest corner of the site in a parking lot near Commonwealth Ave. In other action the board turned down an offer of $58,341.80 by Capello Bros., Inc. for 291,709 square feet of land on Pine street, Auburndale.

The land is located next to the new Burr School. The School Committee opposed the sale, according to Finance Committee Chairman Winslow C. Auryansen.

Capello Bros., he said, wished to store light trucks and other equipment on the land.

The aldermen also unanimously approved a resolution offered by Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell and co-sponsored by the three aldermen from Ward 8 extending the sympathy of the board and the city to the family of Morris Kritzman who died on Jan. 19.

The resolution said, in part, "Morris Kritzman ably served his community as state representative from the 14th Suffolk District, as New England vice-chairman of the American Jewish Congress and as vice-chairman of the Massachusetts Committee on Discrimination in Housing and Morris Kritzman exemplified in his life and work the principle of true humanity and concern for his fellow man."

Supt. Brown Is Honored Guest At Temple Reyim

Superintendent of Schools Charles E. Brown was honored Sunday morning at a breakfast held by the Brotherhood of Temple Reyim in Auburndale.

Cited for his contributions to Newton through the education of its children, Brown spoke to the Brotherhood on the effect the recent expansion of knowledge has had upon education, as well as the importance of what is being accomplished by contemporary educators.

Brown also affirmed that the importance of education leads him to think that the State and federal government will have to use their revenues to supplement money available to cities and towns from the real estate tax.

Brown urged the City of Newton to try to retain its sense of identity despite rapidly changing social structures.

The School Superintendent added that a major future development will be tailoring education to meet the needs of the individual child and involvement of the community in the education of the children along with the professional staff.

A group of hospitals and related institutions used for teaching and research have grown up in the vicinity of Harvard Medical School and

Leased Housing Is Given Airing Here

The Newton Housing Authority played host to the Newton Real Estate Board at a meeting held in the Parker House Community Room in the local housing for senior citizens.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas was a speaker at the meeting, which was held to acquaint local realtors with the Leased Housing Program and to recruit their support.

The Mayor spoke on City Government, City services and their effect on local taxes.

The leased housing provision permits the local Authority to lease privately owned dwellings for uses of low income elderly families. It has the potential for quickly providing standard housing accommodations for low income elderly families, since it reaches instantly into the existing housing market.

The difference between what the low income family pays and the actual cost of the rent is provided for by Federal Contribution.

By participating in the program the Authority will be able to provide immediate housing for the needy elderly without the delays encountered by new construction programs.

All owners of rental property are urged to participate in the program. Further information on the Leasing Program is available at the Authority office, 21 Parker street, Newton Centre. Tel. 969-8404.

In 1966 a lesser amount of $763,000 was spent in Newton to clear the city streets and municipal areas following storms.

Until January 9 of this year, $291,960 was spent and as of January 17, $392,000 had been spent to rid the city of the white stuff.

Finance Committee Winslow C. Auryansen guessed that if this winter continues as it began, the city will "be lucky to get off with spending $1 million."

The advanced course of studies may be taken at Hebrew Teachers College, the Regional Hebrew High School or at Temple Reyim's Religious School.

Presentation of awards are made at Temple Reyim's Service Committee to encourage greater congregational participation in Sabbath Services.

Families are encouraged to attend Sabbath services as a group on the Sabbath on which the new month is blessed. Following the service the congregation partakes of a simple luncheon sponsored by the Temple Reyim Sisterhood and Brotherhood.

The luncheon is a traditional Sabbath meal complete with Kiddush and the reciting of Grace after meals.

A special appeal to drivers and students to take extra precautions during the remainder of the winter was registered by School Committee Chairman Manuel Beckwith at the Committee's meeting Monday night.

Beckwith joined with Committeemen Edwin Hawkrig and Alvin Mandell in expressing alarm over traffic hazards on icy streets.

Mandell declared that most of the students he has seen were walking on the wrong side of the street with their backs to the traffic.

Superintendent of Schools Charles E. Brown, who pointed out that students seem to like to walk down the middle of the street even in good weather, promised that the emergency schedule in the elementary schools (which hold sessions from 8:15 to 1:15) will end next Monday (Jan. 29), unless another blizzard strikes in the meantime.

Another Letter To Mayor From Police "Step Scale" Raise Now Referred To Committee

A resolution suggesting "step scale" raises for members of the Newton Police Department was referred by the Board of Aldermen Monday night to the Legislation and Rules Committee for study.

The resolution offered by Franchise and Licenses Committee Chairman Harry L. Walen asked that the aldermen recommend that the city administration consider the possibility of raises within a rank based on education and experience similar to the method employed by the School Department for teachers.

At present the only way police officers improve their financial lot is by promotion to a higher rank.

The aldermen's action in referring the matter came with an amendment to Walen's resolution by Alderman William L. Bruce.

Bruce indicated that every matter before the board should be thoroughly studied by a committee and reported out to the board.

Walen said he did not wish to set a time limit on the study but felt that ideas have to be kept alive if anything is to come of them.

Alderman Paul J. Burke reiterated a previous comment that a recent Police Study Committee report contained recommendations to correct the adequate compensation problem.

Finance Committee Chairman Winslow C. Auryansen commented that the timing of the resolution was unfortunate since collective bargaining between Police Dept. representatives and the city regarding possible raises in 1968 are now in progress.

He said news of the introduction of the resolution at the board's last meeting two weeks ago hampered the collective bargaining efforts.

Walen noted that he has been concerned for three or four years with the problem of compensation for police. He said he has seen the problems with which local police have to deal and has observed instances where members of the force have not had the proper training to deal with certain situations.

"I am thinking in long, long terms and of more than just this city," he added.

The Crime Commission which met recently in Washington recommended the "step scale" method of compensation, Walen said.

Another resolution asking the Board of Aldermen to request a public hearing before the Outdoor Advertising Board on the renewal of a permit to John H. Donnelly & Sons for the lighted billboard at 349 Auburn st. was referred to the Franchise and Licenses Committee for study.

The resolution, introduced by Alderman David W. Jackson, also asked that "the office of the City Solicitor be requested to represent the city at such hearing and to record the city through its elected officials as unalterably opposed to renewal of this permit; and further that the city give notice of such hearing to the following persons and organizations: all aldermen, the Auburndale Community Association, the Auburndale Garden Club, the Auburndale Women's Club, the Auburndale Club, Centenary Methodist Church, Corpus Christi Church, Auburndale Congregational Church."

This permit was renewed last year by the state board over Newton's objections.

A bill introduced into the state legislature asking that local communities be allowed to veto permits for billboards they do not want was defeated last year.

A two-day conference on the problem of drug use and abuse will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday at Newton South High School for students, their parents and teachers.

The first session at Newton South High School will be devoted to the showing of films by the Federal Bureau of Drug Abuse Control and by private film makers.

On the second day, representatives from the legal, medical, and ethical fields will discuss the subject with the students at three two-hour assemblies. The program for parents and teachers will be held that evening.

Students, parents and teachers are on the committee planning the conference.

A series of lectures is now in progress at Newton High School under the sponsorship of the Newton Mental Health Association and the school's PTA, to enlighten teenagers to the perils of narcotics, hallucinogens, barbiturates, pep pills, and tranquilizers.

Psychiatrists have volunteered their services and are reaching the student body of the high school by open discussions of fact.

Participating in the series are: Dr. Lester Havens, associate clinical professor of psychiatry, Harvard Medical School; Dr. Robert Masland, associate in medicine and acting chief of the Adolescents' Unit, Children's Hospital Medical Center; and Dr. Norman Zinberg, consultant psychiatrist at McLean Hospital and clinical professor of psychiatry, Harvard University.

He said a program for public health nurses was set up last week. Nurses will report to school principals and then the principals will take it from there.

A small speaking program has already been set up by the Police Department and officers have appeared at several churches and other groups to speak on narcotics.

The Police Department is also vitally concerned with the drug problem. Last fall three Newton police officers attended the Federal Narcotics Bureau's two-week course in Washington, and Capt. William F. Quinn hopes to send more men to take this course — as many as are deemed necessary.

The police department is working with the state and federal authorities in current investigations and is conducting conferences with school principals and other city officials.

Capt. Quinn said the first objective of the Police Department is to determine the size and scope of the problem in Newton. He pointed out he has the greatest obstacles he has to deal with in connection with drugs are: the investigation of rumors, the reluctance of school people to allow police to question a student on the basis of rumor alone, and the fear of police officers of being sued by parents for slander.

Kiddies Photo Display At Two Libraries Here

A group of photographs of children exploring in creative art works is on exhibit this week at the Auburndale and Waban Branches of the Newton Free Library.

The pictures, a joint project undertaken by Newton Community Center Art Director Mrs. Murray Janower and portrait photographer T. A. Rothschild of Somerville, convey the absorption and the joy experienced by the children as they immerse themselves in their art experience.

It is clear from a look at the photographs that the aim of the Center's Creative Art program—that is, the greatest intellectual, emotional, and sensory involvement of the children in the creative experience—is totally attained.

The products of the children's efforts, a highly imaginative group of prehistoric animals made by the junk sculpture method by kindergarten through third graders at the Community Center, is on exhibit at the Newtonville Branch Library.

Mrs. Janower of the Center indicates that a wide range of visual experiences is emphasized: finger and sponge-painting, tissue, fabric, pop art, paper magic, printing, papier mache, stichery, and many more.

The interest of the director and her staff is in more than simple sensory discoveries: it is in the creative thought and feeling processes which motivate the creative expression.

Photographer T. A. Rothschild has been unusually successful in seizing the magic moments of the children enrolled in last terms classes.

Parents who are interested in the classes for the new term will find brochures at the main library in the Newtonville, Auburndale and Waban Branches, as well as at the Community Center.

The photograph and prehistoric animal exhibits will remain on view, with complementary book selections, for about three weeks.
